Avoid Poorly-Balanced Breakfasts

Quaker Oats supplies excellent "food balance"
If you feel tired, hungry, "fidgety," 1 hour before lunch, don't jump to the conclusion of poor health. You may have unenergetic mornings because your breakfasts lack certain important food elements.
To feel right, you must have a well-balanced, complete breakfast ration. At most other meals—lunch and dinner—you get it. But breakfast is a hurried meal, often badly chosen.
Thus Quaker Oats, containing 16% protein, food's great tissue builder, 58% carbohydrate, its great energy element, plus all-important vitamins and the "bulk" that makes laxatives seldom needed, is the dietetic urge of the world today.
It is food that "stands by" you through the morning. Don't deny yourself the natural stimulation this rich food offers you.
Get Quaker Oats today. Grocers have two kinds: Quick Quaker, which cooks in 3 to 5 minutes, and Quaker Oats.

Sunday School, 10 a. m. preaching at 11 a. m. class meeting 12 N., preaching also at 8 p. m. prayer meeting Thursday evening at 8.

Epworth League
"Give us our daily bread."
What is this but asking for that food which feeds both body and soul. Nourishment for the whole man. When we ask God to forgive us our sins we also promise to forgive others. And when we petition to be delivered from temptation by our works and the sources of evil from our environments. In other words Christ challenges us to answer our own prayers. Topic for next Sunday is "Christ's Conception of Prayer."

radio. During the inflation period, no broadcasting stations existed, because economic and political anarchy would have turned the radio to their own uses. Any one who then built himself a set to listen in on French or English stations was subject to a harsh penalty.

With the stabilization of currency and the subsequent political consolidation all this changed rapidly. Almost overnight, Berlin and a few other large cities erected broadcasting stations which soon won enthusiastic clientele. Other, smaller, cities built relay stations most of which transmit the Berlin program.

Today there are close to 1,500,000 licensed radio sets in Germany, their number growing at the rate of several thousand a day.

Of these, approximately 70 percent are crystal sets, the rest valve sets of varying capacity. There are also a number of freebooters of the air, who evade the monthly license fee of half a dollar. Confiscation of their sets and heavy fines are the punishment meted out to these pirates, when they are found out by the special detectives of the postal authorities.

Corresponding to the rapid growth of broadcasting, the programs evolved from crude to nicely balanced selections. From the accompaniments to the daily dozen in the early morning hours to the final "Deutschland ueber Alles" at midnight, there is almost continuous transmission.

Naturally music plays a large part. Most of it is classical, but sometimes also the strains of a jazz-band are wafted through the ether. All classical music is usually preceded by an introduction telling the audience how to appreciate the mysteries of Beethoven, Haydn or Gluck. During certain nights the productions of the State Opera House are broadcast.

Sandwiched in between Kultur numbers are topical talks on many subjects ranging from the course of the planets to the soul-problems of Ibsen's characters and How to Exterminate Cockroaches. Although the authorities bar all not strictly non-controversial topics, occasionally politics creep in, nevertheless. Thus a recent discourse on "Germany's lost Colonies" reflected the growing sentiment in favor of a return of at least part of the colonies and was presumably endorsed by the radio censor.

The most outstanding feature, however, is the aerial language. The subjects taught are Esperanto, French and English, the latter preponderating. These lessons are broadcast from the Berlin station and its relays. It is estimated that there are at least a million sets within range of these stations and thus three times a week, men, women and children clap receivers on their heads and imbibe English sounds, English grammar and, incidentally, English ideals—all dispensed by an English university professor.
