THE SHOW MUST GO ON

The above slogan was the invention of Old John Robinson, one of America's greatest circus managers, the esprit de corps of the whole organization.

This sentiment was drilled into the mind of every performer and employe — there was a date at the next town where the entertainment must be pulled off without fail.

A cyclone might prostrate the main tent, trains might be wrecked, lions, tigers, elephants or the monkey cage might mire down in bad roads, but "the show must go on," and meet every engagement.

Just so with our country and its institutions. There will be storms and some of the wild animals in the political menagerie break loose, but all important functions of the great show called Government under the Constitution, must go on.

Congress, the Supreme Court, the federal and state institutions and departments of government must perform their parts in the program of self-government by the people, for the people and of the people — the show must go on.

None of the important features on the regular program demanded by the American people can be missed or will be omitted at any date ahead where Uncle Sam has billed his continuous performance — the greatest and best show on earth.

INCREASING THE TAX LOAD

Oregon has printed and mailed to all voters, 350,000 booklets containing 104 pages of bills, amendments and referendums to come before the people in November. The cost will run into thousands of dollars.

Securing signatures for initiative petitions has become a regular business.

That the people are beginning to rebel against this type of legislation is shown by their increasing tendency to vote "no" on nearly all measures. The expense of elections, however, piles up, and it is safe to say that it will continue to increase as the interest of the voter lags on account of being swamped with contradictory statements and a multiplicity of candidates and measures.

Oregon, which is a small state in population and where political operations are honestly administered, is a good example of the cost involved in primary elections. It has been shown that in many country districts, the election expense to the state alone runs over $1 a vote. This does not include the expense of candidates or of measures submitted to the people by their proponents.

Is it any wonder taxes pile up? Practically every law passed requires tax money forever more. Unless there is some way of checking this flood of legislative activity taxes can only increase.

PERMANENT LUMBER INDUSTRY

How to tax cut-over lands has been a serious problem. Clearly, the lands are of little worth; but school and other obligations have been incurred, with these lands as security, and the taxes must be raised. This often results in a ruinous rate of taxation, so that cut-over lands are usually a liability rather than an asset. Some states allow owners to deed the lands to the state, which in many cases they do gladly. But that means a form of state operation or paternalism that most Americans view with suspicion, and the state gets no taxes at all.

A new idea is developing to the effect that forests are a potential, growing crop with a 60-year harvest period. Only nominal taxes should be imposed instead of the present yearly tax, which compounded for 60 years in Oregon, as an example, would exceed the total sale price of the timber if it all grew without loss or other expense, such as interest, fire protection and insurance. Oregon will be asked to consider a new tax rate to be applied only to lands dedicated to forestry; the owners keeping the title unimpaired, but guaranteeing to grow forests in view of the tax reduction. A crop tax would be imposed when the crop is harvested.

Given a fair chance, private owners can and will grow forests. Under a law as proposed, reforestation would become a practical reality and the lumber industry would be established on a permanent basis.

It's the frailties of our neighbors that make life interesting.

PRIMARIES IN FOUR STATES ARE ON TODAY

LANING, Mich., Sept. 14.—(UP)—Michigan electors were to decide today whether to honor or the claims of Governor Alex J. Groesbeck to a fourth term in office against the objections of dozens of politicians who were formerly his friends.

Opposed to him in the primary contest is Fred W. Green, mayor of Ionia, Mich., who is backed by many former members of the Groesbeck organization as well as avowed "insurgents." The governor, in the campaign which closed last night, broke his precedent by making a state-wide stumping tour and declared he was confident of victory. Green's friends are equally certain that their combined influence and a steady campaigning will overcome the governor's admittedly large personal following.

National Issues
While Governor Groesbeck's frequent brushes with the Washington administration during the last few years have been mentioned slightly by his opponents, the outcome of the state primaries today will be little indication of attitude of the voters toward national affairs because of failure to stress the situation during the campaign. Senator Jas. Couzens, Michigan's "insurgent" member of the upper house of the national legislature, refused to take an active part in the fight.

Aside from the gubernatorial race little interest in the primary contests is manifest in most sections of the state. Incumbent congressmen in half a dozen districts are unopposed for the republican nomination, which is generally equivalent to re-election.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Sept. 14.—(UP)—With Porter H. Dale unopposed for his seat in the United States Senate, interest in today's primaries centered upon a three-cornered contest for the republican nomination for Governor.

President Coolidge's native Vermont was to have been the scene of a lively senatorial battle, but the sudden withdrawal

Three in Race
Today's gubernatorial contest has aroused more than ordinary interest throughout the state because there are three candidates instead of the usual two in the race. The aspirants are Lieut. Gov. Walter K. Farnsworth, Judge John E. Weeks and Max Powell, and the main issue concerns the question of bonding as a means of raising funds for highway improvements.

Herbert Cummings of Richmond, democratic candidate for governor, is unopposed in the primaries.

In the second congressional district, Martin S. Vilas of Burlington, endorsed by the Vermont branch of the American Federation of Labor, will seek to unseat Congressman E. H. Brigham of St. Albans.

From Medford—
Mrs. O. O. Parker of Medford, is in Ashland today undergoing medical treatment.

Will Go To Seattle—
Miss Mary Josephine Kelly of Washington, D. C., who has been visiting at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Tony France on 3rd street, will go to Seattle next Sunday to visit and will then return to her home in the East.

Left for Corvallis—
Oral Robbins, who has been in Ashland for some time playing on the ball team, left today for Corvallis where he will attend O. A. C. this coming year. Robbins will be a Junior.

If a child doesn't like oatmeal, win over with famous "Quaker Flavor"

THE reason some children don't eat their oatmeal without urging is that they're not given the right kind.

There is a great difference in the flavor of oats. And flavor, above all things, is needed to win a child's appetite.
Quaker Oats has a unique flavor; a rich and toasty flavor you'll find in no other brand. That is why millions will accept no other kind.
Quaker milling, too, retains much of the "bulk" of oats—which makes laxatives less often needed. Protein, carbohydrates, minerals, vitamins and this "bulk" make Quaker Oats an excellent food balance.
Today, get Quick Quaker (cooks in 3 to 5 minutes), or regular Quaker Oats as you have always known them. Grocers have both kinds.

LOCAL FISHING MAN MAKES GOOD RECORD

A. Bert Freeman Has Trapped Hen With Good Laying Standing

A. Bert Freeman, local poultryman, reports an excellent performance by one of his flock of trapped hens. This hen, although three years old, averaged nearly 27 eggs per month for the period from March to August, inclusive.

Comparison of this record for the three years showed the following: first year, 145 eggs; second year, 147 eggs; third year, 1.6 eggs for the corresponding six months. This hen's first-year record was 271 eggs. She was bred from stock with records from 250 to 350 eggs.

This exceptional vigor and persistent laying is given by Mr. Freeman as being due to the high quality of stock back of the hen. This hen's daughters are laying 276 eggs their first year.
