Ashland--An Educational Center

During the past few weeks we have been telling (and shall continue to tell) of the various industries of Ashland—but, after all, where could one find more real industry than in the class rooms of Ashland, when students are at work earning their diplomas and their degrees?

The presence here of the Southern Oregon Normal School, in addition to the city's excellent school system, makes it possible for Ashland to claim distinction as an Educational Center as well as the home of some very worth-while industries.

Greetings and best wishes to the graduates of 1927!
