WASHINGTON
BY CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—A high powered car from one of the foreign legations here ran into a poor old Washingtonian of nearly 80 the other day, as he was filtering along R street, and killed him.

All accounts agree that it was an inexcusable accident.

If anything but a "diplomatic car" had been responsible for it, in all probability the driver would face charges of manslaughter.

But a diplomat can get away with anything.

He simply flashes his diplomatic card, claims "diplomatic immunity," gets the police salute, and that ends it so far as he's concerned.

"Diplomatic Immunity" is recognized the world over.

The theory is that a diplomat isn't subject to the laws of the country he's accredited to. No especial exception is made in his favor in the statute books, but it's international usage.

If a diplomat does something that positively can't be tolerated, his home government can be asked to recall him, but he must not be punished by the one whose guest he is.

Even the most barbarous people feel terribly mortified if anything unpleasant befalls a foreign envoy who has trusted himself in their midst. Hate him though they may, they must guard him like a million dollars while he's with them in his official capacity.

The diplomatic corps in Washington is made up of responsible folk in the main.

They don't take advantage of "diplomatic immunity" to commit burglary, arson and murder. A few of them have been suspected of holding prohibition in rather light esteem, but it's a traffic law offenders that they're the biggest nuisance.

FANS ARE WAITING FOR BIG BOON

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—This third largest city in the United States has become the dirtiest in the world.

Even the usually self-contained Tex Rickard, with his poker face and inevitable stogie, has lost his poise and succumbed to the universal excitement over the outcome of the world's heavyweight championship fight. Betting is dull but speculation is lively.

The hotels, overwhelmed with unprecedented demands for accommodations, have become completely demoralized. Reservations go unhonored while beds for the week are hawked about at extraordinary premiums.

In the lobbies, on the station platform, up and down the sidewalks, the city's populace and visitors talk nothing but fight. Practically all the reserved seats for the fight have been sold—and many of them re-sold and everyone now is figuring on how to reach the Sequoi-centennial grounds in time for the fracas. Last-minute attempts will be made by those otherwise financially interested to prevent the bout being held.

Tex Rickard, recognizing the symptoms, and being wise in the game of fiatcuifa, already has taken care of one B. C. Clements, who came on from Chicago with the idea of interrupting proceedings on behalf of the Coliseum club, which attempted to stage a fight between Dempsey and Harry Wills. Clements talked of going to court, but a gesture from Tex Rickard apparently has fixed that matter.

Far from the maddening crowd, the principals in the fight are putting the finishing touches on their training. The champion, dodging process servers and other nuisances at Jersey City has announced that he is through with active training. Up in the hills of Stroudsburg, Gene Tunney, the challenger, is taking his whirl at secret training.

As for Jack Dempsey, he is working himself up into a state of rage, which he considers appropriate for the occasion, due to the importunities of sheiff, process servers, lawyers and others whose one desire is to worry the champion out of whatever money he will relinquish.

Gene Tunney retains his composure. He talked with the United News correspondent over the long-distance telephone and didn't split an infinitive.

"Tell them I'm not worrying. I know I'll win," quoth Gene. "Jack Dempsey never will be able to overcome the handikap of three idle years."

Western Canada Will Play Rugby

VICTORIA, B. C., Sept. 22.—(UP)—Western Canada, in previous years not considered in the Dominion rugby championships is going to get an opportunity to participate this year, according to plans of the Canadian Rugby union.

Vancouver and Victoria clubs have applied for affiliation with the Western Canada union, which will enable the winning British Columbia team to compete against the winner of the Edmonton Calgary teams, and in turn the winner of this sectional series would meet the champions of the Manitoba-Saskatchewan districts.

YACHTING HISTORY REVIVES INTEREST

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 22.—(UP)—The first American yacht was built ten years after the first English vessel of this type and both were characteristically Dutch, according to an article written 30 years ago by Lieutenant J. D. Jerrold Kelley, U. S. N., recently produced here.

Revival this year of yachting interest adds considerable value to the articles by Kelley which are termed among the most authentic on the sport.

Lieutenant Kelley said the first yacht ever launched in American waters was built upon Manhattan island in the spring of 1614 by early Dutch settlers. "She was christened Ormus meaning the Restless and was constructed from timber from trees growing along the shore. It was 44 feet in length and 11 feet, 8 inches in beam, proportions unmistakably Dutch," Kelley wrote.

"In England, yachting dates from 1604 when Henry, Prince of Wales, had a pleasure craft built by the master constructor, Phineas Pett, to whom the English navy owed so much of its success in the reign of the early Stuarts. The idea was originally taken from the Dutch," Kelley wrote.

"The first actual knowledge of a yacht race is known to have been a race held in 1661 by the Dutch East India company. It was a match between King Charles' pleasure craft, and a yacht belonging to the Duke of York," the article stated.

JACK DEMPSEY AND GENE TUNNEY NEARLY EXACT SIZE

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)
NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(UP)—Jack Dempsey, in actual dimensions, hasn't a marked physical advantage over Gene Tunney with the exception of the most important weapon of the fighter—his hands.

The champion not only has a larger but a much sounder hand than Tunney and the rugged fist of Dempsey which he used to like to call "Iron Mike" before he became socially inclined, may be an important factor in the fight.

It is certain that Dempsey will not break his hand during a fight but it is not at all sure that Tunney will not break or hurt his hands because they have been broken and hurt before.

A Body Puncher
Tunney is primarily a body puncher. He wasn't in his early days. He says he believes body punching is more effective, but the truth is that he knows a punch to the body doesn't break hands as punches to the head and jaws do.

When he was mustered out of the Marines, Tunney became a new fighting sensation in Newark and Jersey City. Boxing was not permitted in New York then and the fans had to take the tubes for the sport. Tunney attracted attention by knocking over a string of good second raters and trial horses and was being discussed then as a prospective champion.

Bigger Forearm
Dempsey also has a bigger forearm and more power in it than Tunney has. Dempsey's most powerful punches are short hooks. You read often of punches that don't travel more than six inches. That is an exaggeration, although it does carry the suggestion. Dempsey hits from his side—that is, he keeps his hands in front of him and his elbows are never pulled back like a piston. This means that his punches travel nearer a foot than six inches, but the kick is there no matter how far they travel. Of course, a short punch gets to the target quicker than a swing.

Tunney is big and strong, but he had to build himself up scientifically from a light heavyweight into a heavyweight. Dempsey became his size naturally and he always has had to train down in lead of building himself up. Which may give him another advantage.

TUNNEY WILL LEAD FOR CHAMP'S NOSE

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Sept. 22.—Gene Tunney Monday has his final workout in the ring before he enters the arena at the Sequoi-centennial stadium at Philadelphia for the heavyweight title next Thursday night.

With the public barred from his camp, he boxed four rounds with Jimmy Delaney of St. Paul, and Harold Mays of Bayonne. He demonstrated that he had both the power and ability to deliver real punches.

In the second round of his bout with Delaney, he cut loose and staggered his sparring partner several times with hard rights to the face and short left jabs to the jaw. As yesterday, Jimmy's nose appeared to be the target for Gene's blows and he again had the blood squirting from it over the canvas. It begins to look as if the challenger considers Jack's made-over nose one of the weak spots about him, and that he intends going after it first of all.

Deer Plentiful In Sequoia Park

VISALLA, Cal., Sept. 21.—(UP)—Deer are so plentiful in the Sequoia national park that park officials do not have to put bells on them to let tourists know of their presence.

"Some parks have to put bells on their deer to label them for the public," Colonel John R. White, superintendent of the park, said. "But we have so many they speak for themselves."
