Guests of Miss E. Hays—
Monday evening, October 18, the new officers of the Presbyterian Christian Endeavor Society were the guests of their Superintendent, Miss E. Hays at her pleasant home.

At 5:30 p. m. a delicious chicken dinner was ideally served by the hostess, after which a happy hour was spent in outlining the winter's work, the most important feature being a Christmas tree, November 14, for the mission schools. The members of this society are hoping that they will secure many people's support to make this undertaking a success.

The guests were Wallace Stearns, president; David Johnson, vice-president; Edna Danford, secretary; Beverly Young, treasurer and Billy Graham, lookout secretary.

Hostess at Birthday Party—
Miss Thelma Yvonne Young was the dainty little hostess at a jolly party at her home on High street, Saturday afternoon, October 16, honoring her fifth birthday.

The rooms were a profusion of fragrant, artistically arranged flowers, which had been gifts to Thelma, and the tables were cleverly decorated in orange and black streamers upon which had been painted witches and cats. Each guest received tiny Halloween favors, which delighted them very much.

Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess' mother, Mrs. E. F. Young, and the rest of the afternoon was spent watching the tiny hostess unwrap her many useful and beautiful gifts.

Invitations were extended to the following children: Allen Porter, Jr., and James Porter, Robert Autrey, Charles Kincaid, Kenneth Lusk, Dixie Darlan and Ned and Eugenia Young.

Auxiliary to American Legion Meets—
The Auxiliary to the American Legion held their regular meeting in the Pioneer Hall, Monday evening, October 18.

They discussed events which will be taken up during the winter.

ter, decided to have a cooked food sale and a bazaar very soon, and appointed committees to work on these enterprises. They also decided to make apple butter for hospital No. 77 in Portland, at the Cannery tomorrow evening at 7 p. m. Plans for redecorating and re-arranging the club rooms were discussed, but no definite plan was decided upon.

The next meeting will be held on Monday evening, October 25.

Neighbors of the Woodcraft Meets—
The Neighbors of the Woodcraft held their regular meeting Monday evening, October 18, in the Odd Fellows hall.

Concluding the usual business session, a happy social hour was spent, after which dainty refreshments were served at tables cleverly decorated in orange and black.

There was a splendid attendance and several normal school students were present.

Who-Do Class—
The Who-Do Class of the Methodist church will hold a meeting at the M. E. parsonage on Laurel street, Thursday afternoon at 2:30, October 21.

Everyone interested in this organization is cordially invited to attend and learn of the work which is being done.

Host and Hostess at Dinner—
Mr. and Mrs. John McCoy were the host and hostess at a delightful dinner Sunday evening, at their home.

After enjoying the delicious prettily appointed dinner, the guests spent the evening in conversation.

Those who enjoyed this happy affair were Mr. and Mrs. O. A. McCoy, Mrs. Ethel Obrist of Klamath Falls and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. John McCoy.

Club Dance—
The Past Matrons club of Alpha Chapter No. 1, Order of the Eastern Star, have just completed the dance floor in the Masonic Hall and will give their first dance, Friday evening, October 22, to which the public is cordially invited. There will be card tables in the dining room for those who do not wish to dance. Miss Dixie Ambler, teacher of Ballet

STRANGE ROMANCE BARED WHEN GIRL MARRIES WEALTHY HEIR

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—(United News)—A trembling "yes" from Martha Marcason, a pretty cloak model made her boy friend, Pat P. O'Hara, a multimillionaire.

Except for the absence of a villain the story which came to light here Wednesday night had fitted the pattern of an old time melodrama in which the blythe hero leaped villainous obstacles married the heroine one minute before midnight and thus came into the millions which were rightfully his, providing he had acquired a wife on the date specified by the will.

Pat was sole heir to the $12,500,000 estate left by his foster mother, the late Mrs. Maude King of Kingsville, Texas. By the terms of her will he had to be married within six months or lose the vast ranch kingdom in the Lone Star state.

Several times Pat proposed to his girl friend, but Martha, who had been reared in Virginia, Minn., where social custom frowned on hasty marriages, held back.

Almost desperate as he felt the wealth slipping, Pat proposed again while he and Martha were seated at a table in a Niles Center night club.

"Yes," consented Martha, sealing the fate of the fortune.

Then with the aid of a romantic traffic policeman the climax was reached swiftly. It was 11 o'clock at night, but Pat had previously ordered the marriage license. He borrowed a ring and whispered a word to a motorcycle policeman who routed out

Cutter Battles With Rum Runner

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Oct. 20.—(UP)—Firing more than a hundred rounds at a fleeing rum runner, the coast guard cutter No. 255 emerged successfully today from its first clash with what promises to be the largest fleet of liquor ships ever assembled off the coast of Southern California.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTER

BY CHARLES F. STEWART
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON — Senator Jim Reed committee of investigation into primary election expenditures probably will make two reports, it appears, when Congress meets.

The members will meet in Washington directly after election until then there is no way of telling with absolute certainty how they stand, but the line of cleavage is pretty evident.

Senators Reed and King, Democrats and Senator La Follette, an insurgent Republican, feel one way, Senators McNary and Goff, regular Republicans, show signs of dissenting.

William S. Vare and Frank L. Smith, the two candidates especially criticized for what they spent to get senatorial nominations, in Pennsylvania and Illinois respectively, both are Republicans of the very regular pattern.

Reed, King and La Follette assuredly will oppose letting them have Senate seats if they're elected.

McNary and Goff can hardly fail to agree that expenditures as large as Vare's and Smith's are bad business, but they may take the position that no evidence of actual corruption has been shown and that, lacking it, the exclusion of the pair from the Senate would be overdoing matters. Reed and La Follette, as opponents of prohibition, are almost sure also to take a sharp dig at the anti-saloon League for its political activities.

McNary and Goff, as drys, probably will say the League has done nothing to be blamed for. King's attitude is rather doubtful. His sympathies are supposed to be dryish, but his tendency will be to flock with Reed and La Follette.
