Black, navy and dark shades are almost disappearing as warm weather creeps on. Pastel shades rule for play and evening wear. Claret and wine shades are the newest to appear in smart Fifth Avenue shop windows. One can hardly describe the new wine shade since it has a rose hue that is indescribable in its loveliness. Satin dress of this shade and felt or velour hats are conspicuous in the better class shops.

Readiness. ALL over the then-known world the runners and mounted messengers of ancient Assyria bore the decrees and edicts of their rulers. Trained for fleetness and endurance, these message bearers of a vanished empire stood at their posts, stripped for the task, prepared for instant dispatch of whatever was given them to speed to distant points. The universal message bearer now is the telephone. Its nationwide range has come about through a far-flung system of wires, cables, switchboards and supplementary apparatus. Through the cooperation of a vast army of men and women it daily transmits the thoughts and desires of millions. It is because of unceasing inspection, watchfulness, coordination and all else that makes for instant readiness that Americans today, anywhere, can talk to one another, any time.
