LIFE AND THE STARS

A burst of flame as the sun rises from a bed of mist.

Touching the mountain peak and leaving it with a kiss.

A bird's nest on a limb high up in a tree.

A butterfly with gauzy wings flutters gracefully about.

A barefoot boy, in tattered clothes. What cares he for rags and pity—a brook is close by?

A fragrance fills the air from blossoms nodding near.

And softly, a summer lullaby, the bees drone.

Clouds of pearly white and misty grey is, from the very cover that is like the delectable green of moss on old fences, or young grass upspringing in April, on which a palm branch rests, or is it an Oregon fern—to the last page, there is unmistakable appeal. Pictures there are, in plenty, drawings well done by Howard L. Stroupe. Many of the sketches, most of them in fact, have appeared in the editorial columns of the Morning Oregonian, as part of the day's work, but they do not smack of the "rush and roar" of the newspaper "grind" nor yet, even the care shown in shaping of them does one get the view that the writer has set himself as one apart, but rather as Edgar Piper said of him: "I would rather call him a genius, except that I prefer to think of him as the lovable, sympathetic and altogether human person he is."

They don't come any better

I DIDN'T know it, but Prince Albert was just the tobacco I had been looking for all the time. I hate to think of the time we lost getting together. But let that go. We're all set now—me and the pipe and P.A. We've been pals from the very first puff.

I had a hunch I was going to like P.A. the minute I got that breath of Nature's noblest gift to pipe-smokers. What a treat! It made me think of a hike through the woods, when the trees and the vines are in full leaf. I found the taste "as advertised" by the aroma.

Cool as a customs-inspector. Sweet as the thought you have nothing to hide. Mild as a milk-shake, yet with that full-bodied flavor that satisfies your smoketaste right down to the ground. That's Prince Albert, Fellows. They don't come any better.

No matter how set you appear to be on a smoke-program, try P.A. I give you my word, no other tobacco that ever came down the pike ever brought so much downright satisfaction out of a pipe. "That fellow knew his groceries," you'll say, or words to that effect.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, round and half-pound tin tins, and round crystal-glass humblers with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of tin and parchment removed by the Prince Albert process.

GOLDEN WEST COFFEE

The reward of Popularity—

POPULARITY IN EITHER PEOPLE or products is gained after a period of time in which sterling qualities have been shown and maintained. The reward is increased friendship, and a constant widening of patronage.

Thus it is that Golden West Coffee... which for nearly half a century has helped to mold the exacting taste preference of the people of the Northwest... has become the favored brand among them.

The Golden West Girl is the symbol of this sustained quality—her increased fame is the reward of popularity.

American Movies for Wilhelm?

—NEA, London Bureau

An American motion picture company is reported to have offered the German ex-crown prince, Wilhelm, $50,000 to be filmed as the "Prince of Wieringen." This new picture of Wilhelm shows him chatting with a picturesque Wieringer "old timer."

in shoes of yellow satin and hat of black. Po Haing-so, Mongolian murderer of mother, wife, son, daughter and elder concubine, walked unflinchingly to the hangman's noose in the Model Prison here.

Po's last act was to write two love couplets to his 18-year old concubine who was a partner in his crimes and who must serve a sentence of life imprisonment. After the execution, the body of Po was claimed by the father of this girl.

The Mongolian had endeavored to bring his beloved into his home as his second concubine, but the elder concubine objected. A quarrel, a drinking bout, and the advice of the girl caused him to take a large knife and slay the whole family.

Although the crime was committed two years ago, the Chinese court insisted that Po pay off all his debts before he could be "released from prison" — by strangulation.

Salt fed in large quantities is poisonous to fowls, but one pound to each 100 pound of dry mash is desirable as an appetizer.
