THE MILLION DOLLAR LEGACY

What will Jackson county do with the million dollars it will shortly receive from the federal government as a result of the passage of the Stanfield tax refund bill? Will the money be spent in the construction of new intra-county highways? Will it be utilized in the construction of a fine new court house? Will some other project equally as desirable benefit from this sudden accumulation of money?

We would rather think the county officials in whose custody this large sum of money is placed will follow the suggestion of W. H. Gore as voiced at the banquet in his honor here Tuesday night. He believes that the money should be used in liquidating present outstanding debts of the county.

Good roads, of course, are desirable and necessary. So, too, is a new court house, either at Jacksonville or Medford, according to the will of the voters next November. The money might be used for either of these laudable projects and thus save the taxpayers any extra burdens.

But The Tidings believes that the county officials who will be called upon to distribute this money should give careful thought to the consideration of those who have paid the taxes during the past ten years or so, and whose taxes would have been lighter had these Oregon and California railroad land grant lands remained on the tax rolls.

This money from the federal government is a tardy payment to the taxpayers of that which is rightfully theirs. By reason of the loss of this tax money over a period of years, property owners have been compelled to assume an extra burden to take care of the financial needs of the county.

If this million dollars were now used in liquidating present outstanding debts against the county, it would be nothing more than justice for those who have borne this added burden. It is their rightful legacy and as such it should be carefully and wisely disbursed.

If, as has been suggested, the money should be spent for some new highway or a new court house it would place an unjust burden on those who have carried on during the past decade. The Tidings believes Mr. Gore's plan is eminently fair and just. Use this money to clean up present outstanding debts, and then if new roads are to be constructed and a new court house is to be reared, float new bonds for the work in order that those of a future generation may pay their proportionate share.

It's a fine thing to wake up and find that you have inherited a million-dollar legacy over night. But we should not let this sudden flare of prosperity turn our heads. It may be a bit slow at times but the safest plan always is to keep in the middle of the road.

CLEAN SPORTSMANSHIP

The management of the Ashland baseball club is to be commended for summarily releasing one of its players who disobeyed training rules and neglected to keep himself in condition for the best that was in him on the baseball field.

When baseball was revived here last spring, The Tidings assured the fans of Ashland that baseball would be kept on a high plane; that clean sportsmanship would prevail, and that the people of Ashland would have nothing to be ashamed of, whether the team won or lost.

This assurance thus far has been fulfilled and will be carried out until the end of the season, we are informed. The loyal financial and moral support of Ashland's baseball fans has made possible the present success of the team. The club management is showing a splendid spirit in keeping faith with those who made baseball possible.

Two hundred million dollars are spent annually for soap, and still we wonder how so many folks missed getting theirs.

His Masterpiece

Many a man wears old clothes because he doesn't owe for new ones.

If you never have any troubles you never know what it means not to have any troubles.

Speeding Autoist Declared Insane

Salem, Ore., July 29.—The contention of many sane-minded citizens that speeders are crazy received official recognition here when Carl B. Montgomery, arrested for speeding, was committed to the state hospital for the insane.

ENGLISH WORKING GIRL IS GROWING PRETTIER

LONDON, (UP)—London's working girls are yearly growing beautiful. According to Sir Thomas Legge, Senior Medical Inspector of Factories, the last 20 years have shown a marked improvement in the beauty of the English working girl. He attributes the improvement to an open air life, more exercise and higher wages.

"In the last factory visited," he said, "I noted that 72 percent of the girls were good-looking—of the Roswell Burn-Jones or Greek type—28 percent were average looking and none at all were bad looking.

The change in health is remarkable. Twenty years ago, records showed 30 to 35 percent of the working girls were anaemic. Today the figure is five per cent."

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTER

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON — With the final though belated, adoption of the roll collar, on coats and overcoats, the United States army at last has evolved as comfortable a uniform as has any army in the world.

The soldiers' convenience hasn't been the sole consideration, in American history, in dictating what the nation's fighting men were required to wear.

True, most wars—not only ours but others that we've watched from the side lines—have brought modifications in the color and cut of our military raiment. Many another change, however, has been purely a matter of some new style—of no more real utility than the bustle had. Fighting in Cuba and Philippines introduced khaki. There were two reasons why. The Revolutionary musket had but a 100-yard range. Even the Civil War weapon carried only four times that far. At such distances protective coloring didn't count. If a man was close enough to hit he was close enough to see, no matter what colors he wore. But how ranges are much greater and the soldier had an object in fading into his background. The neutral-tinted khaki gave him some chance to do it. Also, the dark blue of the earlier uniform was absorbent of the sun's rays, and, therefore, for tropical warfare, too hot.

What a "drag" will do

A DRAG on your jimmy-pipe, loaded to the guards with Prince Albert, will give you an entirely new idea of how good a pipe can taste when you put it on the proper diet. It will revise all your notions about the grand old pastime of pipe-smoking. Make the test!

This very day, get yourself a tidy red tin of P. A. and tuck a lead into the business end of your pipe. Light up and pull that wonderful smoke up the stem. Notice how cool it tastes, whether you feed it fast or slow. Notice how sweet and mellow it is. Good old P. A.!

When you open the tin, the aroma that greets you is richly fragrant... the breath of real, honest-to-goodness tobacco. An aromatic promise of the smoke-pleasure to come. You'll never forget that taste when you light up. Nothing else is like it anywhere.

No matter how satisfied you think you are, give P. A. a whiff in your jimmy-pipe. Millions of smoke-happy men will tell you that P. A. will give you more pleasure to the cubic inch than any tobacco you ever smoked. There's a P. A. sunshine-shop just across the way!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, round and half-pound tin hum-dors, and round cigarette tins furnished with sponge-moistener tip. And always with every bit of tin and pouch removed by the Prince Albert process.
