MINIATURE PLANES ENTERED IN MEET

LYMPNE AERODROME, Hy-Kent, Eng., (UP) — The world's greatest light aeroplane competition for cash prizes totaling $25,000 will open here tomorrow. It is one of the most exacting light plane competitions in that the winner of the first cash prize of $15,000 will be required to maintain a sustained performance of daily flying — rain or shine — between now and next Friday, every other day over a different course from 212 to 373 miles in length for a total distance of approximately 2,000 miles.

The same aeroplane and engine must be used throughout the competition, but certain minor repairs will be permitted the contestants without disqualification. The first prize will go to the light plane that during the six days of the competition carries useful load per unit of fuel consumed. All machines however will be required to maintain an average speed of at least 50 miles an hour, and each will be required to carry a load including pilot and passenger of not less than 340 pounds.

In addition prior to actual participation in flights the owner of each machine was required to give a demonstration of the practicability of the machine from the point of view of private ownership. This involved the dismantling of the machine, housing it in a shed not more than ten feet wide and ten feet high, its removal from the shed and reassembly in a time for the whole process not to exceed an hour.

The competition marks a new departure in defining the limits of light aeroplane construction in terms of engine weight instead of engine horsepower. Heretofore it has been customary to define a light aeroplane as an aeroplane with an engine of not more than 1,000 cubic centimetres cylinder capacity, which developed approximately 20 horsepower. In the present competition the only limit on the engines is their weight, which it is specified shall not exceed 170 pounds.

Great stride have been made in the past year in the construction of light engines and the promoters of the competition expect that before its close several new world records for light aeroplane performance will have been established. The money for the prizes is being put up by The Daily Mail of London, with a view to the ultimate development of a light airplane that is safe, economical, that can be housed in a small space and that can readily be handled on the ground by one or at the most, two men.
