SWIMMING

This is the season when swimming takes its place as the leading out-of-door sport. Swimming is the most healthful and by far the most refreshing of sports. Few persons, however, attempt to acquaint themselves with the sanitary environment of the water in which they swim. When in doubt, it is a wise rule to stay out of the water. Swimming places in streams should not be exposed to the discharge of raw sewage. The presence of garbage, refuse or waste is evidence of contamination sufficiently great to warrant the exclusion of bathers.

The water in artificial pools should be kept as pure as possible by filtration, sterilization and change, or by a combination of these processes. Every person should refrain from entering the water when he is not well. A common cold, a skin eruption, an inflammation of the eye, ear, nose or throat, or fever should be sufficient to deter a person from entering a swimming place.

When a swimmer comes to a realization that the prevention is a matter of mutual concern, just that soon will pink eye, sinus infection, and other disagreeable and serious infections be greatly reduced in number. The practice of spitting into the water is reprehensible. Care should be taken not to pass water into or out of the mouth or swallow. The fluid less intestinal infection occur. It is well for both men and women to wear rubber caps which will prevent the entrance of water into the ears. This simple precaution may prevent inflammation of the middle ear. It is best not to enter the water when overheated. Failure to observe this rule may cause cramps. Then too it is unwise to swim until two hours after eating. Every one who swims should know how to protect himself while in the water, and also be familiar with life saving methods. Diving in shallow water, unnecessarily long swims beyond reach of assistance, and swimming beneath objects are acts of poor judgment. Swimming is a sport to be encouraged, because of its value as exercise and diversion. A casual swimmer soon discovers unused muscles and finds himself breathing more deeply than has been his custom. It is an exercise not limited to age, being available to the elderly as well as to the young. Provided you have no organic impairment, it reacts well to the hardy exercise of the bowels.

To the mentally and physically tired, swimming acts as an extirpator of fatigue products, planting in their stead a feeling of well-being and exhilaration. It is distinctly a sport worth cultivating.

CONSUMER PAYS IT ALL

Who pays the railroad taxes? Naturally, the traveling public and the shippers.

Who pays the general taxes? The railroads, business and the people.

Who pays all the taxes which are paid by the railroads, business and industry? The workmen and the average citizen who comprise the bulk of the population in this country. They rent the houses, eat the food, wear the clothes and burn the fuel on which all taxes must be collected at some stage during production and distribution. Just because you happen to get no tax statement, don't get the idea that you do not pay a tax bill.

The railroads are at present engaged in an effort to reduce their taxes just as is all other business. Nineteen-twenty-five was the fifth year since 1919, in which the railroad taxes have materially exceeded railroad dividends. In 1925 our telephone system paid a total tax of $5.04 on each telephone. Proportionate amounts were collected from the public by other utilities and industries.

Almost 40 per cent of national expenditures, 20 per cent of local expenditures and about 10 per cent of state expenditures are now required, simply to pay interest and amortization on existing public debts.

The vote of the day laborer has just as much weight as the vote of a bank president in increasing or decreasing measures and laws which add to the burden of taxation and thereby permanently increase the cost of living. The tax question is everybody's question, for the ultimate consumer pays every penny of the tax bill.

Give me the man who does his duty because he enjoys it and not because he does it to get more money.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTERS

BY CHARLES E. STEWART
NBA Service, Writer

WASHINGTON just before the Congressional primaries began, a few weeks ago, Representative Henry Allen Cooper of Wisconsin, the oldest member, in point of service, in Congress, told me that Congresses of today are liberal as compared with the first one he came to in 1893, but that money power in politics probably is greater now than ever before in history.

Now I know what he meant. He meant, for instance, Pennsylvania.

He meant Illinois, if Senator Caraway's charges of corruption in the Republican Senatorial primary there are made good.

He may have meant other places, too. We shall see, as Senator Jim Reed's slush fund investigating committee goes on with its "probe."

Representative Cooper's account is that we've progressed in the 33 years since he first was a congressman, but what he's afraid of is that money will gain control and shut us back the way we came.

General legislators, like Cooper, are very much pleased with the Pennsylvania situation and with what they think the bill means. They are not very much pleased with the evidence of crookedness, of course, but their impression is that crooked capital has overcome itself and will have to stay under cover for a long time to come.

There was a Lorimer scandal and a Newberry scandal and they didn't prevent the present ones, but they were individual scandals and only counted as such. This time there's a prospect of a big batch, all at once.

You can always count on P.A.

THERE'S something very solid and substantial about Prince Albert. Dependable... as a good friend should be. Uniformly mild and mellow. It always tastes the same—which means that it always tastes great! The reason for all this is the excellent quality of the tobacco.

Prince Albert quality has made this one brand the most popular among pipe-lovers; has earned for it the title of the National Joy Smoke. Get yourself a tidy red tin of P. A. today at the nearest P. A. sunshine shop and know for yourself what a grand end glorious smoke it is.

The very first pull will tell you that Prince Albert was made for you. Cool, as a breeze off the water is cool. Sweet, with the uncloying sweetness of sun-ripened fruit. Fragrant, as flowers are fragrant. Fragrant in the tin and fragrant in the bowl of your pipe.

Men who thought they were all set on smokes have tried Prince Albert and become converts from the very first puff. There's a bare possibility that you have been fooling yourself. The pleasure you'll get from a jummy pipe and P. A. will top any you think you're getting now!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pressed and half-pressed tin bundles, and pound crystalline bundles with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of tin and bundle reserved by the Prince Albert process.
