THE SERENADE

The trees are the harp strings; The wind is the tune; Nature the player Who sings to the moon.

The stars watch the courtship And wink with delight Knowing they would not dare Court by daylight.

And when the moon settles Down past the far hill, Breezes play on the flute The player is still

So softly they whisper And murmur and croon, While Nature sleeps sweetly And dreams of the moon.

Mrs. Mary Johnson surprised—Mrs. Mary Johnson was completely and happily surprised by a group of her friends Wednesday afternoon, March 23, when they came to her home on Meade street, to celebrate her birthday anniversary.

The time was spent in pleasant conversation, until a late hour when delicious refreshments of sandwiches, salad, cake and coffee were served. Mrs. Johnson was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts.

Those who enjoyed this delightful affair were Mesdames L. Robertson, E. Bradburn, David Good, Earl Roach, Mary Wood, Mable Douglas and son, the Misses Viola Wood and Virginia Roach and the honored guest, Mrs. Mary Johnson.

Elk's Ladies Card Club Meets—The Elk's Ladies Card Club held their regular meeting in the Elk's clubrooms Thursday afternoon, March twenty-fourth. Several Medford ladies attended.

Seven tables of Bridge and Five Hundred were in play; Mrs. J. A. McGee winning the first prize in the former and Mrs. Harris Dean receiving the first prize in the latter.

The hostesses, Mrs. D. Perotti and Mrs. George Gillette, served delicious refreshments, the color scheme being carried out in yellow and white, with lovely spring blossoms placed around the room.

MOTHER HELPS BLIND GIRL THROUGH SCHOOL

Has Been Blind Since Birth But Sees Through Mother's Eyes

COLUMBUS, O., March 14.—Blind since birth, but seeing through the eyes of her mother, Martha Bell Miller, 20 year old senior in Ohio State university, awaits the last of August when she will receive the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science.

Mrs. J. W. Miller, her mother, has been responsible for Martha's dreams coming true.

Since her daughter was a small child, Mrs. Miller has spent from 3 to 10 hours every day reading to her, giving her a mental picture of the world and educating her.

In the fall of 1923, following Martha's graduation from East High School in Cleveland, the Millers removed to Columbus so Martha could continue her education.

Every day since then, Mrs. Miller has spent from 4 to 6 hours reading her daughter's assignments.

She reads but once. "We have so much to cover and it takes so long, reading aloud, that we can only go over a passage once," explained the daughter. "It is only a matter of training one's self. If you knew you

The Past Matron's club of Alpha Chapter No. 1, O. E. S. held a very delightful meeting at the home of Mrs. A. E. Kinney on Grand street Thursday evening, March 23, with an unusually large attendance.

Mrs. Elsie Churchman, president of the club, presided in a gracious manner at the business session. The ladies were dressed to represent school girls and they derived much fun from a "country school" with Mrs. Mary Nims acting as teacher.

Each member brought her own lunch and at a late hour they enjoyed a delicious "picnic" supper. Mrs. H. V. Carter's birthday anniversary was celebrated with a huge prettily decorated birthday cake.

ENGINEERS HIRED TO BRIDGE FRISCO BAY

Board of Three Are Retained to Make an Investigation

SAN FRANCISCO, Mar. 28.—(UN)—The plan of ambitious Californians to bridge San Francisco bay has developed to such an extent that three prominent engineers have been retained to study the situation.

The bridge project has long been a dream of those who feel that the city of San Francisco is handicapped by its peninsular location, and who believe that some outlet should be furnished for vehicular traffic to northern California other than by ferry.

The consulting engineers who have accepted the city's invitation to advise on the bridge project are Robert Ridgway, chief engineer of the board of transportation, New York Prof. A. N. Talbot, professor of applied mechanics, University of Illinois, and J. D. Galloway of San Francisco.

The engineers will report on cost of a bridge, a suitable location and other matters within 30 days after undertaking their survey.

Army Once Had A Camel Navy

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Mar. 28.—(UP)—Did you ever know the U. S. army once had a camel "navy"?

Finding of the skeleton of a dromedary near Millard, Utah, recently, recalled the army's extremely unsuccessful venture in better transportation across the American deserts via "ships of the desert."

When Jeff Davis, president of the confederacy was yet a member of the U. S. senate he developed a "bug" on camels, envisioning the animals would be a picturesque and valuable feature to the American desert.

Congress couldn't see it, but the ideal appealed to popular imagination. People envisioned swift camels carrying the mails to the railroadless Pacific from the east in record time, eliminating the long sea route around the Horn.

When Davis became secretary of war, he sent an army major to Cairo to buy a herd of camels. Cairo camel-dealers, taking unfair advantage of the major's knowledge of the animal unloaded a worthless number of mangy, flea-bitten camels at a high price.

Later, however, the major had better luck in Smyrna.

Forty dromedaries were finally landed at a Texas seaport. They were used to haul military supplies from Texas to Arizona, and later their journeys took them into Southern California, Nevada, Utah and Colorado.

Each animal could carry more than a thousand pounds in provisions and military equipment, finding its own subsistence in even the most barren country, at the same time going without water for
