County Fair In Distress

The announcement a few days ago of the distribution of the county fair money by the state, which shows that Jackson county will get approximately only $1,600 this year, in contrast to the usual $3,000 revenue which the county ordinarily received from this source, added to the loss of the money which the state formerly gave for premiums, which was cut off when the governor vetoed the appropriation bill, only emphasized the necessity of providing money for the maintenance of the county fair.

At the special election to be held June 28th., a proposed levy not to exceed one mill is to be submitted to the legal voters for the purpose of raising the necessary funds for the maintenance of the fair and to provide buildings which are considered absolutely necessary, such as a School Children's Exhibit Building, comfort stations and other structures.

Without going into detail or lengthy argument, the situation is a simple one. Unless this levy is approved in the special election, there will be no new buildings and, in fact, there will be no fair at all, for in the past even with the assistance of these incomes which are being lost this year, the fair has never been self-sustaining.

There may be arguments against the holding of a county fair, but they are rather inconsequential ones. We should have a county fair this year and, with this special mill levy necessary to finance it, The Daily Tidings feels that this measure should be heartily approved by the voters of Jackson county.

Praising Our Own Paper

Modesty is a virtue, we know, but when we are able to issue a newspaper such as was represented in The Daily Tidings yesterday, we cannot refrain from calling its advantages to our readers in hopes that our efforts to give Ashland a splendid newsy newspaper will be fairly appreciated.

There was so much local news in the paper that we had to even put a red-hot telegraph story about Colonel Lindbergh on an inside page, with a small head to designate it. This was not done with any wrong conception of the interest in the famous American flyer's activities, but was based simply on the knowledge that our readers want to know first what their neighbors are doing. And that is our first ambition—to cover the local news to the exclusion of all other news.

Did you particularly notice yesterday's Daily Tidings? By air-mail had come a wonderful 5-column illustration of Colonel Lindbergh making his memorable speech of good-will at Washington—only one picture of many which NEA service gives us as quickly as the biggest city papers get them. Then there were several stories—all exclusive and down to the last minute—on the D'Antremont trial by our special representative at the court house; and many other interesting small news items of local interest.

Inside, every page was filled with news or features which added to the interest of the issue. And along with the profession of news, were dozens of interesting advertisements, all set neatly and attractively, and the whole carrying the clear, distinct print which is produced on our big, modern press.

Think Well

June 28 is the date set for special election. Oregon voters will go to the polls to pass upon measures to increase taxes and regulate liberties.

It would be well to think well, and study much before the day arrives. Then be sure and vote intelligently on all proposed measures.

There are two main state measures. The people must accept or reject the Income tax law.

They must pass judgment on the Blue Blank law.

Jackson county folks must pass on the County School Unit system, as a local measure.

They must also reject or approve a levy for raising funds for the county fair.

There are other measures to be passed upon, and the time to think these matters out is before election time. Regardless of whether you vote or not a majority rules nation. So it is up to every serious thinking voter to study well the proposed measures and then to go to the polls and vote. You are the only one vitally interested and it is up to you to think and to vote.

The percentages of Americans who are total abstainers are 30 per cent of the men and 67.1 per cent of the women, a recent survey showed. Again the ladies lead.

THE FORUM

Articles of timely interest are welcomed under this head. Communications must bear the signature of the author.

HOOD RIVER, Or., June 15.—(To the Editor.)—In Governor Patterson's interview in The Oregonian Sunday I notice that he says, "The money that the income tax will provide has already been contracted; the expenditure of some of it was ordered by the people themselves by their direct vote; the remainder of it through the votes of their duly chosen representatives."

It occurs to me that such proceeding—spending money before it is in the hands of the state officials or before they know whether they will get it or not, and knowing that it all depends on the uncertainty of a general election—is farfetched, not in harmony with prudence or thrift and is in fact an unconstitutional procedure. I say this in criticism of public officials, notwithstanding my respect for them as individuals in private life.

This income tax law may not be adopted at the election on this 28th day of June. For my part I sincerely hope it is not adopted. If I had the constitutional or legal right, I would vote against it a thousand times.

As matters now stand, the farmer pays a high tax on his farm, and if he has an income, net, of $4,000 or over, he pays an income tax to the federal government and an income tax to the state under this income tax law. Three times taxed on the same property or proceeds from the same identical property. I believe that is the rankest kind of discrimination—against the farmer or land owner. Do the banks do that? No. Emphatically no!

I believe this income tax law is against the farmer and wage earner and small income man to his prejudice and permits the banks and others to escape the heavy part of the tax. "Ten dollars is easier collected by indirect tax than $1 by a direct tax."

Not only so, I believe the income tax law to be acted on the 28th day of this June is unconstitutional, defective and unenforceable. J. W. MORTON.

DETER NOTES

C. L. Craig and family motored to Ashland Tuesday. James Nutt, Barney Miller and Max Hawks who have been working at the Ageris mill returned to their homes in Ashland Wednesday. Marshall Horn was a business visitor in Hill Wednesday. Theo and Oren Deter spent Sunday with friends in Ashland. Orion Mapleaden was a caller at the Deter ranch Sunday forenoon. Leslie Henderson of White Point spent Sunday at his home in Hornbrook. Mrs. Grace Deter has been in Jacksonville on the D'Antremont trial since last Sunday. She is expected home today. C. L. Taylor of Hill is working at the Deter ranch. Jack O'Neil, logging contractor of Grandas, was in this vicinity Sunday looking after business interests. Clarence Dodge drove down to Ashland Wednesday in his new Essex roadster.

THE MARCH OF PROGRESS

One of the few domains held sacred to the male is beginning to crumble before the more deadly of the species. Lois Weber for several years enjoyed the distinction of being the only woman director in Hollywood colony. She was later joined by Dorothy Azner and still later by Elisabeth Picketts. Fred Nible, noted male director, is one who thinks the era of the directorship is on the way. He believes, however, that most of the women will turn to the production of comedies rather than melodramas. A woman's subtle touch might do much more in comedies than it would ever do in the dramatic or melodramatic, he thinks.

ROSES OF LIFE

I planted a rose in my garden, Life planted a rose in my heart; They brightened my life and my cottage With sweetness and magical art. I picked a white rose from my garden And life picked a rose from my heart; I gave the white rose to a dear one Life gave to me love for my part. Life gave to me love for my part. The rose that I grew in my garden With wonderful sweetness was life. And love that my heart has long cherished Has grown for me roses of life— Emma Carbut Richey, Corbett Hill, Cal.

Important Books Reviewed

"Brother Saul," by Donna Byrne. Not the author of Marco Bozatis but leaping into fame as the creator of "Messer Marco Polo," the love story of the man who married the daughter of Kubla Khan. That sweet writer Donna Byrne, who has revealed in the romances of the racetrack and the purlieus of the prize ring, whose pet characters get mellow on Irish whiskey and on the inner quips and quirks of sportsmen and gaming devices and shove all can spin the most adorably romantic love stories, should take to writing the affairs of the Apostle, who had all the learning of the Greeks and the Jews, and was a recipient of visions and performed miracles, and the propagandist of the Christian religion, is in itself a marvel—a miracle. We do not take kindly to the new Donna Byrne as a kind of literary Billy Sunday. We will have to turn him over to the reader as one acting a new part, that will seem as strange as though he were posing as the author of Ben Hur. It is a strange picture of the world in the days when the Roman Empire was young and the Nazarene himself was on earth.

Social Circle Meets Wednesday

The Social Circle of the Christian church will hold their regular meeting in the church parlors on Wednesday afternoon, June 22. Everyone is urged by the president, Mrs. C. O. Holman to attend this meeting as it will be the last one this summer. A splendid social time has been arranged and the following committee will be in charge of the refreshments: Mrs. R. L. Burdick, chairman, assisted by Mesdames W. J. Wallace, Leah Caldwell, W. C. Clapp and Mary Courts.

Both small and large hats are being chosen for the summer. A great deal depends upon the wearer. Tall, slender persons or matrons with stately proportions can wear the large hat, whereas small and stout women should adhere to smaller millinery shapes.

Nobody ever destroyed a fact, and nobody ever will. Love's dosage should be small if you want the love to last. Men with both money and a grievance make rich picking for the lawyers. Many things have to be done twice because they were done wrong the first time. There is but one real problem in life, and that is to find buyers for what you have to sell. Did you ever stop to count the number of folks that the town could get along without missing at all. Hes Heck says: "After a woman reaches 200 pounds, she should lay off cryin' and fall back on the rollin' pin." LOS ANGELES, June 18.—(IP)—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion left today over the Southern Pacific for New York to enter final training for a battle with Jack Sharkey, tentatively set for July 21.

This And That

Dempsey goes in training for another bout. Maybe next year will be the season for comebacks. Now that commencement, the cabaret, the Spring Festival and Alumni day are over everything seems unusually quiet. I believe this income tax law is against the farmer and wage earner and small income man to his prejudice and permits the banks and others to escape the heavy part of the tax. "Ten dollars is easier collected by indirect tax than $1 by a direct tax." Not only so, I believe the income tax law to be acted on the 28th day of this June is unconstitutional, defective and unenforceable. J. W. MORTON. Fishing reported good at East Lake. Tourists all admire Ashland. When will the need for more cabins at the city tourist camp be recognized. The "chorus girls" certainly were the big hit at the cabaret. There will probably be an exodus of professional criminals from California when August arrives. Two university boys are carrying their way through school, not as snake charmers—but as snake farmers. Since there is to be no incline cable up to the summit of Mt. Hood we probably won't get our heels mixed up in the chewing gum which the flappers park.
