

THE DAILY TIDINGS EDITORIAL and FEATURE PAGE

ESTABLISHED IN 1876

C. J. READ, MANAGING EDITOR

PUBLISHED BY THE ASHLAND PRINTING CO.

ASHLAND DAILY TIDINGS

Entered at the Ashland, Oregon Postoffice as Second Class Mail Matter.

Serve With Safety

A great many well meaning and conscientious employees have for a long time labored to eliminate hazards and dangers...

Some employees have felt for a long time that it is not worth their serious attention to observe or even try to rectify certain conditions...

The chances are two to one that when some men work they perform their duties because they feel they are paid for that and nothing else...

Employees who use their heads intelligently in all other matters that vitally concern them, have a tendency in many cases to throw their observation safety brains on an idle pulley...

Safety work is the means by which employees can overcome obstacles, reduce the number of accidents, and protect themselves and others from injury...

Every employee is performing a portion of his employer's business and safety work is a part of that business, and it is a highly tangible asset when the balance sheet is considered...

Let every employee promise himself to live in the faith that the world is on his side, so long as safety rules and safety observations occupy a foremost place in his mind as he performs his duties...

Sophistication is Not Education

The world is growing more sophisticated, but is it getting more educated? Because we advance in science and invention is not conclusive evidence that individual minds are any nearer perfection...

We may have more knowledge of electricity than Bell, know more of physics than Faraday, understand biology better than Darwin, be better adapted to art than Michelangelo...

Notwithstanding the "advance" of modernism, it is doubtful whether the flapper really "knows her onions," or the sheik his "turnips." They know how to drive a car but not a nail...

Divorce is bad enough, but you're more likely to get shot in a matrimonial engagement.

A good advertisement is like a traffic sign; it may save you money if you read it.

OUT OUR WAY By Williams

BELLVIEW NOTES

Mrs. W. G. Tucker Phone 2714

Mr. and Mrs. C. Reid and family of Klamath Falls, have moved onto the Ryder place on the Pacific Highway South...

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Pellett who live on the Barron ranch south of Ashland spent Sunday at the C. C. Bond home.

Mr. and Mrs. Eben Carver of Spokane, Wash., were callers at the Tom Bell ranch this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cash of Montague called on Mrs. Ella Patterson one day last week.

Mr. W. C. Elam, who underwent an operation at the community hospital in Ashland last week has made such rapid gain that she was removed to her home on Nell Creek Thursday.

The Upper Valley Community Club will hold its next regular meeting in the club house in Bellview Tuesday, May 10.

Miss York will be with us and a complete mapping out of a full year's work from this time will be planned.

Dick and Dena Joy, the victorious debating twins of southern and eastern Oregon left with Mr. Allison, their coach Thursday morning for Warrenton on the coast north of Astoria, where they will meet this team in debate.

Mrs. A. C. Joy left Friday morning for Corvallis in company with Mrs. J. W. McCoy.

Mrs. Carol Pratt of Ashland and Mrs. L. H. Gallatin of Valley View are also going north to be with their daughters over Mother's Day.

HAIR FOR A DAY

Next - A wee lounge among the feathers - Oh - I love a Lizzie -

Yes, a temporary boss reminds me of a guy strapped in the electric chair - he can't jump at a conclusion of work.

Poor ol' soupbone, they made 'im boss for a day while the bulls assistant is off - them clowns knowin' he won't say nothin' 'uz hell be out of office tomorrow.

HAH HAHA HARRY LOOPER TO A TEE - HEE

LANDER? OH - I THOT IT WAS A BATHIN' BEAUTY IN A BATHROBE.

CONCLUSION OF WORK.

Let Me Show You The Way.

More sincerity and fewer churches would cause less worry about wings and horns.

If gossip carriers went to bed at 9 p. m. they wouldn't have so much to talk about the next day.

All patriots do not wear Union Suits.

Always order a sharp knife with a Plain Steak.

He was a big hearted Irishman in his own home. In other homes he was a Lapslander.

There is usually one hand on the wheel and two heads in heaven when the Collision occurs.

From Tin Pan Avenue: "If you sleep in your sleep don't cry over me."

If trousers for an elephant cost 2 cents there are some who could not buy garters for a canary bird; yet they ride around in automobiles.

If you have ever called yourself a Fool what did you think after you wore a Cap and Gown for the first time?

Try This One

- 1. Who was the first President elected whose home was west of the Allegheny Mountains? 2. Who was commanding officer of the "Rough Riders" in the Spanish-American war? 3. What public office did Woodrow Wilson hold immediately before becoming president? 4. Who was vice-president during the Wilson administration? 5. What prominent woman radical was accused of inspiring the assassin of President McKinley? 6. Where did President Coolidge take the oath of office upon succeeding President Harding? 7. What President since 1912 made trips beyond the borders of the United States? 8. What great international conference was held in this country during President Harding's Administration? 9. Name two great American cities which were captured by the British in the War of 1812. 10. Name four states containing portions of territory claimed by Mexico prior to the Mexican War.

HAIR FOR A DAY

Next - A wee lounge among the feathers - Oh - I love a Lizzie -

Yes, a temporary boss reminds me of a guy strapped in the electric chair - he can't jump at a conclusion of work.

Poor ol' soupbone, they made 'im boss for a day while the bulls assistant is off - them clowns knowin' he won't say nothin' 'uz hell be out of office tomorrow.

HAH HAHA HARRY LOOPER TO A TEE - HEE

LANDER? OH - I THOT IT WAS A BATHIN' BEAUTY IN A BATHROBE.

CONCLUSION OF WORK.

Let Me Show You The Way.

More sincerity and fewer churches would cause less worry about wings and horns.

If gossip carriers went to bed at 9 p. m. they wouldn't have so much to talk about the next day.

All patriots do not wear Union Suits.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Sprig has cub Ad really sub ob us

Hab gad to The paid where We feel

Thad we sibly Bused ged rid ob our

Hay fever or Quid spool!

Monday afternoon the students had the privilege of having Mr. Walter of the Ashland Y. M. C. A. introduce Mr. Snyder of Yakohoma, Japan. Mr. Snyder, a national representative of the Y. M. C. A. has lived in Yokohoma for over 14 years.

Mr. Snyder said that when he visited the U. S. seven years ago, he noticed one change in the boys and girls of America; an increasing spirit of internationalism and a definite understanding of relations with foreign countries.

Mr. Snyder presented surprising statistics about education in Japan. He said that schooling was made compulsory; that 99.14 per cent of all children from 6 to 14 years were in school.

Mr. Chamberlain of San Francisco is shearing sheep on the Deter ranch.

Arthur Dollaire, made a business trip to Ashland Tuesday.

Theodore Deter motored to Gaselle Saturday on business. On his return he visited with relatives in Montague.

Clarence and Vernon Dodge and Miss Iris Deter attended the May Day Balloon Dance in Yreka Saturday night.

Mrs. Grace Deter was subpoenaed to Jacksonville as a witness on the D'Autremont case.

On the evening of Saturday, April 30, a small group of high school Camp Fire girls enjoyed a party at the cabin. The girls dressed as "kids" and had a lively evening together with Miss Miriam Calmenson as chaperon.

The Board of Sponsors were entertained at dinner by some of the Junior High and Senior High camp fire girls at the cabin on the evening of Wednesday, May 4.

BINGO'S BUBBLES

By Bingo Jr. Copyright 1927 - All Rights Reserved

Church Notice Sunday Evening Service: Sermon: "The Modern Road To Hell."

Tenor Solo by Mr. Smith "Let Me Show You The Way."

Take out your plates when the Dr. says to have your teeth removed.

Matrimonial agencies never fail for lack of boob customers.

It takes more than time in the contract of marriage to make it successful.

It doesn't take a detective to tell that a bottle is broken on both sides.

More sincerity and fewer churches would cause less worry about wings and horns.

If gossip carriers went to bed at 9 p. m. they wouldn't have so much to talk about the next day.

All patriots do not wear Union Suits.

Always order a sharp knife with a Plain Steak.

He was a big hearted Irishman in his own home. In other homes he was a Lapslander.

There is usually one hand on the wheel and two heads in heaven when the Collision occurs.

From Tin Pan Avenue: "If you sleep in your sleep don't cry over me."

If trousers for an elephant cost 2 cents there are some who could not buy garters for a canary bird; yet they ride around in automobiles.

If you have ever called yourself a Fool what did you think after you wore a Cap and Gown for the first time?

Try This One

- 1. Who was the first President elected whose home was west of the Allegheny Mountains? 2. Who was commanding officer of the "Rough Riders" in the Spanish-American war? 3. What public office did Woodrow Wilson hold immediately before becoming president? 4. Who was vice-president during the Wilson administration? 5. What prominent woman radical was accused of inspiring the assassin of President McKinley? 6. Where did President Coolidge take the oath of office upon succeeding President Harding? 7. What President since 1912 made trips beyond the borders of the United States? 8. What great international conference was held in this country during President Harding's Administration? 9. Name two great American cities which were captured by the British in the War of 1812. 10. Name four states containing portions of territory claimed by Mexico prior to the Mexican War.

YESTERDAY'S ANSWERS

- 1. Mississippi River. 2. Governor Smith of New York. 3. Washington, D. C. 4. Foreign relations. 5. Captain Richard E. Byrd. 6. Governor Alvan T. Fuller. 7. Nicholas Murray Butler, Senator Borah, Darrow and Wayne B. Wheeler. 8. Portrait of the Duke of Ferrara by Titian. 9. Snyder-Gray murder trial.

sighed the sigh of the relieved.

There is just one more two-period exam left and everytime the clock points to three, anxious ears will listen for the bell to ring their doom.

The Seniors have just two more weeks of school, but the rest must "carry on" for four more.

ROOMS OF HODGE'S HOME REPRODUCED IN STAGE SETTINGS

William Hodge feels singularly at home in the first and third act settings of his comedy, "The Judge's Husband," coming to Hunt's Craterian, Medford, Monday, May 16.

Although the program under act 1 reads: "Dining room of the Kirby Home, Wavercrest, Connecticut," the first act is really a reproduction of the star's dining room at his home in Greenwich, Conn. And likewise, act 3, recorded as "Living room of the Kirby home," is actually Mr. Hodge's living room reproduced on a smaller scale.

This room, with its huge oaken beams, braces and trusses was once an ancient barn which was moved over to the side of the house and now forms one of the most unique and delightful rooms among the show places in the vicinity of Greenwich.

Act 2 is the Superior Court, Court House, Fairfield county. Here again there is no imaginary setting, but an exact copy of the room in question at the Court House at Bridgeport, Conn.

What? cried John Guido. "Peter Minton was Amaryllis' brother! And he and the other boys are at the bottom of the sea? Oh, Horrors!"

"Yes," said John Forrester. "That's it. There was a reason, John Guido, why Peter Minton and gave the boy a slight shove toward the back porch. John Guido crossed it at a sweep and took the back walk at another. He never stopped to open the gate. He flew over it and with a rush he came to a halt at the white marble bench carved with Cupids and fawns and flying doves and rose garlands. Lying on it in a little heap, in a little stricken heap, in a soft dress as white as the marble, a dress that brought out the sunshine of the night and the great blue eyes, there lay a crisp rickled little figure. John Guido went down on his knees and took it in his arms. He laid the gold head up on his shoulder and brought his lips down to the cheek and was unresponsive. He could not see a word but "Amaryllis, have you really come back to me? And, Amaryllis, have you come to stay?"

Amaryllis could not speak at all; but she could hear, and nod her head.

When John Guido straightened her on his knees and took her head between his hands and pushed back the tumbled curls and Amartyllis did the thing of all the world that she had declared she never would do again, because always she had remembered boy perfectly shameless as she had been as a child, boy's little starved heart and her little starved lips had cried out for the warmth of John Guido's tender caresses. She held her face up exactly as she had when she was a wild, neglected little Hansy Heart running in hot rebellion on a race to see if somewhere in all the world she could find love.

She lifted up her lips, all quivering and stricken, and she looked at John Guido with tear brimming eyes. She caught tight hold of him with both her hands and opened her mouth and said: "John Guido, I am hungry again."

"John Guido, I'm hungry again."

John Guido, I'm hungry again.