Olin Arnspiger and F. M. Carter Leaving for California Tomorrow

COOPERATIVE EFFORT :

Chambers of Commerce Unite in Urging Settlers to Come to Jackson

Weighted down with many pounds of pamphlets and literature of every section of Jackson county, Olin Arnspiger, manager of the Talent Irrigation district, and F. M. Carter of Ashland will leave by auto tomorrow for the Owens Valley district of California in a determined effort to interest farmers of that section in the fertile lands of Jackson county and the Rogue river valley.

The two land agents will remain in the Owens Valley country for 10 days or two weeks distributing literature and talking to farmers who might be prospective settlers in this section.) # They are being sent to California through the cooperative efforts of the Ashland and Medford # chambers of commerce.

Klamath Falls Winding Up Bitter Campaign cm Government Change

RESULT IS IN DOUBT

Mayor Goddard in Strong Race For County Judgeship Nomination

KLAMATH FALLS, Orc., May 20. - (Special)-Klamath Falls voters will go to the polls tomorrow to decide whether or not this city will adopt the city manager form of government, and from all indications the vote will be close, with a record vote forecast because of the bitter campaign which the two lopposing newspapers have waged for the past several weeks.

The city manager campaign as well as the republican primary race for county judge has overshadowed all other satte and county contests, and has resulted in #|bitter factional feeling through-at out the city and county. Mayor Fred R. Goddard, whose # two-year tenure of office has been # a colorful one, is seeking the reat publican nomination for county # judge, opposing R. H. Bunnell, incumbent, and Fred A. Barker, former Klamath Indian agent. It has been a bitter campaign of personalities somewhat reminiscent of the days when Klamath county was engaged in its famous court house fight. Although the opposition is predicting a close vote, friends of the city manager plan of government are confident that the new charter will be adopted by a comfortable majority.
