

LAND SETTLEMENT WORK IS DISPLAYING GOOD PROGRESS

The warp and the wool of a land settlement fabric that takes in the entire state of Oregon is now almost woven and the best great sections of the state, namely, Eastern, Central, Western and Southern Oregon, stand combined in a united effort for a greater 1928, so far as the development of idle and unoccupied lands are concerned.

Practically all of the western and southern counties of the state have been organized, and the eastern and central counties are in final process of development.

The Land Settlement Department of the Portland Chamber of Commerce, actively affiliated with the Oregon State Chamber of Commerce, has during the past six weeks in county organizations, in cooperation with the various local chambers, W. G. Ide, manager of the Oregon State Chamber of Commerce, who is directing the activities of the Land Settlement work, has spoken before a number of county meetings, where splendid results were obtained, and Arthur Foster, Land Settlement Field Representative, has practically covered the whole state and will continue for the next ten or fifteen days, at which time it is hoped to have the entire organization of Oregon complete.

Those counties that have already completed their land settlement committees and have begun activities are Klamath, Jackson, Josephine, Linn, Benton, Polk, Clackamas, Yamhill, and Lane. All have appointed new committees with the exception of Lane, which will retain its old committee. Each organization is divided into three groups, the field, appraisal and follow-up committees. The duty of the last named is to call upon the new settlers, make them "feel" at home, and through them get in touch with others who would like to come to Oregon to locate.

The counties that are now completing their organization are Lincoln, Multnomah, Wasco, Hood River, Washington and Columbia. Mr. Foster will go to Central Oregon next week and speak before the Chambers of Commerce and Commercial Clubs of Deschutes, Crook and Jefferson counties; Baker, Union, Umatilla and the other counties in Eastern Oregon have taken their first steps for land settlement organization.

Mr. Ide states that the outlook for land settlement work for 1928 is very much brighter and better than it has ever been and that he expects this to be the banner year. Due to the close cooperation between the state chamber and the various counties, it is believed that a great many more settlers will be brought to all sections of the state. The inquiries from people desiring to come to Oregon are increasing daily in the Land Settlement Department. For the past five weeks they have been averaging fifty a day. Many of these people state that they expect to come here to make their homes.

The tourist season is about to open and the Gateway offices will be established again at both Ashland on the southern and Ontario on the eastern boundary of the state. Mr. Foster will have charge of the Ashland office and will be stationed there after the 22nd of March.

These counties that have already completed their land settlement committees and have begun activities are Klamath, Jackson, Josephine, Linn, Benton, Polk, Clackamas, Yamhill, and Lane. All have appointed

PORTLAND TO HAVE NEW BASEBALL PARK

PORTLAND, Ore., March 12.—Plans for construction of a new baseball park by the Portland Beavers of the Pacific Coast League will be announced before the end of the coming season.

This is the announcement of Thomas L. Turner, who, on behalf of the club, has secured title to a tract of land fronting on Jefferson and Chapman streets.

The property was purchased from Thomas S. Shibe, president of the Philadelphia American League club, who acquired it a little over a year ago.

The tract is within a mile radius of the city's business center.

In making the announcement Turner said:

"I am unable to say when work will start, but will have full information plans and construction before the end of the year. The park when completed will be one that will be a credit to Portland."

Liquid Air Will Cure Poison Oak

CORVALLIS, Ore., March 13.—(U.P.)—Liquid air is a sure cure for poison oak, according to Dr. Floyd Rowl, professor of industrial chemistry at the Oregon Agricultural College.

He warns, however, to be careful of the quantity used, or frostbite will result.

Liquid air, a mysterious super-cold substance, will freeze rubber so that it can be broken like glass, and, unless used with care, is dangerous.

"Starting Out" to Make Your Fortune

Many people have the wrong idea that "starting out to make a fortune" means going away.

That is not so. Wealth does not depend upon geography. You don't have to go outside of Ashland or Jackson County to find plenty of good opportunities.

It doesn't matter so much where a man is as it does the kind of stuff he has in him.

The Citizens Bank of Ashland has found Ashland a pretty good place to grow in. And we have decided to stay here — and grow some more.

Let's grow together.

Woman Challenger Appeals Officers

PENDLETON, Ore., March 12.—(U.P.)—The female of the species is more deadly than the male in this case, according to Frank Rogers, federal prohibition agent.

He reached this conclusion during a raid on a ranch 12 miles from here. When officers tried to enter Mrs. James Doan's home she seized a hammer and started to fight.

While one officer charged, another caught her from behind her back. She had to be handcuffed in order to permit the raid to proceed.
