Civic Club House Scene of Elaborate Party—

The most enjoyable and elaborate of parties was given Wednesday afternoon, November seventeenth, when Mrs. A. H. Pracht, Mrs. P. S. Provost, Mrs. W. L. Maxey, Mrs. Herbert McCarthy, Mrs. Domino Provost and Mrs. Gerald Wenner delightfully entertained a group of their friends at the Civic Club House on Wilburn Way. There were one hundred and sixty-five ladies present.

The club room was decorated to represent a huge living room, with massive velvet davenport, chairs, rugs, tables and many beautiful floor lamps arranged as only expert interior decorators could have arranged them.

Gorgeous, heavy silk Oriental scarves were artistically draped over the davenports, chairs and tables, giving a very soft and pleasing effect. Pedestals with ferns and large yellow chrysanthemums were in evidence everywhere around the room.

A huge library table in the center of the room was artistic with tall brass candlesticks and a brass basket, which was a profusion of enormous orange and yellow chrysanthemums. The dining room table placed before a large mirror, was unusually attractive with its large "Horn of Plenty" overflowing with golden and bright red fruits. Two silver candelabras with yellow candles and a center piece of yellow chrysanthemums a crystal and silver bowl, completed this arrangement.

The afternoon was one continuous hum of conversation and it was difficult to get the guests to settle down to playing games.

Mrs. L. H. Hansen was awarded a beautiful bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums for writing the best original nursery rhyme, and Mrs. W. D. Whittle received a bouquet of lavender chrysanthemums for winning the memory test game.

The main attraction of the afternoon was given by little Eloise Giblett of Medford. Like a wee fairy she entertained the guests with songs and dances, executed in a manner so captivating that the guests were astonished at seeing such unusual talent in so young a child.

Mrs. Homer Barron most amusingly and delightfully entertained with a comedy burlesque of a tight rope walker, the rope being stretched across the floor of the stage. This stunt was received with much laughter and applause.

The refreshments were extremely attractive and tasty, the color scheme being carried out in the cakes and ice cream. Buttonholes of tiny yellow flowers were given to each guest. The ladies were unanimous in agreeing that they had never before spent a more delightful afternoon, in such beautiful surroundings.

Entertained With Goose Dinner—

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Jorgensen entertained Thursday evening at their home at 913 Boulevard avenue, with a delicious wild goose dinner, the goose being killed by Virgil Moon of Burns, Oregon.

Guests were the Misses Naomi Eason, Naoma Magruder, Vido Dent, Irene Peck, Mrs. Allen and daughter, Olivia, Mrs. Bair and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Jorgensen.

Rev. Elmer Galt Will Speak at Congregational Church—

Rev. Elmer W. Galt, who has just returned to this country from his mission at Paotingtu, China, is the guest of Rev. Charles D. Gaffney today, Friday, November nineteenth, and he will speak at the Congregational church at 7:30 this evening.

Rev. Mr. Galt tells his story in a very gripping manner, giving a personal touch to the missionary life in China.

After the address the members of the church will hold an informal reception for Rev. Galt, light refreshments will be served and everyone is invited.

W. C. T. U. County President Here Tuesday—

The W. C. T. U. County President, Mrs. B. H. Bryant of Medford, will be the main speaker at the W. C. T. U. meeting in the public library, Tuesday afternoon, November 20, at 2:30 p. m.

It is especially urged that all members attend.

THE FORUM

Editor of Tidings,

Dear Sir:—

In your account of the application to the City Council for an exclusive right to install waste or trash cans, you used the term "garbage." The cans referred to in my application are for the purpose of receiving waste paper and other wastes that would be otherwise thrown upon the streets and sidewalks of the city.

The company proposes to furnish a sufficient number of these receptacles and place them upon the sidewalks and in the parks and other places where people congregate and pass. The cans will be of heavy galvanized iron 18x18 inches and 32 inches high with a swinging cover only requiring a slight push to open it. They will be painted a pleasing light blue color and have such advertising matter as the merchants of the city may wish, lettered as a rule in black. The proposition carries with it an obligation on the part of the company to turn over to the city, to be applied to charitable purposes such as the Mayor and Council may desire ten per cent of the net profits from the advertising income, thus every advertiser will know that he is helping others as well as himself.

Trusting that this will explain why I am rushing into print, I am,

Yours truly,

G. W. TREFREN.

When Aimee Heard the Verdict

Almost twenty months ago Aimee heard the verdict in the case of her husband, Judge Samuel Blake, who had been charged with the murder of a woman in Los Angeles. She went to her attorney to appeal to her followers for a second $100,000 defense fund. In the picture, taken at the hearing, Aimee is seen over the shoulder of her attorney, W. L. Quibert.

Charged With Murder

TILLAMOOK, Nov. 19.—Mrs. Eva N. McGee, charged with poisoning her husband, Dr. W. G. McGee, went on trial here today before Circuit Judge George R. Bagley, of Hillsboro.

Dr. McGee died August 17, of this year after a prolonged, though not serious illness.

Mrs. McGee was indicted several weeks later, it being charged that poison which she administered to her husband while he lay ill, was the cause of his death.

After the indictment Mrs. McGee was permitted to go free, under bonds of $20,000, due partly to the fact that there were no provisions in the local jail for keeping a woman prisoner. As the trial opened today it was announced by attorneys for the state and defense, that the state will call 12 witnesses and the defense will summon 32.

make these changes required additional money, every penny possible to secure, without calling on local people, had been spent to get the mill ready for the trial run. To go ahead would require local assistance. Consequently a special committee of Ashland business men were appointed to investigate. They reported favorably and an effort is now being made to secure the necessary funds to carry on the work.

This paper does not advocate either the purchase or non-purchase of additional stock. We have simply tried to give the history of the project as fairly as we could. Late reports from M. A. C. Crouch indicate that the necessary funds to again start work will soon be raised. The plans call for the immediate assembling of the retort and when this is completed it is expected that another trial run will be made.

National Heart-Story in Song

The heart-story of a people, told in song.

Such are the concerts of the Ukrainian National Chorus, now about to enter upon its third tour of the United States, after a series of sensational triumphs recently in the republics of South America.

This incomparable chorus of master-singers from the Far East, pictorially colorful in their native costumes and unified into one mighty instrument under the wizardry of their great composer-conductor, Alexander Koshetz, will paint for us again their glorious tone-pictures envisioning the life of the Ukrainians, from its tragic wars to the merry gossiping chit-chat of its peasant folk over winter fires or in summer door-yards.

They sing of the heroes of their native land and of its impassioned lovers, of festivals, of marriage and harvest; songs of a far-off pagan era, when the Sun God was worshiped and the God of Thunder feared; hymns, canticles and carols which interpret the altered ideals of the later Christian period. Much of this music has a striking Oriental background.

The people of the Ukraine have suffered much, and this, too, is apparent in their songs, stabbing deep into the heart of the hearer, gripping and thrilling and touching him to tears. Forth into the vast Unknown of the western world ventured this pilgrim chorus, four years ago, carrying the heart-story of its people, and telling it far and wide in the only universal language—the language of music.

Europe listened, breathless and amazed. The Americans fell down and worshipped. Mexico and Cuba flamed with the wildest enthusiasm.

And now this magnificent "human orchestra" has accepted a new mission—to interpret for America and to the Americans the undreamed-of treasures of American folklore, gathered by Director Koshetz during the past year. This will form a part of the program of the Ukrainians when they appear in Ashland, on the night of December 13, under the direction of the Normal school.

DOUBLE ACTING

When you use Calumet Baking Powder you don't have to use extra precaution. It insures success, because it is double-acting. Contains two leavening units—one begins to work when the dough is mixed, the other waits for the heat of the oven, then both units work together, safeguarding every step in the process of baking. MAKES BAKING EASIER.

Wanted more energy

Cooler mornings, more intense days, hang out the "wanted" sign every sun-up requesting an increase of energy-giving food.

Little matter what the rest of the breakfast menu may be, fluffy hot muffins, crisp waffles, or steaming wheat cakes will harmonize—with oodles of energy-giving food elements. That is what bread flour is—an energy-giving food material, especially when milled according to formula.

Fisher's Blend Brand Flour has become the standard for household use for that reason; it is a formula flour. Its food elements are in exact proportion in every sack. It is a dependable flour—the same today, as last month, as ten years ago.

The "Faries Cook Book," by Isabelle Clark Sweeney, contains interesting recipes for quick breads for breakfast. We will mail you one for the asking.

Recipe 43 (The Faries Cook Book)
