CECIL B. DEMILLES
The Volga Boatman
LUXURY, poverty, love, hate, the bitter strife of hungry mobs, the sublime courage of high born men and women who faced death unflinchingly, a Princess who loved a boatman and dared to heed the urgings of her own soul — these are some of the human emotions deftly woven together by Cecil B. DeMille in the making of the most romantic photoplay presented on the screen in many years.
