

YREKA TEAM WILL BE HERE

Definite Assurance is Given Baseball Men For Holiday Games

Definite assurance that the Yreka baseball team will play back July third and fourth was received by local baseball men Thursday.

Some discussion had arisen regarding the holiday games, the visitors from California wanting to change their minds about the Monday game and return to California to attend the big celebration at Dunsmuir.

Holiday attractions in the vicinity of Ashland were sufficiently great however, that the players gave definite assurance this morning that they would remain over for the Monday game.

The Yreka team is a hard-hitting aggregation with records of many victories for the season, including a smashing victory over the Boas for which the locals will attempt to revenge themselves in the holiday games, which are to be played at the Jackson Hot Springs grounds.

Met Childhood Chum Recently

While looking up a name in the directory, Mr. Johnson saw the name of James E. Ryan. He had known a James E. Ryan 44 years ago back in Wisconsin, but did not know he had come to the coast country.

However, he risked a nickel in the phone call and the result was a visit with his old playmate. The two of them had not seen each other for 44 years when at the age of 18 years Mr. Johnson came west.

Gorgeous Show of Mystery Opens at Vining Next Tuesday

Way back into the shadowy dreamy past, for centuries before the Christian era, people of all nations, creeds and colors have tried to fathom the great unknown, to look into the future and solve life's great mysteries. Each race has had its soothsayer, witch doctor or medicine man.

As civilization has progressed, superstition has given way to science, and now all these great mysteries and expressions in the hands of the modern magician.

Richards, the world's foremost magician, will be the attraction at the Vining theater for three days starting Tuesday night. Richards brings to Ashland a show that not only contains the very utmost in the most modern twentieth century mystery, but he also offers the most baffling and weird wonders of the Orient and Far East.

In fact, so great is his repertoire and so massive the equipment that two special railroad baggage cars are required to transport the many big, ponderous effects: two mechanical crews are required to handle the trappings. A large company of artists, musicians, electricians, assistant magis and pretty girls assist, not to mention a regular Barnum's menagerie of livestock, birds and animals.

The show, most gorgeously staged, is in three acts and 19 elaborate scenes, and requires almost three hours in its entirety.

COUNTY HEALTH NOTES

Swimming pools require good design to insure proper sanitation. The floor surrounding the pool should be constructed of material impervious to water and so arranged that all water will drain into the sewer and not flow back into the pool. The cleanliness of the tank should be insured by the construction of a trough at edges of tank to afford a place for expectionation and to prevent dirt from draining into the pool. The tank should be large—about four-hundred gallons of water per bather are needed. Water in the pool should at all times be sufficiently transparent to enable a person standing by the side of the pool to see the bottom distinctly.

Filteration seems to be a necessity in swimming pools as it is next to impossible to insure the purity of the water of a swimming pool by changing the water daily or weekly. A properly operated filter will remove all of the dirt, color, turbidity, and suspended material from the water and will deliver a clear, sparkling water to the pool. Filteration is an economical procedure when the water must be heated and is an excellent sanitary measure.

The bathers are constantly introducing pollution and occasionally infection. To offset this, disinfection should also be continuous. If clarification and disinfection are properly conducted, swimming pools can be made reasonably safe. Swimming is one of the best and most exhilarating forms of exercise, and as swimming pool water is essentially drinking water it should measure up to the same standards.
