MEN TEACHERS TO DEMAND MORE PAY

BY MINOTT SAUNDERS
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, (UP)—A serious educational conflict has arisen among teachers in English schools by the firm stand of men teachers not to serve under women and not to accept a status of equal salary with women. The women teachers claim equal rights and a sex war that threatens to shake the present school system has been declared.

The fight is between the School-masters' Association and the women's organization which is commonly known as N. U. T., or the National Union of Teachers. The women have been working persistently for a long time, with the result that the men became alarmed and declared open warfare.

The schoolmasters passed a resolution, amid much cheering to any assistant-master serving under a head-mistress, and pledged the association to give full financial support to any member who if called upon to serve under a woman and refuses to do so. They then, in conference, unanimously took a stand of uncompromising opposition to the principle of equal pay for men and women teachers.

The men claim that the duties of men and women teachers are not equal, and not interchangeable. James Kay of Liverpool said:

"The mothers of this country might be assured that teachers wanted many education for the boys. Women are relentless in their efforts to secure equal pay, and the men will have to meet their irrational policy relentlessly."

"One of the strong arguments of the men is that most of them have families to support and that, if the women were granted equal pay, they would not marry, which would be a serious thing for the nation." They pointed out that women would be living on a higher social scale than men teachers.

While the men stand unanimous in their fight, there is some discord in the N. U. T. society. Miss J. C. H. Cowdroy, head-mistress of the Crouch End High School for Girls, commenting upon the sex war, said:

"No man who could afford to pay for his boy's education would allow him to be taught by a woman. I do not believe that women teachers deserve equal pay with men. A class of boys is more difficult to handle than one of girls. During the war many boys suffered because they were taught by women and could not come up to standard when they were later taken over by men teachers."

ducted by questionnaire, show that 550 students are entirely self-supporting, while 311 earn part of their expenses. The questionnaire was answered by 1645 students.

TEAM CAPTAINS TO STAY AT STANFORD

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., April 30.—(UP)—By the narrow margin of 31 votes, the time-honored athletic captain has been saved at Stanford. The students' executive committee—under the doubtless conviction that they were acting according to popular will—abolished the team captain from the field of team captain a purely honor-ary one, not to be filled until the close of the season. They made the post
