BLAMES WOMAN FOR WARS
 NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Women thus far have utterly failed as world peace makers and to the contrary have been responsible for many of the world's greatest wars, says the Woman's Home Companion for September in an article headed "Women as War Makers."
 "Most of the real work for permanent peace is still being done by men," continues the article, "and the movements should have the strongest support and inspiring leadership from the mothers of the nation. The statement that women have hitherto failed as peacemakers should be repeated again and again."
 "There is bitter truth in the recent statement of the great leader of women, Carrie Chapman Catt, that women have caused more friction among nations than any other influence which has resulted in history's great wars. Mrs. Catt attributes this to the tendency of women throughout the world to repeat in exaggerated form statements of men in regard to matters of race hatred and other phases of foreign policy which might make countries spring at each other's throat."

STUMP SPEAKING VIA AIRPLANE ROUTE A HIT WITH MOODY OF TEXAS
 AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Governor Dan Moody, youthful chief executive of Texas, has solved the difficult task of personally campaigning Texas, largest of all states.
 The governor took his first airplane trip the other day. Heretofore, he had been skeptical of airplanes and had refused to ride in one. However, the governor had business to attend to in Waco, Fort Worth and Dallas within a period of 12 hours. Train travel was too slow so he consented to ride in an airplane. "Air travel seems safe to me, although I'd sure hate to have to jump out of a plane with a parachute," he said on his return. "It taught me this, however: Air travel is the only possible means of getting over Texas in a political campaign."

County Health Notes

Eighty-two cases of epidemic poliomyelitis or infantile paralysis were reported to the California State Board of Health during the first two weeks of July. A few cases have been reported in Oregon. Infantile paralysis is an acute generalized infection due to a filterable virus, occurring both in epidemics and sporadically. The infective nature of the disease has been conclusively shown. The virus attacks the nervous system and persists in the nasal secretion for a long time. The paralysis may be preceded three or four days by nausea, vomiting, and fever. However, a child may go to bed apparently well, and wake up in the morning with paralysis and slight fever. The great majority of the cases are found in children under five. Cases among persons over twenty are comparatively rare.

For the benefit of the public the following regulations for the control of infantile paralysis are published: The patient should be isolated as completely as possible in a clean, bare room, well screened to keep out insects. Visiting is not permitted, and only the necessary attendant should come in contact with the disease. All discharges, including sputum, nasal secretions, urine and feces, should be thoroughly disinfected. Eating utensils should be boiled. Everything that comes in contact with the patient should be sterilized. Towels, bed linen, and other fabrics should be boiled or dipped in a strong germicidal solution. The period at which isolation should be maintained cannot be guessed at. Children are not permitted to return to school for at least three weeks.

In the presence of an epidemic, street and house dust should be kept down by sprinkling, oiling, or other means employed for this purpose. Dust should be allayed whether there is an epidemic or not. During epidemics children should be kept away from public gatherings.

The possibility of infantile paralysis being a milkborne infection emphasizes the importance of the prophylactic value of pasteurized milk.

T. R.'S 1912 RUNNING MATE LIVES IN SEMI-ISOLATION

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(AP)—John M. Parker, Roosevelt's running mate in the 1912 presidential campaign, the stormiest petrel that ever occupied the governor's chair of Louisiana and millionaire by dint of life-time tilling of red Southern clay has been re-discovered in a $500 farm house in which he has buried himself beyond politics forever and ever.

Searching for the picturesque figure, a representative of Farm and Fireside discovered him in his frame cottage, isolated from telephones, radio and telegraph stations, near St. Francisville, La. He was ready with an enthusiastic declaration that "these past four years have been the happiest of my life. I wouldn't go back to heat dingers, dress clothes, steam heat, confusion—not for anything on earth."

Parker's isolation provides a refuge for much-sought public persons such as General Pershing who hides out with the ex-governor in the spring and fall to indulge in duck shooting.

"Lazy Husbands" Get Airport in Readiness for National Air Race

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 25.—(Special)—"Lazy husbands aren't nearly so lazy in Spokane since the Spokane airport was awarded the seventh annual national air races, and designated as the terminus for the National Air Derby race from New York and the Pacific Coast Air Derby race from New York, and the Pacific Coast Air Derby race from San Francisco.

"Lazy husbands! What are they good for—nothing."

This is undoubtedly what the wives of lazy husbands think about their men, but Major John T. Fancher, managing director of the National Air Derby Association of Spokane, is a little inclined to disagree.

"It's not that Major Fancher is a friend of the lazy husbands that makes him lean their way, but because of the work they have done in removing tons and tons of 'nigger head' rocks from the mile and a half by a half mile wide landing field, where the national air races will be flown. Sheriff Floyd Brower of Spokane county has a rule that all lazy husband prisoners must work, and at the request of Major Fancher he agreed that the lazy husbands should prepare the Spokane airport for the races. Each morning for the last three months a large truck has backed up to the jail door, taken the prisoners eight miles to the airport, where, rain or shine, they 'heaved to' on picks, shovels and crow-bars for eight hours a day. Armed guards stand over them all day.

Patent Leather Kid is Given Premier Show

Gotham's early fall fling at entertaining movie stars is being enjoyed by Broadway. Richard Barthelmess, here to celebrate the world premiere of his "Patent Leather Kid," the first National picture which opened at the Globe Theatre, Aug. 15, led the parade. Harold Lloyd raced across the continent after him and news of his impending arrival here, to make a new picture, stimulated interest in the film playhouse world. The Duncan sisters were busy putting across "Topsy and Eva" at the Rivoli. It seemed that Broadway's 1927 fall season in the films was beginning in a really big way.

Here is the lineup of opened, or shortly to be opened movie pieces of the first magnitude: "Wings," Paramount's epic of the air, opened at the Criterion to packed house Aug. 12. "The Patent Leather Kid," in which First National stars Richard Barthelmess, opened at the Globe, Aug. 15. "Topsy and Eva," a United Artists production starring the Duncan Sisters, opened at the Rivoli Aug. 6. "Les Miserables," a Universal Pictures Corporation picture, to open at the Central Theatre Aug. 21.

To the tune of whirring airplane motors and the zipping of bullets "Wings" was flashed across the screen at the Criterion Theatre for the first time, Friday night, Aug. 12. As the spectators passed through the lobby they saw a Hall of Fame of 17 leading heroes of aviation. Outside the theatre a great electrical sign depicting a battle above the clouds thrilled the crowds on the great thoroughfare. Among the prominent aviators whose portraits were exhibited in the Hall of Fame, were the heroes of the four recent trans-oceanic flights and Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, Quentin Roosevelt and Nungesser and Gull.

Five thousand persons applied for the 465 tickets available for the opening of "Wings." It had been necessary to reduce the seating capacity of the playhouse in order that special noise making apparatus could be installed satisfactorily. General Mason M. Patrick, Chief of the Army Air Service, who aided in arrangements for filming the picture, headed a list of distinguished guests attending the opening. Among these were Owen Davis, playwright and scenario writer for Paramount; Adolph Zukor and Jesse L. Lasky of the Paramount Company and John Monk Saunders, who wrote the scenario. Practically all the stars of the company were prevented from attending the premier because of work they were doing on other pictures.

"The spectator is seated with the pilot in 'Wings.' He soars to heights where the earth becomes a shapeless blotch, rides through the hitherto unseen canyons of the clouds. He fights through every swirling dive and maneuver of aerial combat. He swoops down toward earth in pursuit of the aerial enemy and zooms back to the sky seeking new foes to conquer.

Nearly 75 percent of "Wings" was photographed in the air from the air. Real airmen are seen on the screen. William Wellman, the director, used 129 planes in the taking of this picture, manned by the most able and courageous fliers of the world. Aces of four nations, American, French, British and German worked simultaneously side by side in the making of the production.

In one of the most spectacular film shots ever taken, the tremendous take-off of everyone of the planes to go into battle is shown, literally filling the sky with the warriors of the air. Every type of plane used by the opposing armies at the front is shown, from the tiny Spads to the giant bombing gothas, and each is revealed in the midst of its destructive death dealing activities in the war.

 policemen were seriously injured and 121 slightly injured in battling the communists.

Anti-American agitation among the radicals continues.

The local Sacco-Van Zetti committee called to the central committee at Boston asking that Van Zetti's body be sent to Paris for exhibition on September 19, when the American Legion convention opens. It is planned to make the day one of mourning among Sacco Van Zetti sympathizers.
