TRIBUTE IS PAID SOUTHERN LEADERS

erate soldiers who linger on in the fast dwindling thin gray lips, bent their faltering steps to ceremonies honoring Robert E. Lee and his valiant comrade, Stonewall Jackson.

In most southern cities banks were closed and schools were permitted a half holiday. Exercises were held in the capitol at Atlanta under the joint auspices of the United Confederate veterans and United Daughters of the confederacy.

In Virginia a legal holiday was observed throughout the state with principal ceremonies being held at Washington and Lee University, where the day was also observed as founders'

Chapters of confederate organizations throughout Florida held fitting exercises, with southern songs sung in costume at Jacksonville and Lakeland. Banks were closed and programs were given in schools.

Other southern states, in like manner honored Lee and Jackson.

LAND LAWS OF MEXICO WILL CREATE TROUBLE

quires that aliens agree to consider themselves Mexican citizens so far as litigation is concerned, and not appeal to their own governments. Permits cannot be granted to aliens owning a majority interest in Mexican companies owning agricultural lands. It is provided that present alien owners may hold their property until death in case of individuals and for ten years in the case of corporations.

The United States contends that this law is retroactive and therefore confiscatory. The Mexican government denies it is retroactive.

Many points involved are similar to those in the controversy over the oil law which became effective January 1.

brought them by automobile from Little Rock, Ark., to Los Angeles, when the youths' motorcycle, on which they rode from Toronto broke down.

Young, through his lawyer, Frank O'Byrne, denied tonight that he had agreed to give the Fosters $1,000. Their telegram said:

"Congratulations. We knew that you would win. Snapshot of you and Bill taken in Texas has been published in all eastern papers with story of trip. An enlargement of picture taken at Camp Grande to your mother. We are home and broke. Could use the thousand you promised if you won."

Another telegram received by the channel swim winner today, was from his mother in Toronto. It read:

"Dear George: Am feeling better: Long to see you! Be a good boy. Read your Bible and remember your prayers every night. Am sending letter today. Love."

that the revolutionary forces were

"smashed in a bloody fight."

Other accounts reaching here today said that 19 revolutionists were killed in two battles in Durango. The slain rebels were said to have been identified as high officials of the personal staff of Nicholas Fernandez, Ammunition, horses and guns, were said to have been captured by the federals.

Damasco Barrera, known as the "patriarch of the Indians," was one of those reported slain. His body was taken to Durango and exhibited in the central plaza. His death was considered a severe blow to the revolutionists.

Papers found on some of the slain identified them as being members of the revolutionary movement announced in El Paso, Texas, last week by Russ Capitan how many revolutionists were engaged in the battles, other sources. While the reports did not say an estimated their number at 400.
