

ASHLAND DAILY TIDINGS

(Established in 1876)

Published Every Evening Except Sunday by
THE ASHLAND PRINTING CO.

Bert R. Green Editor
George Madden Green Business Manager
W. H. Perkins News Editor

OFFICIAL CITY PAPER Telephone 39

Entered at the Ashland, Oregon Postoffice as Second Class Mail Matter
Subscription Price, Delivered in City

| | |
|--------------------------|--------|
| One Month | $.65 |
| Three Months | 1.95 |
| Six Months | 3.75 |
| One Year | 7.50 |
| By Mail and Rural Routes | |
| One Month | $.65 |
| Three Months | 1.95 |
| Six Months | 3.50 |
| One Year | 6.50 |

DISPLAY ADVERTISING RATES

| | |
|---|---------|
| Single insertion, per inch | $.30 |
| Political, Display, per inch | .45 |
| Yearly Contracts | |
| One insertion a week | .27 1/2 |
| Two insertions a week | .25 |
| Daily insertion | .20 |
| Rates for Legal and Miscellaneous Advertising | |
| First insertion, per 5 point line | $.10 |
| Each subsequent insertion, 5 point line | .05 |
| Card of Thanks | 1.00 |
| Obituaries, per line | .02 1/2 |

WHAT CONSTITUTES ADVERTISING
All future events, where an admission charge is made or a collection taken is advertising.
No discount will be allowed Religious or Benevolent Orders.

COURTESY OF THE ROAD

Courtesy of the road is fairly well observed by drivers of motor vehicles in general.

Occasionally one motorist may meet with discourtesy and an exhibition of boorish manners from another driver, and of course the "road hog" is ever with us. This, however, appears to be the exception.

Courtesy and a prevailing good natured civility appears to be the general attitude of motorists toward each other.

But are we as motorists observing the same courtesy and thoughtful consideration toward the man and woman who walks that we observe toward each other?

Are we trying to make the way of the pedestrian less difficult in crossing busy thoroughfares and congested city streets.

Of course, it is taken for granted that every right-minded driver of a motor vehicle is trying to observe the laws governing traffic regulation and to avoid accidents in every way possible. This he is bound to do, not only out of regard for the laws of the land, and the protection of his fellow citizens, but as a self-protective measure as well.

But are we as careful in the lesser things as we might be?

Many motorists are in the habit of rounding corners, at a fast rate of speed. In doing this, they may be obeying the law if the traffic signals are set for them to go forward. But surely good breeding and courtesy require that they drive a little more slowly in order to allow the pedestrians who are crossing the street at the signal of the traffic officer an opportunity to get across without mishap.

Again in the matter of blowing horns unnecessarily, the motorist often shows a lack of consideration toward those who are walking. How often we notice a driver noiselessly approach a person on foot and then suddenly emit a hoarse "honk", causing that person to jump nervously. This, in itself, is a small matter, but in the case of an old person it is very confusing, and might even lead to disastrous results in the case of a man or woman suffering from a heart of nervous disorder.

When stopping at boulevards, a motorist may greatly assist a pedestrian by making his intentions plain and signaling the person crossing the streets whether to stop or proceed.

EMOTIONAL LEGISLATION

Determined opposition to the enactment of compulsory automobile liability insurance legislation, has been voiced by the American Association, representing 800 motor clubs and over a million motorists.

Percy V. Long, a prominent San Francisco attorney, classes such insurance as "a piece of experimental legislation of an emotional character."

The fundamental aim to be attained by such legislation is reduction of accidents. But will insurance forced upon a reckless driver, tend to make him more careful when he knows that an insurance company or the state will be held responsible for the damage he does?

The insurance advisory committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce, after an exhaustive study of the situation, says that the final responsibility for reduction of accidents rests squarely upon the various communities which, with their police powers, are in a position to enforce regulatory measures.

It is child's play to "pass the buck" for accidents on to insurance companies, whose business it is to pay losses and not act as policemen. It is still more foolish and uncalculated for to launch the state in the automobile insurance business, on the theory that by writing cheap insurance at the expense of the taxpayer, automobile accidents and careless driving will be stopped.

ONE FORM OF BOOSTING

One practical thing we can do to promote the development of Ashland is to talk up the advantages of its retail trade opportunities whenever we can.

When you make a purchase in these stores that please you, and you show it to your friends, be sure to remark that you got it right here in your home town, at such and such a store. If that could become the common practice among the people of Ashland it would be a powerful influence in keeping trade at home, and retaining the city's money for the development of its own institutions and business.

To The Woman Who Appreciates The Modern Method of Cooking

In every home where you find Mazola you can be certain of one thing—it is a home governed by a housewife who understands and appreciates the modern method of cooking.

She knows that Mazola is a pure Vegetable oil—as good and delicious as the corn from which it comes—

That for Frying, Mazola gives her greaseless, easily digested foods—

For Shortening, Mazola is equal to butter in richness—she uses less and it costs less—

And for Salads, she now prefers Mazola to the more expensive imported oils for its uniformity in quality and mildness in flavor.

Your grocer sells Mazola in pint, quart, half-gallon and gallon tins. The larger sizes are, of course, more economical.

FREE: Send for new, beautifully illustrated Cook Book. It contains over 100 recipes for preparing delicious foods. Write: Corn Products Refining Co., Dept. 2, Ashland, Ore.

Enemy: One whose merits make us jealous.

Perhaps: A word meaning "Yes" when spoken by a woman.

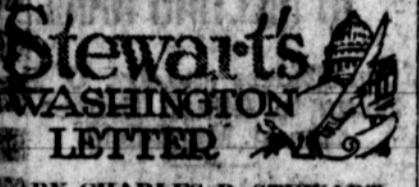

Contentment: One of the good things you can't get rich on.

Honesty: Something that rarely goes up against keen competition.

Words: Symbols that should be expressed verbally when you don't mean it and written when you do.

Genius: A man who gets legal possession of valuable things without using any real money or expending any muscular effort.

Hez Heck says: "If you don't show your success well before awallerin' it, it will 'come up' on you sure."

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—Pity the poor Senators who have to run for reelection this year. For that matter, pity also the poor senatorial candidates who are making their first runs.

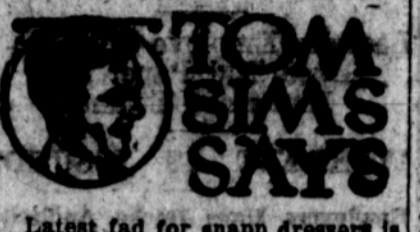

Campaigning for a Senate seat is frightfully hard work. Anticlimactic groans are heard, emanating from the lungs of many a senator, as he packs his suitcase preparatory to going home and plunging into the coming campaign. Right well he knows what's ahead of him.

Senators have this advantage over representatives—a representative has a campaign on his hands every two years, whereas a senator is compelled to go through with one only once in six.

A representative's campaign, however, is limited to a single congressional district. A senator must spread himself over a whole state.

"It nearly kills 'em," as Representative Jim Bland of Ohio recently remarked, "as the 200,000,000 voters who were elected by their respective legislatures, it was different. A senator had to keep a sharp eye on his state, and see that a majority of his kind of legislators got in, but the hurry-burry of the hustling man" for him.

There are quite a few representatives who probably could get senatorial nominations if they'd go after them, and have been urged to do it, but who balk at the horrors of a senatorial campaign.

Latest fad for snapp dressers is two belts, both being worn just above where one should be used.

Mussolini's daughter is in love if Mussolini doesn't change his mind.

Wouldn't it be a great streak of luck if you could convince your face that whiskers are out of style?

Strange things happen every day. The wife of the ex-kaiser denies the rumor that she will get a divorce.

Women are so brave. In Seattle one married a cello player.

ALL WOOL BLUE SAILOR PANTS

ARMY GOODS STORE
Largest Little Store in Town
Opposite New Hotel — Open Evenings

Men Who Are Making America

The plain, everyday Americans who are earning their living with hand and brain and skill these are the men who are making America.

There are no more valuable accounts on the books of the Citizens Bank of Ashland than the rapidly growing hundreds which belong to ambitious men and women of this type.

With them, earning a living is not all. They are providing for the future as well—their own and the future of their families.

We regard it as a privilege to help these earnest-minded citizens to make the most of their lives and opportunities.

The Citizens Bank of Ashland

Ashland, Oregon

Tidings classified do the business

O those haunting, taunting, hot-pipe blues!

THE HOT-PIPE BLUES is now a back number... a dirge of days gone-by. Modern pipes no longer moan, "What'll I do?"... They've changed their tune to "Sweet and Cool," and "Always!"

So if your pipe still gets red-hot, it's a safe bet you're still smoking tobacco that's cut too fine—for finely cut tobacco naturally burns fast and smokes hot... Pipe tobacco should be cut in large, slow-burning flakes.

Try this on your pipe: First, ream it clean, then fill it full of Granger Rough Cut... It'll never get hot again! Notice how slow Granger's large flakes burn... how cool it smokes. Cool as a sea breeze... from morning till night.

Granger ends all your pipe discord. For it's neither sharp nor flat—but smooth and "mellowdious"!... Keep your pipe packed with Granger and life'll be one long, sweet song!

GRANGER ROUGH CUT

The half-pint vacuum tin is forty-five cents, the full-pint package, sealed in an airtight plastic wrapper, is the cent.

Granger Rough Cut is made by the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company

HERE WE GO!

Once More!

Saturday Only

1 DOZ. STRAW HATS AT $1.95

2 DOZ. MENS CAPS AT 50c

2 Doz. Mens Athletic Underwear Suits at 40c

1 DOZ. PAIR GOOD SHOES AT $1.50

1 DOZ. PR. GOOD TROUSERS AT $2.25

SOX, 3 PAIR FOR 25c

MILLER'S TOGGERY

"Hab-a-dash-Inn"