Quick Thinker
THE Story Goes THAT at an Elk's JAMBOREE a PRIZE of a Silk Hat WAS offered to ANY man present who WOULD stand UP and say that HE had never KISSED any other WOMAN but his WIFE since being married AND not one STOOD up. It is RUMORED that ONE of the local CITIZENS was indiscreet ENOUGH to mention THE incident at home AND of course HIS wife asked him IMMEDIATELY why IT was that he didn't STAND up. He STAMMERED a little and BLUSHED and then REPLIED that he started TO, but just then HE happened to think THAT he looks LIKE the very dickens IN a plug hat.
P. S. Some things are better unmentioned, but that is not the case with our line of vacation needs.

Home-Coming Day

While the Nation awaits with a thrill the home-coming of its young flying hero who is to be feted in Washington tomorrow, so also does Ashland eagerly look forward to the home-coming of the Normal School graduates of other years.

Especially beautiful is it that a pageant has been prepared for Ashland's Alumni Day tomorrow. Surely there could be no better setting than Lithia Park for such a festivity.

We welcome the home-comers, and bespeak the fullest co-operation of all citizens to make this a most successful and auspicious celebration.
