"THE HOME OWNERS OF A NATION FORM THE BACKBONE OF ITS CITIZENRY."

In the observance of National Thrift Week, it is fitting that one day should be set aside as "Own Your Home Day."

other precept of Thrift Week—he is making a safe investment.

For of all the reasons advanced in the Own Your Own Home movement, perhaps the foremost and most practical is its sound economic basis. No man is thrifty if he goes on expending, year after year, a great portion of his income without receiving lasting benefit from it.

A safe investment—but it pays a high rate of interest. Happiness, Security, Comfort and Safety for one's family cannot be measured in monetary terms, but they are valued by the thrifty man above anything else in his power to obtain.

If on the other hand, he makes the same expenditures, but at the end of a period of years has a visible, tangible asset—a home—he has been both thrifty and economical. For in purchasing his own home he is following an

Today any man who properly budgets his income can afford to own his home. There is plenty of assistance at hand—the world is willing and anxious to help him achieve that worthy end.
