LOHENGRI

The latter is a sorceress; she has deceived her husband, who really believes in the murder of Godfrey, while as a matter of fact she has abducted the child. In the second act we see her at the door of the ducal palace, where preparations for the wedding are already being made. She plans vengeance. Her husband, full of remorse and feeling that his wife has led him on to a shameful deed, curses her as the cause of his dishonor. She derides him and rouses his pride by calling him a coward. Then she pacifies him with the assurance that she will induce Elsa to break her promise and ask for the name of her husband, being sure that then all the power of this mysterious champion will vanish.

When Elsa steps on the balcony to confide her happiness to the stars, she hears her name spoken in accents so sad that her tender heart is moved. Ortrud bewails her lot, invoking Elsa's pity. The Princess opens her door, urging the false woman to share her palace and her fortune. Ortrud at once tries to sow distrust in Elsa's innocent heart.

As the morning dawns a rich procession of men and women throng to the church where Elsa is to be united to her protector. Telramund tries vainly to accuse the stranger; he is pushed back and silenced. As Elsa is about to enter the church Ortrud steps forward claiming the right of precedence. Elsa, frightened, repents too late having protected her. Ortrud upbraids her with not even having asked her husband's name and descent. All are taken aback, but Elsa defends her husband, winning everybody by her quiet dignity. She turns to Lohengrin for protection, but the venom rankles in her heart.

Group of Friends Surprise Mrs. George Brookmiller—Mrs. George Brookmiller on Liberty street was agreeably surprised by a group of her friends and neighbors Tuesday afternoon, March 29, when they came to her home to help her celebrate her birthday anniversary.

The time was spent in pleasant conversation and in playing games. Delicious refreshments were served by the ladies, who all came laden with well-filled baskets. A huge prettily decorated birthday cake was the center of attraction.

Those who enjoyed this happy occasion were: Mesdames Walter Herndon, F. H. Walker, H. L. Moore, Cora Burns, Martin Real, Merritt Randles, J. E. Montgomery, Arthur Abbott, Fred Brookmiller, Miles, Ross, Putnam, Philpott, Wright and the Misses Helen Walker, Lorraine, Edith and Betty Brookmiller, Eldora Damewood and Master Bobby Randles.

"Surprise" Much Enjoyed by Bible School—

A "surprise" was very much enjoyed by the members of the Christian Church Bible school Sunday morning, March 27, when Mrs. Hazel Weber presented "Rock of Ages" in tableau, the song being sweetly rendered by Miss Artie Stockdale.

These little surprises are being given in order to get the members to be there on time, promptly at nine-thirty a. m., and another one will be presented next Sunday. Mr. W. P. Walter, secretary of the local Y. M. C. A., will address the audience at eleven a. m. on this date, also.

Hope Rebekah Lodge Entertains P. N. G.—Hope Rebekah Lodge No. 14, I. O. O. F. entertained the Past Noble Grand's Tuesday evening, March 25 in the Odd Fellows hall. There were over one-hundred members present. Each Past Noble Grand was presented with a lovely pink carnation by a dainty little flower girl, Miss Anna May Lear.

The program opened with the singing of "America," a f t e r which the chaplain, Mrs. L. A. Roberts and the audience joined in reciting "The Lord's Prayer." Miss Wanda Schwein played a piano solo followed by a vocal solo by Mrs. D. L. Dunkeson, accompanied at the piano by her sister, Miss Mildred Johnson. The history of the Noble Grand's Club was given by Mrs. Josephine D. Crocker, which greatly interested all those present. The Moon sisters played a beautiful piano duet and Miss Rosalind Wise also played a number on the piano.

Noble Grand Mrs. E. Cliff Payne delighted her audience with a reading, "The Old Arm Chair." Little Miss Madden gave a dance, accompanied at the piano by her mother, Mrs. A. A. Madden. The time was spent playing cards until a late hour, when delicious refreshments were attractively served.

Wedding of Interest to Ashland People—

The following wedding account taken from the Jacksonville notes in the Medford Mail Tribune will be of interest to many Ashland people: A very quiet wedding of more than usual interest was solemnized in Klamath Falls, Friday at 12 o'clock, when Miss Elsie Applegate became the bride of C. W. Miller, the ceremony taking place at the home of the bride's sister, Miss Evelyn Applegate. The bride is the youngest daughter of the late Lucien B. Applegate and granddaughter of Lindsey Applegate, both pioneers of '43. The groom is a prosperous farmer of the Applegate country in Josephine county. The newly wedded couple left immediately after the ceremony for their home on Applegate river, which derived its name from the bride's grandfather. Mrs. Miller is a sister of Mrs. C. C. Chitwood and a niece of Mrs. Alice A. Sargent of this city, also a niece of Captain O. C. Applegate of Klamath Falls.

Hostesses At Meeting—

The Past Noble Grand's Club met last Friday at the home of Mrs. H. W. Clark on Granite Street.

At the business session Mrs. Louise Perrozzi gave a very interesting talk on some of the needs of the I. O. O. F. home and the club voted to send an Easter box to the children of that home. It was also decided to take up at each meeting a study of the general laws of the lodge.

After the business meeting an exceedingly pleasant hour was spent in conversation and fancy work. The hostesses, Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Glenn served delicious refreshments at the close of the meeting.

A district convention, comprising of Alpha, Adarel, Aloha, and Reames Chapters, O. E. S., will be held in the Masonic Hall, Tuesday, April 5, at 8 o'clock, when the

Waits 17 Years For a Divorce
LOS ANGELES, Mar. 31.—

(UN)—Valentine A. Kidder is not an impetuous man—he waited until his wife had been away from his bed and board 17 years before he filed suit for divorce. And if it hadn't been for a nocturnal night with another man and a catpult into a pond they might still be married. Kidder was granted a divorce from Mrs. Josephine Kidder Wednesday. "I read in a Massachusetts paper about an automobile accident," Kidder explained, "and my wife was in it along with some man. Seems like they hit some thing or other and got thrown in to a frog pond. I figured if she was cutting up like that, something ought to be done about it."
