

SPECIAL TRAIN TO KLAMATH PLANNED

Southern Pacific Would Run Excursion From Here on November 6th

If the Southern Oregon public shows any response, the Southern Pacific company will operate a special train over the new line between Eugene and Klamath Falls a week from Saturday evening, it was announced here today by A. S. Rosenbaum, district passenger agent.

The train would leave Ashland Saturday evening and arrive at Eugene early Sunday morning, the trip over the Natron cut-off being made in daylight. The Howard and Grimes stage company has offered a special reduced rate to bring excursionists over by auto stage Sunday afternoon. The entire trip can be made from Ashland and return for $11.25 train and stage fare. Those who desire sleepers from here to Eugene can procure them, Mr. Rosenbaum said.

Moved to Ashland—
Jack Keeler, Southern Pacific employe at Hornbrook, Cal., has recently moved to Ashland. He declares that he is quite pleased to become an Oregonian, especially as long as he is located in this city. At present he is finding living accommodations at the home of Herbert Cole, on the Boulevard.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTER

BY CHARLES F. STEWART
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON — William Tyler Page, clerk of the House of Representatives, is celebrated as a political forecaster.

Maine is his barometer. Page doesn't base his predictions solely on barometer readings any more than a weather forecaster relies exclusively on them. He considers other indications, too.

Still, what the barometer says generally is more important than any other single indication. Page sizes up all the other signs verifies them by his barometer and then predicts. Most of the time he proves a good guesser.

Politicians long have believed that Maine election results indicate how the rest of the country will go. Maine is Republican. Sometimes it's more strongly Republican than at others. Page notes the Maine majority, compares it with the normal margins in the other states, and draws his conclusions.

If the Maine majority is large, he concludes that Republican states will stay Republican and that doubtful ones will go Republican. If its small, he concludes that the Democrats will carry doubtful states and maybe some Republican ones.

Page says any other states undoubtedly would make as good a barometer as Maine but all the rest have their elections in November while Maine votes in September.

Astoria — Sanborn cannery will run until February, on carrots and sauerkraut.

I Like to Tinker

I like to fuss with the carburetor and the "points" and the plugs. I like to wonder about the oil and the grease cups and worry a bit, perhaps. I like to tinker.

A car that's too perfect to need a twist and a turn and a going over now and then is like a suit that's too good to wear.

But, when it comes to tires—that's different! Deliver me from the worry and bother of tire trouble and the dirt of a roadside change.

I want to feel that the tires I've bought are good tires. I want to know that my dealer is square. I want to be sure of his goods and his work and his service—
