THE RIGHTEOUS EXALTED — "Now, therefore, let Pharaoh look out a man discreet and wise, and set him over the land of Egypt. . . . And Pharaoh said, . . . Can we find such a one as this, is a man in whom the Spirit of God is?" Gen. 41: 33-38.
PRAYER — O Lord, truly now we know that although many are the afflictions of the righteous, yet the Lord delivereth him out of them all.

HONEST LAW ENFORCEMENT

Conferences of law enforcement officers of Oregon, similar to the one held in Ashland Thursday evening, are certain to be of real and lasting benefit to the officers as well as the public.

Time was — and it is not far distant — when petty jealousies of peace officers in various cities not only hampered efficient and prompt enforcement of the law but aided many times in the escape of dangerous criminals.

So far as officers of Southern Oregon are concerned, the old order has changed, and a spirit of helpfulness and of cooperation is now manifested by all. The get-together meeting here Thursday was an inspiration to all who were privileged to attend. It was a gathering of all branches of law enforcing bodies. The peace officers whose duty it is to suppress crime and apprehend criminals met with the prosecuting attorneys as well as the jurists. Each of these three branches learned of the problems of the other. Each was able to get a better understanding of the exacting work which must be done in the way of cooperation and coordination if satisfactory results are to be obtained.

There was no false friendship in evidence in this conference of officers. Sincerity predominated, and as a result a new era of law enforcement is breaking over the horizon of Southern Oregon. The law enforcement officers are to be commended for their honest efforts to bring about a betterment of conditions and the public is to be congratulated for having the wisdom of placing in office such a type of men who are honestly and conscientiously trying to do their duty.

ABOLISHING LONELINESS

Secretary of Commerce Hoover has made a request for radio sets to give the keepers of the government's 720 light-houses. One can imagine what a wonderful thing these instruments will be for these folks doing their lonely stunt along our shores, and how comforting it will be to hear the cheerful human voices coming over the wastes of sea and sky.

It seems as if loneliness ought to be largely a thing of the past, with this marvelous way of linking up scattered homes with the centers of entertainment and instruction.

FRANKLIN SPIRIT

Men who are named Benjamin Franklin gathered at Chicago January 17, birthday of the original Benjamin Franklin, to honor this great statesman. They have an organization the purpose of which is to increase interest in the great contribution that the original Franklin made to prosperity.

He was greatest of all printers, and some think the most original and penetrating of all American statesmen. He preached untiring industry and perseverance, careful thrift, generous tolerance for differences of opinion. We need those qualities now. Also he was noted for practical common sense, a habit which is gained by close observation of the things that are going on in the world.

Ashland high school's basketball team plays its traditional rival, Medford, on the local floor a week from tonight. Make sure that you are among the Ashland boosters to encourage the home boys to victory.

A large electric sign guiding auto tourists to Lithia Park and the auto camp would be a fine thing for Ashland. It is to be hoped that the chamber of commerce proposal will meet with success.

Even the deer are coming down from the mountains and invading Ashland. With such perfect weather as this you can hardly blame them.

They've finally settled the coal strike. No more news from the Pennsylvania fields now until next fall.

BUCKY HARRIS IS SHREWD MAN

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Feb. 12. — (AP) — In addition to being an astute young baseball manager, Bucky Harris, pilot of the Washington Senators, is one of the shrewdest business men in the major leagues.

After a threat to give up baseball for the real estate business if he didn't get the salary he wanted, Harris recently signed a three year contract for what is said to be worth an aggregate sum of $100,000.

There may be some managers and a player or two who are making dough like that out of baseball but anyone who works Clarke Griffith for such a salary rates some kind of a decoration.

As a manager, Harris has an average of 1000 per cent. In two years, with teams that have been almost outsiders, he has won two American League pennants and one world's championship and has produced 40 per cent in dividends for the Washington stock holders.

Three years ago, after he had tried and fired several managers, Griffith pulled a surprise when he announced that he had appointed Harris as manager of the team.

Previous to that time Harris had been regarded only as a second baseman and not a great one at that.

It was the general opinion that Griffith wanted some one to hold the title of manager, and let him do the managing but it was not long before Harris had proved that Bucky was not willing to be a figure head.

Late in the season of his first year at the head of the club the Senators began to climb and when they started on their last western trip, they were standing for the pennant.

Griffith went along with the club and occupied a box next to the Washington bench. He had suggestions to offer until one day, according to the story told by a prominent American League umpire, Harris got up and told him that his presence would be just as desirable at his hotel and from that time on, Bucky was the manager and boss of the club.

Last winter Harris held out for more money. He had to counter the argument that his first victory might have been the result of luck but he succeeded in getting himself a kick-in-pay.

Again this winter, along with most of his players, Harris held out for another salary boost and Griffith was horrified.

"I'll start the season with a bunch of bush leaguers before I'll give in to them," Griffith threatened. "As far as a manager is concerned, it's easy to get one."

No one took Griffith seriously, of course, because as soon as Harris can find managers like Harris crowding on his heels, and he finally has to give in.

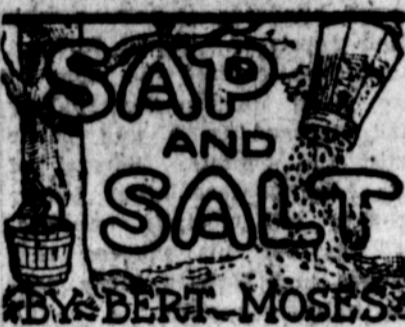

Harris is too good a baseball man to believe that his team is good for many more seasons as it is now, and the bargain that he struck with his boss for a three-year contract is all the smarter.

Fashion had come out strongly the boys this season. Not for the small tailored type, but the voluminous silhouettes that fit in the breasts and better directing on the shoulders proportion. These silhouettes are of chiffon and are to be worn with printed crepe trunks. They may be white or colored, as you will.

MOM AND POP

Stupidity is often mistaken for virtue.

If you can eat, sleep, work and love, what more do you want?

Poor folks are never satisfied with the way rich folks spend their money.

The dimensions of the mind and not of the paunch are what make a "big" man.

Prof. Charles Schuchert was the one who made the discovery.

The Smithsonian Institution, hearing of the professor's find, sent Prof. Charles W. Gilmore out to the canyon and he uncovered a lot more tracks.

When he came back to Washington recently Prof. Gilmore brought several specimens of the footprints with him.

"The tracks," says Prof. Gilmore, "include those of new and unknown species."

"It will now be seen why I had to speak of the animal as a "pteroactyl," from the sheer lack of any thoroughly accurate designation. Even science doesn't know him by his right name."

NEW AIR TRAFFIC TO START MONDAY

BY JOSEPH S. WASNEY
(UP Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12. — (AP) — A new era in commercial aviation opens Monday when Henry Ford, Detroit automobile manufacturer, begins operating two commercial air mail lines, one between Detroit and Chicago, the other between Detroit and Cleveland.

Both routes will connect with the government operated transcontinental line and will speed up mail between the three cities and Detroit and surrounding territory to the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

The first plane will hop off from Chicago for Detroit on February 15, at 8 a. m., and make the trip with a cargo of United States mail in about three hours. The return will start from Detroit at 3:15 p. m.

On the other line the mail plane will leave Detroit at 10:40 a. m., and start back from Cleveland for the home hangar at 2:30 p. m.

Ford will operate the lines for six and three-fourths cents an ounce of mail carried. The government charges 10 cents. But in addition to mail the airships can carry freight and passengers for the contractor's personal profit and the automobile magnate is expected to enter to the public in transportation of merchandise and passengers.

In connection with the event the Post Office has issued a new air mail stamp which will have its first use on the Detroit to Chicago and Detroit to Cleveland lines. The issue is printed in blue ink, the central design represents a map of the United States showing rivers and mountain ranges. On each side of the stamp is an airplane in flight, one traveling east, and the other west. Across the top in white Roman letters are the words "United States Postage" with the words

Water power of the Colorado River will be used. Going to build a big dam and flood countless stills.

If you get a breezy letter, maybe it came by airmail.

Postmaster General New has awarded nine air mail lines to private firms for operation. The start of the Ford routes marks a new epoch in mail transportation that will ultimately shorten the mail line between all the great cities of the country.
