SUMMING UP

We have come to the season when everyone begins to "sum up"—to sum up the profits and the losses; the successes and the failures; the accomplishments and the things left undone.

In this summing up process at the bank, we look not only at the record of figures but at the record of service. We are of course interested in figures because they indicate the progress and prosperity of this section; but even more we are interested in rendering service.

We want you to feel that we are here especially to serve you, and that we welcome opportunities to do so.
