Look at the fate of summer flowers,

Which blow at daybreak, droop ere even-song
And, grieved for their brief date, confess that ours,

Measured by what we are and ought to be,
Measured by all that, trembling, we foresee,
Is not so long.

If human life do pass away,
Perishing yet more swiftly than the flower,

If we are creatures of a winter's day:
What space hath Virginia's beauty to disclose
Her sweets, and triumph o'er the breathing rose?
Not even an hour.
