NUMEROUS ENGLISH ARE BECOMING MOHAMMEDANS

LONDON, April 7.—(U.P.)—“Since the War, Englishmen have been turning Mohammedan at the rate of twenty a month,” according to Khalid Sheldrake, Englishman, converted Mohammedan and Imam of the new Moslem mosque—the third in England—which is rearing its dome and minarets amidst the church steeples of a London suburb.

“At the close of the Great War, the English men and women who had embraced the Moslem faith were a mere handful; today, they number more than three thousand definitely known to us, and the demand for authentic translations of the Koran—the Holy Qur-an, as we call it—clearly indicates widespread interest.” Sheldrake told the United Press. “The true Faith has begun to spread through the Western world.”

“Among well-known English people who have found their spiritual home in Mohammedanism are: Lord Headley, Sir Archibald Hamilton, Bart., Lady Hamilton; Lady Evelyn Cobbold; the late Major General J. B. B. Dickson of the Regular Army; Marmaduke Pickthall, the novelist and Dr. H. M. Leon, the scholar, secretary of the Society of Philology.

“Some have been converted by their travels in Moslem lands; others by the more or less accidental perusal of the Holy Qur-an. Thoughtful women are especially surprised to discover, contrary to the widespread Christian notion, that the Holy Qur-an places woman on a higher plane than either the Old Testament or the New,” Sheldrake explained.

Khalid Sheldrake is a young man bubbling over with energy and humor. He is married and has a daughter; both mother and daughter, he said, are Mohammedans.

“There is nothing in the Qur-an making polygamy compulsory,” he continued. “In Eastern countries where conditions have permitted polygamy, the Qur-an has laid down certain eminently sensible rules for the guidance of that type of family life, but today polygamy is fast disappearing as an institution. The question will soon have only an academic interest.

“Modern women should not forget that Mohamed, at one stroke, abolished the cruel Oriental custom of burying the daughters alive; he praised daughters and raised them, so to speak, to his right hand; one of his quaint remarks is that ‘Whoever does good to girls, it will be to him a curtain from Hell’ and he predicts special blessings upon the good man who takes orphan girls and brings them up with his children.

“We have had a mosque at Woking in Surrey for the past 35 years; more recently another was built at Southfields and now we are taking steps to erect a third in East Dulwich.”

He said he predicts special blessings upon the good man who takes orphan girls and brings them up with his children.

Tired of Progress Measured by Money
CLEVELAND, O., April 9.—(U.P.)—Tired of progress measured in terms of dollars and cents, Dr. Mattoon Monroe Curtis, 68, for 35 years head of the Department of Philosophy at Western Reserve University, is retiring from his professional chair.

“The aesthetic side of life is being wickedly neglected,” he told a group of alumni who gathered to honor him and his accomplishments on his retirement.
“Our college students are being dumped into the hopper of commercialism, and the alumni are aiding in this. To them the finest music, is, as some one has said, ‘no more than the scraping of a horse’s tail over the furs of a cat.’

“I am sick of progress measured by dollars and cents. Money, of course, has value, but after all, it isn’t very important. We neglect the discoverer, the experimenter, the scientist. We honor the commercially successful man.” Dr. Curtis said the thing which hurts him most on retiring, is the failure of his 20-year fight for chains of cultural anthropology and psychology in his university.

JAP JUDGE RESIGNS TO BECOME PREACHER
TOKYO (U.P.)—Gekichi Imazumi, the only member of the Yokohama judiciary to survive the great earthquake, all other judges being killed when the court house collapsed, has just resigned from the bench. He has long been an ardent Christian and has come to the conclusion that the command “Judge not” should be applied literally. He will be a preacher in Tokyo from now on.

One great evil of the radio is that burglars can’t start to work before two or three o’clock in the morning.
