EPWORTH LEAGUE
"Every person whose toll contributes to the necessities, comforts, and luxuries which we enjoy, works for us. 'Among the perils they must meet—is the peril of possessing no property rights in the work which they do. They are also beset by the peril of insecurity of their job. They are frequently segregated socially as certain races are segregated. The result is that folks that need the fellowship of you and me and our beautiful churches, with their inspiring music and capable leadership, are preyed upon by commercial recreation; and habits and attitudes of life that dwarf life instead of developing it to its highest point are formed. Is it not a challenge to our Christian conscience to help face and answer the question, How can I help to better the condition and lives of the people who work for me?"

Next Sunday: "The Folks Who Work for Me—the Perils They Meet." Graydon Crews, leader.

Last Tuesday witnessed one of the best outdoor socials that the Leaguers have enjoyed for some time. It was a hay-rack ride and picnic dinner combined. They left the Church at 6:30 and by traveling along the Valley View road for some time, they reached a desirable place to spread the "pot-luck" dinner. When everyone had eaten his fill, the merry crowd journeyed on—returning home by way of Talent. Stories and songs made the ride interesting. Almost 30 enjoyed the affair.

Church of the Brethren Cor. Iowa St. and Mountain Ave.
Invites you to their services.
Sunday School at 10 o'clock.

Weiss, a young minister of Portland, under 20 years of age has League meet in the evening at 7 o'clock.
