The local chapter of the Delphinus held their last meeting for this year yesterday afternoon, Wednesday, June 9, in the Lithia Springs hotel, each member being privileged to bring one guest. Mrs. Herbert McCarthy was chairman of the affair.

Fifty-five members and guests enjoyed an elaborate luncheon at one o'clock, the former receiving pretty little black satin book marks as favors and the latter dainty French bouquets of cut flowers. At this time, Mrs. W. A. Macky, the retiring president, presented Mrs. V. V. Mills, retiring supervisor, with a most beautiful bouquet of roses, in appreciation of her splendid work and help during her term of office.

Following luncheon the members adjourned to the ballroom where the regular business session was held. Mrs. Herbert McCarthy was elected to serve as president for the ensuing year. Mrs. Judd Miller, vice-president, and Mrs. George Yes, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. F. G. Swenson was appointed by Mrs. Gibbs state supervisor of the organization, to act as local supervisor for the coming year.

The following ladies took part in yesterday's enjoyable Delphinus program: Mesdames C. A. Halsness, J. M. Wagner, Judd Miller, Geo. A. Briscoe, S. A. Peters, Jr., W. D. Mesdames John Greb and R. Trusty Entertain
Mrs. John Greb and Mrs. R. Trusty entertained at the home of the latter in Ashland recently with a miscellaneous shower honoring Miss Frances Greb of Eagle Point, who became the bride of Mr. A. M. Miller of this city on Sunday, June 5.

Briscoe played "Here Comes the Bride," followed by a recital "Married Three Months," given by Mrs. Bonham. This number on the program brought the house down with laughter. Miss Greb gave a number entitled "The Old But Hen" and she was then introduced to the basket, which contained many beautiful and useful gifts.

Delicious refreshments were served, the color scheme being carried out in blue and white.

Those who enjoyed the delightful hospitality of Mrs. Greb and Mrs. Trusty were: Mesdames Bonham, Powell, Poyer, George A. Briscoe, C. A. RESTRICTIONS EXPLAINED

L. H. Leach, State Health Department Representative, Investigates

Garbage feeding hogs are under the supervision of the state health department, L. H. Leach, explained to city councilmen recently.

"It requires an expenditure of at least $400 for a man to properly equip a place for feeding hogs garbage," Mr. Leach said. He has been spending several days in Ashland and Medford, investigating a number of reports regarding the feeding of garbage to hogs under conditions which the state department prohibits.

"A cement feeding floor is one of the first requisites, then boilers for cooking the garbage, the feeding pens must be away from highways, and distant enough from dwellings that no unpleasant odors reach homes," he said.

It is necessary to have hogs fattened on garbage vaccinated. Garbage collected from homes, Mr. Leach said, might be fed to hogs without cooking but it is compulsory to cook all feed collected from restaurants or uncooked meats from markets.

Mr. Leach will advise City Solicitor Wm. Briggs in drawing up a suitable ordinance providing for the disposal of garbage in this city.

At the present time there is only one place in Ashland equipped and meeting state requirements for garbage feeding. Mr. Leach said and expressed the belief that it would be unprofitable for other places to be established.

thing to say. Mrs. D'Astremont said she did not know whether the captured men were really her sons, but added that if they were able to clear Ray and Roy.

Every indication was that the trial would continue just as if the capture of the two other D'Astremonts had not been made. Some thought the trial might be delayed until the return of the two alleged bandits, but it appeared that this would not be done.

The state feels that the capture of the two D'Astremonts will strengthen their case, although the state ostensibly has not decided upon any special action as a result of the capture.
