Photo copyright, 1927 by N E A Service, Inc. Transmitted by telephoto. Here is the first actual picture of Lindbergh in France to reach this country. It shows the youthful flyer, his face glowing with a happy smile, being embraced by U. S. Ambassador Myron T. Herrick at Paris, while Parisians in the background shout their acclaim. This picture was brought to the United States on the White Star liner Majestic, rushed up New York bay by fast NEA Service speedboat and transmitted from New York by telephone.

The sewing club girls are having their achievement day program and box social Thursday night. They are practicing every day, and it is hoped they will do well financially in their effort to raise money toward sending a delegate or two to the summer school at Corvallis.

Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Barnes entertained friends from Grants Pass Sunday.

Mrs. W. G. Tucker and her cousin, Miss Mary L. Boynton, had dinner Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Carter in Jacksonville. Miss Boynton is spending the first days of the week with Mrs. Carter.

All of the ranchers are haying and all one hears is trying to get this hay or that hay in before it rains. Rain is an uncertain quantity this summer.

H. W. Young of Phoenix was a visitor Sunday at the home of the C. M. Hamilton family.

On Monday night a wether roast was held at the Hamilton home which was the final windup of a contest which the choir of the Four Square Gospel has been having to get more members. Mr. Hamilton being at the head of the losing team, treated the other team. A good time and lots of fun was had.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE TIDINGS

IT'S the cigarette of the age — the triumph of all smoking history. Just reflect—at the time when more cigarettes are smoked than ever before—Camels passed them all.

Why? Figure it out and you'll find that Camel is made for the particular smoker whose taste, day by day, is more knowing of quality. Camels are rolled of the choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos grown. And what blending! Camel's smoothness and mellowness are qualities distinctive to this cigarette.

If you haven't yet tried them, you'll find all your smoking wishes come true in Camels. Mild, clear and smooth from morning to night. Always so satisfyingly good! "Have a Camel!"

Continuity

There is nothing like newspaper advertising for continuity.

Successful advertising must be regular and frequent. Some serial ideas are strong enough to carry over from week to week or month to month. But the newspaper advertiser can write the chapters of his advertising story at any interval he likes—every day, every other day, or twice a week.

Read the advertisements. They give you wisdom when you buy.

FARM NOTES

Green feed for poultry is cut fine in a feed-cutter and fed in a green feed hopper. In a hopper it stays together and remains succulent much longer than when thrown upon the floor or into the yards and scattered around by the fowls.

A catching coop is of use on the poultry farm when fowls are treated for lice, vaccinated for chicken-pox, or when culled, graded or moved. It saves labor with less danger of injuring the fowls.

A can or barrel large enough to hold a week's supply of grain in each poultry pen saves time and labor. A slanting to prevent the fowls from roosting on it.

Poultry meat is canned by many Oregon housewives and with simple methods a good tasting preserve is made. By the following method a 2-pound dressed fowl gives about 1 pint of solid meat and 1 pint of jelly.

The raw meat is taken off the bones and cut up, so it will go into the jar easily. It is packed tightly in cleaned, tested, glass jars to 1 inch of the top. A half teaspoonful of salt and seasoning is added, but no water. Covers with new rubbers are placed lightly on the jars. Then the jars are put into a tightly covered container, like a pressure canner or steamcooker, but a washbottle or sapbucket will also do. The water is heated to boiling point and the meat sterilized 4 to 5 hours. Before taking the cans from the sterilizer, they are tightly sealed. When these jars are stored in a dark and cool place the meat remains good for a long time.

BEN LINDSAY LOSES JOB

WASHINGTON D. C., June 6 (AP)—Judge Ben B. Lindsay today lost his job on the bench of the Denver, Colorado juvenile court.

The U. S. supreme court denied him a review of the Colorado Court order ousting him.

MOSCOW (United Press).—More than 70,000 residents of this city live in houses un-equipped with running water and even without sewerage, as a result of the great recent growth of the city population. Last year homes for 100,000 persons were built but the city increased by 480,000 in that period.
