

BELLVIEW NOTES

Mrs. W. G. Tucker
Phone 2F14

The funeral of Mrs. Williams, who passed away Wednesday, Nov. 10, at the family home, was held from the Stock Parlors on Saturday morning, Nov. 13. Except for the absence of one boy who lives in Canada, all the children were present. A sad feature is the illness of the husband, Mr. Williams, who is critically ill in a local hospital, and was unable to attend the last services. The community joins in extending most sincere sympathy to these friends in their loss.

A meeting of the committee on arrangements for the vaudeville which the community club, together with the P. T. A. are sponsoring for their annual Xmas play at the new club house was called at the home of Mrs. Betty Gottsche Thursday afternoon. Definite arrangements were made and the plans will go ahead at once.

The committee was delighted with the prospects and everyone may be assured of their money's worth when they come to the community house Friday night, December 17.

James Beagle, at one time a resident of the Bellview district, and a skilled workman with rock, brick and mortar, has offered his services to the building committee and in two or three weeks he is free from his duties and will finish up any work in need of his skilled labor, which is then waiting to be done. We thank him, and it is needless to say that we eagerly accepted his offer.

SHORT STALKS BY THOUGHTFUL MOTHERS

A Pennsylvania mother speaks first: "I know the worth of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. We used it for years, and it never failed us. For croupy children, feverish colds, disturbing night coughs, it gives us a feeling of security to have Foley's Honey and Tar Compound in the house." No opiates, no chloroform, made under rigid sanitary control, Foley's Honey and Tar Compound carries a strong appeal to thoughtful mothers everywhere. Ask for it. Sold everywhere.—No. 1.

Oil-Electric Northwest

POWERFUL OIL-ELECTRIC LOCOMOTIVE LATEST TYPE OF RAILROAD MOTIVE POWER. TO BE INSTALLED BY GREAT NORTHERN RAILWAY.

IN THE days back in '61, when the buffalo ran wild over the Western prairies, a rakish little steam locomotive wheezed its way across the continent and pulled up at a thriving town on the bluffs of the Upper Mississippi, known as St. Paul.

It was the first steam locomotive ever seen in the West. It stamped the buffalo, which ran in mad alarm as it snorted over the rails. It amazed the Northwest pioneers, many of whom had never seen a locomotive. It was named the William Crooks, after the chief engineer of the St. Paul and Pacific Railroad, which later became a part of the Great Northern system.

For 65 years this little, old-fashioned wood burner, with its audacious, staring smokestack, has been the pride of the Great Northern of the Northwest.

Since the day that the William Crooks, made in far-off Paterson, N. J., started hauling passenger trains across the prairies stupendous changes have occurred in railroading in the West. Ponderous mountain climbers have shoved William Crooks and similar pigmy types of early locomotives off to the scrap heap or the museums.

James J. Hill revolutionized railroading in the Northwest with such

WOMEN AND POLITICS

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—(United News)—No woman should seek a political career until she has first reared a family. And even then some women should not tackle politics, Mrs. Bertha K. Landes, mayor of Seattle, told the Illinois league of women voters here recently.

"I do not feel that every woman, just because she is a woman, has the ability to hold political offices," said Mrs. Landes, a smiling little woman, who is the mother of two married children.

"Sex should not enter into politics at all. Ability is the only thing that counts."

HUT—HE "FELT NO BETTER FOR THAT"

A man from Nebraska tells this: "For three nights I was kept awake by a bothersome persistent cough, and so were others of the family; and I felt no better for that. The very first doses of Foley's Honey and Tar relieved me and in two days' time my cough was entirely gone." Think of the saving of distress to himself and others, had he taken Foley's Honey and Tar Compound at the start. It pays to keep it on hand. The large family size is a real economical buy. Ask for it. Sold Everywhere.—No. 2.
