Jennings Show Starts Tonight

The Jennings tent show com pany which arrived in Ashland today and will play here for one week is a clean, high class organization, which presents a repertoire of worth-while plays. The popularity of the company was established in Ashland on former visits here, and excellent patronage is assured them. They open their program for the week with a head line attraction this evening.

"Saintly Hypocrites and Honest Sinners" is a sermon with plenty of humor and plenty of moral in it, well adapted for tent show presentation. "It's a show that wakes people up and they like it," Mr. Jennings says.

A story of the north, Tuesday night, a society drama, Wednesday night, a western story Thursday night, a New York crook drama Friday night, a farce comedy Saturday night, are included in the well-rounded repertoire of this versatile company.

Sunday night the company will make their last presentation with

COUNSEL FOR DEFENSE AND STATE READY

Firmly entrenched opinions and opposition to the death penalty in case of circumstantial evidence

Apparently unaffected by his incarnation in the Jackson county fail since the sudden termination of his first trial May 9, which endbecause of the sudden death of L. W. Durham, one of the juryman, Hugh D'Autremont this morning again faced trial charged with the 03-tf murder of Charles O. (Coyle) Johnson, Southern Pacific brakeman, in an attempted train robbery on October 11, 1923.

> The court room was comfortably filled-largely by venireman. There was no crowding nor any indication of intense interest however, such as prevailed during the first trial.

> D'Autremont was accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Belle D'Autremont, who came from her home in New Mexico to be near her son shortly after he was placed in the Jackson county jail and has since remained in Oregon.

Judge C. M. Thomas presided. The prosecuting counsel were: release of son) "Jedge, I'se just U. S. District Attorney George hab to hab my son for a little Neuner, Special prosecutor George while, the you put him in for M. Roberts and District Attorney Newton C. Chaney.
