

Declare Office of Chief Deputy Game Warden be Vacant

PORTLAND, April 12.—(P)—The state game commission at its regular monthly meeting here decided to abolish the office of chief deputy game warden and remove Glenn Henderson as deputy warden of Crook county.

Abolition of the chief deputy game warden position saw the removal of F. M. Brown, who had held the position for 12 years. In Crook county, Henderson will be succeeded by John Combs.

The commission indicated that more changes may take place soon.

Naval Officers Trial Postponed

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 12.—(P)—The court martial of Lieut. Commander Gatewood, formerly on the staff of the commander of the battleship Oklahoma, which was ordered by the navy department last Saturday, will not be held until after the battle fleet returns June 30 from the east coast. It was learned today.

It was learned that the delay was due to the fact that witnesses are now on duty with the Oklahoma. Gatewood who is to be tried on charges of absence without leave and conduct unbecoming a gentleman and officer, declared that his mysterious actions were caused from amnesia.

He was sent to the naval hospital here for observation.

DAIRYMAN USES RADIO TO ENCOURAGE HIS COWS

LIBERTY, Mo.—(P)—Arnold Schwartz, butter and cheese man learned in his native Switzerland that music stimulated quantity and quality production so he is using it in his dairy business here.

Instead of having the rest of the family yodel or play the accordion at milking time, which is the vogue among Swiss dairymen, he is utilizing the simpler method of entertaining his cows with a radio.

Schwartz believes the programs of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company and the torrid tunes of the roof garden orchestras, brought to his ears through a powerful receiving set, inspires his herd and makes better butter and more of it.

Royal Arch Masons Meeting in Bend

BEND, April 12.—(P)—One of the largest masonic gatherings ever held in Oregon opened here today with the 67th annual convocation of the grand chapter, Royal Arch Masons.

More than 100 delegates were seated this morning. The feature of the morning session was the address of George F. Swafford of

The Beauty That Is Acadian

The Louisiana girl most typical of Evangeline, Longfellow's immortal heroine, is Miss Sara Lyles of Bunkie, La., according to a vote of 3909 students at Louisiana State Normal College. She is pictured above in two Acadian poses. The college yearbook's theme this year is Evangeline and Miss Lyles' picture will be on the cover.

Oregon City. The grand council of the royal and select masters will convene here tomorrow and on Wednesday morning a special train will arrive here from Portland.

The Al Kader band and chanters will be on this train.

The grand commandery of knights templar will convene here Wednesday.

NEW OCEAN SURVEYS TO BE MADE BY NAVY

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(P)—Extension of survey operations of the Navy Department in southern waters will be undertaken this summer when surveys of the gulf of Panama and the Pacific approach to the Panama Canal will be made.

Charts of the Cuban coast and Gulf of Venezuela, are now being made, and when completed will supersede old maps, data for which was obtained from Spanish surveys of the 16th and 17th centuries.

Recently the Navy has adopted innovations in surveying methods, among them aerial photography, radio and the sonic depth finder, a device based on deflection of sound from the bottom of the sea.

RULES MAN INTOXICATED AFTER HALF GLASS BEER
LONDON — (P) — Half a glass of beer is sufficient to make a man drunk, according to the testimony of a divisional police surgeon here recently. The surgeon further contended that unless a driver of an automobile completely abstained from drinking while operating his car, he was a menace to the public safety.
