Fire Prevention

A fireman's primary duty is to prevent fires. To know how to fight them is of course essential.

Prevention, however, is the keynote of a fireman's duty. He stands ready to fight fires, just as a physician must stand ready to fight diseases.

Co-operation of the public in this work is essential. The fire chief does not ask you to clean up a fire trap, just to exert his own authority.

To recognize the value of fire prevention and co-operation in preaching the essentials of this prevention, and in observing them, is the duty of every citizen.

The Big Thrills

Some of these things that give the big thrills are not really as thrilling as they look.

One would suppose that a transatlantic flier would get a quiver up and down his back bone as he looked down and saw himself flying over the ocean.

It is natural to look with envy at the other man's job. This is especially true when the other fellow's job gets a lot of attention and yours doesn't get any.

But the job of flying across the ocean really is something of a monotonous one in which a lot of persons take part. First the airplane must be manufactured and that means a lot of grinding, lifting and other monotonous work in a shop.

When it finally comes time to fly across the ocean the pilot probably gets about as much thrill as a stage driver does when he starts out on his run for the 50,000th time.

Tule lake farmers who are having their grain eaten by grasshoppers should send for the turkey raisers to come to their rescue.

Los Angeles is reported to be divided in a great water war. If it's anything like the water wars that used to go down in the old swimmin' hole we are for it until summer is over at least.

North Carolina has a law which gives preachers right of way in traffic on the streets. But preachers who show speed on the concrete usually have stop signs on their pulpits.

Variety is said to be dominant note in Hollywood bathing suits this year. How could it be otherwise when nature never made any two things alike.

An automatic tractor, guaranteed to "work while you sleep" was recently perfected, according to a press dispatch. This should bring about some farm relief.

If "Slim" continues to hold out against motion picture offers it will restore people's belief that there are some men to whom their work means more than money and some few things that money cannot buy.

Printed "checks" will be in vogue this summer, according to a recent fashion article.

"Schools to be represented in a dumbbell drill" read a headline. But it didn't refer to Commencement exercises.

These frequent showers keep lawns and hillsides gloriously green this year.

EQUIPMENT PURCHASED FOR HANDLING APPLES

Purchase of five complete washing and sizing machines by the Steward Fruit company of Medford, is announced by the manager, Ralph Bardwell. The machinery will be installed in ample time to care for the apple crop this season.

Marriage is a process by which much love is denatured.

No idea amounts to much unless it is dangerous to somebody.

There is no charity in giving alms to a hard-boiled beggar.

The man who lends takes over the troubles of the man who borrows.

No man can successfully manage one job and two women at the same time.

In making a settlement, it is better to do the quarreling before signing your name than afterwards.

Hex Heck says: "Idleness and pills is great pals."

A super-Newtonian equation to define laws of motion is on the verge of being worked out, says a scientist. But we have a feeling that it won't be a bit of help to the lady who strips her gears.

Never cross a bridge partner before all the blunt instruments are removed from sight.

America is safe, the navy's mimic war on the coast proved. Now we can step out and buy a straw hat.

Covered Dish Supper in Masonic Hall—
An elaborate covered-dish supper was served at 6:30 o'clock last evening, Tuesday, June 7, in the Masonic hall to the members of Alpha Chapter No. 1, O. E. S. There was an unusually large attendance.
Following a most satisfying meal, an interesting business session was conducted, during which several matters of importance to the Chapter were taken up and discussed.
A short, but very enjoyable program was given. Miss Margaret Churchman and Miss Lillian Olson delighted their audience with several ukulele selections. Mrs. Mary Wilshire gave a delightful reading, followed by a vocal solo by Miss Ruth Hackler of Talent, which was most beautifully rendered.
The remainder of the evening was spent playing cards.
