

Eight Changes Are Made In U. Of O. Faculty—Five To Leave

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, May 7—(Special)—Eight new members will be included in the personnel changes in the faculty of the school of business administration next fall, and five of the members of the staff this year will leave, it has been announced.

F. E. Folts, associate professor, has been chosen acting dean next year in the absence of Dean E. C. Robbins, who will be on the faculty of the Harvard school of business administration.

Professor H. C. Hawkins will accept a position with the economic advisors of the state department, and Chester R. Ham, associate professor, is to take up public accounting work in Portland at the close of school.

David I. Faville, associate professor, is taking up graduate work at Harvard and Arthur Humbert, associate professor, will study law at Stanford university.

Additions to the staff includes George Weber, associate professor of business administration at the University of Tulsa, who will teach courses in foreign trade. Mr. Weber received his A. B. degree at George Washington University in 1922, and his master's degree from Harvard in 1926.

Alfred Lomax, a former member of the staff, who has been taking graduate work at the University of Pennsylvania, will return to the University this fall.

O. K. Burrell, who has been teaching in Lakeview, Ore., will be added to the accounting department. Mr. Burrell received his M. A. from the University of Ohio.

Roy F. Bullock will teach marketing and A. F. Blagden will teach finance. Both are graduates of the school of business administration at Harvard.

Two graduate assistants added to the staff are Mabel Foote, graduate of the University of Utah, and Hugh M. Pier, graduate of Yankton college in South Dakota.

University of Tulsa, who will teach courses in foreign trade. Mr. Weber received his A. B. degree at George Washington University in 1922, and his master's degree from Harvard in 1926.

Alfred Lomax, a former member of the staff, who has been taking graduate work at the University of Pennsylvania, will return to the University this fall.

O. K. Burrell, who has been teaching in Lakeview, Ore., will be added to the accounting department. Mr. Burrell received his M. A. from the University of Ohio.

Roy F. Bullock will teach marketing and A. F. Blagden will teach finance. Both are graduates of the school of business administration at Harvard.

Two graduate assistants added to the staff are Mabel Foote, graduate of the University of Utah, and Hugh M. Pier, graduate of Yankton college in South Dakota.

REPAIRS MADE

PETERS GO ON

(Continued from Page 1)

Everyone expected the airplane to be faint with exhaustion after their forced descent for the second time in the swampy field near Cottbus.

They had been more than two days without restful sleep, but their energy was amazing.

Chamberlin refused to lie down and rest during the afternoon. The wiry pilot, to whom all credit for the successful flight is given, partook of a hearty meal and then went out to the marsh to take a look at his crippled plane.

When the news of the flight was first reported, the town's Golden Book, signed previous to the flight by only one man—Prince Leopold of Bavaria in 1913, and an ex-mayor of the city.

Chamberlin's was to have been the third name in the book, the highest honor the city could accord him.

A German newspaper said he never upset the tradition, he signed his own name and placed his name before the American.

The newspaperman was threatened with violence.

First aid was given the fliers by Dr. Alfred Basse, the town's leading physician.

When the doctor returned from the swampy field in which the Bollanca plane landed, he proudly exhibited a four-leaf clover which he said he had picked at the very spot where the biplane had been on fire in the mud.

Dr. Basse placed the four-leaf clover reverently in a breast pocket.

"I will show this to my grandchildren," he said.

When the news of the flight was first reported, the town's Golden Book, signed previous to the flight by only one man—Prince Leopold of Bavaria in 1913, and an ex-mayor of the city.

Chamberlin's was to have been the third name in the book, the highest honor the city could accord him.

A German newspaper said he never upset the tradition, he signed his own name and placed his name before the American.

The newspaperman was threatened with violence.

First aid was given the fliers by Dr. Alfred Basse, the town's leading physician.

When the doctor returned from the swampy field in which the Bollanca plane landed, he proudly exhibited a four-leaf clover which he said he had picked at the very spot where the biplane had been on fire in the mud.

Dr. Basse placed the four-leaf clover reverently in a breast pocket.

"I will show this to my grandchildren," he said.

When the news of the flight was first reported, the town's Golden Book, signed previous to the flight by only one man—Prince Leopold of Bavaria in 1913, and an ex-mayor of the city.

Chamberlin's was to have been the third name in the book, the highest honor the city could accord him.

A German newspaper said he never upset the tradition, he signed his own name and placed his name before the American.

The newspaperman was threatened with violence.

First aid was given the fliers by Dr. Alfred Basse, the town's leading physician.

When the doctor returned from the swampy field in which the Bollanca plane landed, he proudly exhibited a four-leaf clover which he said he had picked at the very spot where the biplane had been on fire in the mud.

Dr. Basse placed the four-leaf clover reverently in a breast pocket.

"I will show this to my grandchildren," he said.

When the news of the flight was first reported, the town's Golden Book, signed previous to the flight by only one man—Prince Leopold of Bavaria in 1913, and an ex-mayor of the city.

Chamberlin's was to have been the third name in the book, the highest honor the city could accord him.

A German newspaper said he never upset the tradition, he signed his own name and placed his name before the American.

The newspaperman was threatened with violence.

First aid was given the fliers by Dr. Alfred Basse, the town's leading physician.

When the doctor returned from the swampy field in which the Bollanca plane landed, he proudly exhibited a four-leaf clover which he said he had picked at the very spot where the biplane had been on fire in the mud.

Dr. Basse placed the four-leaf clover reverently in a breast pocket.

"I will show this to my grandchildren," he said.

When the news of the flight was first reported, the town's Golden Book, signed previous to the flight by only one man—Prince Leopold of Bavaria in 1913, and an ex-mayor of the city.

Chamberlin's was to have been the third name in the book, the highest honor the city could accord him.

A German newspaper said he never upset the tradition, he signed his own name and placed his name before the American.

The newspaperman was threatened with violence.

First aid was given the fliers by Dr. Alfred Basse, the town's leading physician.

When the doctor returned from the swampy field in which the Bollanca plane landed, he proudly exhibited a four-leaf clover which he said he had picked at the very spot where the biplane had been on fire in the mud.

Dr. Basse placed the four-leaf clover reverently in a breast pocket.

"I will show this to my grandchildren," he said.

When the news of the flight was first reported, the town's Golden Book, signed previous to the flight by only one man—Prince Leopold of Bavaria in 1913, and an ex-mayor of the city.

University of Tulsa, who will teach courses in foreign trade. Mr. Weber received his A. B. degree at George Washington University in 1922, and his master's degree from Harvard in 1926.

Alfred Lomax, a former member of the staff, who has been taking graduate work at the University of Pennsylvania, will return to the University this fall.

O. K. Burrell, who has been teaching in Lakeview, Ore., will be added to the accounting department. Mr. Burrell received his M. A. from the University of Ohio.

Roy F. Bullock will teach marketing and A. F. Blagden will teach finance. Both are graduates of the school of business administration at Harvard.

Two graduate assistants added to the staff are Mabel Foote, graduate of the University of Utah, and Hugh M. Pier, graduate of Yankton college in South Dakota.

REPAIRS MADE

PETERS GO ON

(Continued from Page 1)

Everyone expected the airplane to be faint with exhaustion after their forced descent for the second time in the swampy field near Cottbus.

They had been more than two days without restful sleep, but their energy was amazing.

Chamberlin refused to lie down and rest during the afternoon. The wiry pilot, to whom all credit for the successful flight is given, partook of a hearty meal and then went out to the marsh to take a look at his crippled plane.

When the news of the flight was first reported, the town's Golden Book, signed previous to the flight by only one man—Prince Leopold of Bavaria in 1913, and an ex-mayor of the city.

Chamberlin's was to have been the third name in the book, the highest honor the city could accord him.

A German newspaper said he never upset the tradition, he signed his own name and placed his name before the American.

The newspaperman was threatened with violence.

First aid was given the fliers by Dr. Alfred Basse, the town's leading physician.

When the doctor returned from the swampy field in which the Bollanca plane landed, he proudly exhibited a four-leaf clover which he said he had picked at the very spot where the biplane had been on fire in the mud.

Dr. Basse placed the four-leaf clover reverently in a breast pocket.

"I will show this to my grandchildren," he said.

When the news of the flight was first reported, the town's Golden Book, signed previous to the flight by only one man—Prince Leopold of Bavaria in 1913, and an ex-mayor of the city.

Chamberlin's was to have been the third name in the book, the highest honor the city could accord him.

A German newspaper said he never upset the tradition, he signed his own name and placed his name before the American.

The newspaperman was threatened with violence.

First aid was given the fliers by Dr. Alfred Basse, the town's leading physician.

When the doctor returned from the swampy field in which the Bollanca plane landed, he proudly exhibited a four-leaf clover which he said he had picked at the very spot where the biplane had been on fire in the mud.

Dr. Basse placed the four-leaf clover reverently in a breast pocket.

"I will show this to my grandchildren," he said.

When the news of the flight was first reported, the town's Golden Book, signed previous to the flight by only one man—Prince Leopold of Bavaria in 1913, and an ex-mayor of the city.

Chamberlin's was to have been the third name in the book, the highest honor the city could accord him.

A German newspaper said he never upset the tradition, he signed his own name and placed his name before the American.

The newspaperman was threatened with violence.

First aid was given the fliers by Dr. Alfred Basse, the town's leading physician.

When the doctor returned from the swampy field in which the Bollanca plane landed, he proudly exhibited a four-leaf clover which he said he had picked at the very spot where the biplane had been on fire in the mud.

Dr. Basse placed the four-leaf clover reverently in a breast pocket.

"I will show this to my grandchildren," he said.

When the news of the flight was first reported, the town's Golden Book, signed previous to the flight by only one man—Prince Leopold of Bavaria in 1913, and an ex-mayor of the city.

Chamberlin's was to have been the third name in the book, the highest honor the city could accord him.

A German newspaper said he never upset the tradition, he signed his own name and placed his name before the American.

The newspaperman was threatened with violence.

First aid was given the fliers by Dr. Alfred Basse, the town's leading physician.

When the doctor returned from the swampy field in which the Bollanca plane landed, he proudly exhibited a four-leaf clover which he said he had picked at the very spot where the biplane had been on fire in the mud.

Dr. Basse placed the four-leaf clover reverently in a breast pocket.

"I will show this to my grandchildren," he said.

When the news of the flight was first reported, the town's Golden Book, signed previous to the flight by only one man—Prince Leopold of Bavaria in 1913, and an ex-mayor of the city.

Chamberlin's was to have been the third name in the book, the highest honor the city could accord him.

A German newspaper said he never upset the tradition, he signed his own name and placed his name before the American.

The newspaperman was threatened with violence.

First aid was given the fliers by Dr. Alfred Basse, the town's leading physician.

When the doctor returned from the swampy field in which the Bollanca plane landed, he proudly exhibited a four-leaf clover which he said he had picked at the very spot where the biplane had been on fire in the mud.

Dr. Basse placed the four-leaf clover reverently in a breast pocket.

"I will show this to my grandchildren," he said.

When the news of the flight was first reported, the town's Golden Book, signed previous to the flight by only one man—Prince Leopold of Bavaria in 1913, and an ex-mayor of the city.

You'd delight Blanche Ring if you offered her a Lucky Strike

"The life of an athlete is out of nerve-nerve. If she's tired, her worries are doubled. Her confidence is lost, her mood, if she is mentally tired, she cannot help but convey her fatigue to those out in front and the result is a form of error on both sides of the footlights. I have found a sure cure for such fatigue, on the part of the player, is a good cigarette. For years I have smoked Lucky Strikes and the mental balm and real enjoyment I have derived from them have helped me tremendously. In addition they have protected my voice. I use no other brand."

Blanche Ring

You, too, will find that Lucky Strikes are mild and mellow—the finest cigarettes you ever smoked, made of the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, properly aged and blended with great skill, and there is an extra process—"It's toasted"—no harshness, not a bit of bite.

"It's toasted" Your Throat Protection

COUNCIL HAS HAND TIME TO GET JURYMEN
(Continued from Page One)

The prosecution challenged Justice Smith when he said he would object to holding all members in a conspiracy equally guilty unless their participation in the crime was equal. They stressed this point, indicating they expected to win this as a major factor in the trial. The defense attorneys explained this phase of the law, but the judge ruled that Mr. Smith should be excused.

E. E. Gare, of Medford, stated he had been a school mate of Coyle Johnson, who was killed in the tunnel explosion, for which offense the defendant is charged, but stated he could render a fair verdict and remained in the box.

F. J. Pick, Jacksonville, said he objected to the death penalty based on circumstantial evidence and was excused.

John O. Higgs, of Ashland, said he had no scruples against capital punishment nor bias against circumstantial evidence; that he could return a verdict for death penalty based on circumstantial evidence; but that he held an opinion which would probably prevent him from serving fairly as a juror in this case, as those concerned would be working under a disadvantage to have to overcome the prejudice he held. When he stated his mind was not open, he was dismissed.

D. S. Clarke and Carl Anderson, Medford, were excused because of fixed opinions. E. O. Hutley, who holds religious scruples against serving on a jury, was excused.

Monday afternoon Louis Dodge, who assisted in handling the bodies for burial after the explosion, Trull, were excused.

W. H. Whittle, Gold Hill, was tentatively chosen for the jury.

W. H. Whittle, Gold Hill, was tentatively chosen for the jury.

The New Fire Siren

Ashland accomplished a much-needed improvement when the new fire alarm system was installed, and everyone naturally feels that the protection against disastrous fires is greater than previously...

However, there is just as much reason as ever to take precautions, not only to prevent fire, but to protect oneself against loss in case of fire.

If you carry fire insurance to adequately cover your property, and place your insurance policies, deeds, bonds and other valuable and important papers, in a safe deposit box in our vault, your personal worry will be less when you hear the fire siren shriek.

It's a good thing to do as part of your celebration of Fire Prevention Week.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
ASHLAND OREGON
COMMERCIAL - SAVINGS - SAFE DEPOSIT

Folks Expected To Send "Lindy" Many Greetings

Preparations to care for the flood of air mail greetings to welcome Chamberlin, expected to result from the promise of Postmaster General New, is to see that the courageous air mail pilot gets every air mail letter addressed in his care, were being speeded today by Postmaster Wagner, Ashland.

Extra planes and pilots are being held in readiness by the Pacific Air Transport at strategic locations along the Coast to rush the congratulatory messages to the transcontinental planes.

Air mail letters should be addressed to Captain Charles A. Lindbergh, care of the Postmaster General, Washington, D. C., marked "Air Mail" and bear ten cents postage. They may be dropped in any air mail box. Disruptive air mail stamps are not necessary but should be used where possible and may be obtained at the post office.

Wives Get News
NEW YORK, June 7—(AP)—Too excited to sleep, too happy to feel fatigue—Mrs. WILMA Chamberlin and Mrs. Grace Levine spent a joyous day Monday receiving gifts and telegrams and preparing to sail for Germany to join their husbands. A check for $16,000 was presented to Mrs. Chamberlin by the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the record-breaking flight of the Bollanca plane.

The same organization presented to Mrs. Levine a wrist watch studded with 45 diamonds.

Levine "Just Completed"
BERLIN, June 7—(AP)—A 19-

Satisfactory Printing

Regardless of what kind of printing you may need.
LETTERHEADS, STATEMENTS, ENVELOPES,
BOOKLETS, OR WHAT NOT.

THE TIDINGS PRINT SHOP

can handle it quickly and to your entire satisfaction at reasonable price.

Phone 39
AND WE WILL BE GLAD TO CALL

Jennings Tent Show

Program for This Week

Tuesday—"The Law of the North." A story of Alaska in four acts.

Wednesday—"The Game." A society drama in three acts.

Thursday—"The Girl from Smoky Mountain," a western story.

Friday—Feature play "The Turn of the Road." A powerful New York City crook drama in four acts.

Saturday—"The Millionaire and the Mapper" a farce comedy drama in three acts.

Sunday—The greatest of all American dramas, "St. Elmo" in four acts.

On Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights, a concert or aftershow will be given immediately following the main show. This concert consists of vaudeville numbers and special vaudeville acts and lasts about 45 minutes.

WE MAKE YOUR CAR LOOK LIKE NEW

7 Coat Air Brush Paint Job
A Standard Factory Job Done Very Reasonable

Come In And Let Us Quote Our Price

We Assure You Our Work Will Please You

Glaycomb Motor Co.
The Ford Garage

Lincoln Ford Fordson

IT DOES Make a Difference Where You Buy Your FORD

ROSARIA

Mammoth Pageant of the Portland Rose Festival
June 13 to 18

Pageant each night, June 13 to 17, at New Civic Stadium. Cost of 5000 persons. Music by Charles Wainfield Chabran. Chorus of 500. Brilliant band made up of musicians from Elected Portland Symphony Orchestra.

7 great spectacular episodes of light, color, action, music and drama with the massive stage sections changed in twinkling of an eye, as if by magic, to the largest stage ever built in the West.

The Northwest's greatest achievement in spectacular pageantry.

Order Tickets Now

Send orders and make checks to Rose Festival, Oregon Building, Portland. Prices: 100c, 25c, 50c, 75c, 1.00. Defective performance, refunded. Or you may order tickets by telephone at long distance telephone.

The 1927 Rose Festival will be the greatest Portland has ever staged. Every day, Monday to Saturday, crowd with the best of them, including motion picture, vaudeville, air shows, band, beautiful cost parade, grotesque parade, parade of all nations, raising military parade; outdoor children's park, etc., etc.

Plan a Portland Vacation
EXCURSION RATES FROM ALL NORTHWEST POINTS