CHICAGO IS CRIME CITY SAY POLICE

Windy City Has Outburst of Murders and Hold-ups

CHICAGO, Sept. 29. (LP)—Once again Chicago blushing lays claim to the title: America's Crime Capital.

Police are more active now than they have been since Mayor "Big Bill" Thompson was elected last April, when scores of police squads amply armed with machine guns and other devices, roamed the town. Even State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, incensed at the tactics of some gangsters, has issued a scathing denunciation of terrorist methods and has promised protection to those who go to the stand as state's witnesses.

Headlines Tell

Wednesday newspaper headlines tell a graphic story of crime here.

"Slayer kills father of four near death corner."

"Two bombs terrify hundreds."

"Guard for 16 murder witnesses."

Whether homicide actually has increased since Mayor Thompson took office has not been disclosed. "Big Bill" has claimed a 60 per cent reduction. Nevertheless the present flare-up is greater than anything Chicago has seen since the roving days of Hyman Weiss, Dion O'Banion and the rest of the bootleg crew.

The unpretentious corner at Milton and Oak streets, less than a mile from exclusive Lake Shore drive, has a nondescript grocery, a couple of other Ghetto stores and a few smoked-caked brick buildings in which Italians live. That corner has been painted "death corner," because at least a dozen persons have been shot to death there.

It's the alky war on a small scale. San Guizarro, 44, father of four children, was not far from the intersection—he had left his home to get some milk for the family—when a shotgun blazed at him. He was almost decapitated.

In the killing, police foresaw a possible reopening of the bootleg feud in the Ghetto which for some weeks has smoldered without bloodshed.

BOOKLENDER IS SHOT AS HE RUNS

went into the brush back of his home and soon returned with the liquor, a vile brand of moonshine. As the delivery was made, Talent pulled his gun and told Zimmerman he was under arrest. Instead of throwing up his hands as ordered, Zimmerman attempted to knock the revolver from Talent, and started to run. Talent fired several shots into the ground.

Hickman, hearing the shots and seeing Zimmerman running down the roadway and no sign of Talent, believed the bootlegger had shot the officer and fired at the man. He continued to run and as Talent followed him Hickman saw Talent uninjured the sheriff on their return to Medford.

Zimmerley, officers said, had been sought for the past year, having been furnishing liquor to high school boys as well as older men, according to information received at the sheriff's office. His arrest, it is believed, will break up a liquor ring in this county.

LOWMAN SAYS BRIDGES WILL STAY CLOSED

Prohi Chief Says Mexican Request for Later Hour Not Justified

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29. (LP)—Seymour Lowman, prohibition chief announced Wednesday that any efforts to keep roads into Mexico from California open after 6 p. m. at night would be frustrated.

Lowman made it plain he thought the present closing hours of the bridges were proving satisfactory and that he did not contemplate any change. He disclosed that requests for later bridge hours have come from San Diego and El Paso, but that both had been refused.

A protest was received today from the ministerial alliance of El Paso, but Lowman replied that he planned no change there.

An Open Letter to the Editor

From the President of General Motors

LAST SPRING I wrote you that my belief in the country newspaper had led us in General Motors to decide to advertise our products together in the small-city press of the country.

The returns from the series of the messages recently published have justified that faith; and we shall continue to advertise in your community through your newspaper this fall.

It occurs to me, however, that some of your readers may be asking: "What is General Motors?" and "Why is General Motors?" These are fair questions and I should like to answer them as frankly as I can.

General Motors was organized some years ago on the theory that a group of large companies, working together, could render a better service than they could separately. In this we simply applied to industry a principle that is as old as civilization as regards the human family and human progress.

Original members of the General Motors family were Buick, Cadillac, Chevrolet, Oakland and Oldsmobile, together with the Delco-Light Company and other well-known companies manufacturing automotive equipment. By joining together their resources, we were able to establish great Research Laboratories, a 1245-acre Proving Ground and the GMAC Plan of credit purchase; to effect vast economies in purchase and manufacture and distribution; to assure and maintain the quality of every product in the General Motors family. Has the General Motors family principle proved itself in practice?

The best answer, I think, is to compare the Chevrolet, Buick, Cadillac, Oldsmobile and Oakland of today with the models of five or ten years ago.

Then add Pontiac, a General Motors creation. Add LaSalle, another General Motors creation. And then consider how General Motors has developed these cars into a complete line, within which any family may find a suitable quality car at the price it plans to pay: "A Car for Every Purse and Purpose."

Another example is Frigidaire, the electric refrigerator. General Motors had the resources to spend millions to develop a satisfactory refrigerator, and then to apply to its manufacture the same processes which have increased the utility and lowered the cost of the automobile.

We believe that this record justifies General Motors as an economic institution. Its products are quality products, first of all. Their prices represent the economies of united effort passed on to the purchaser. In the last year one in each three automobiles chosen by the public has been a General Motors car. The service of Delco-Light electric plants has extended to more than a quarter million homes, while Frigidaire has become the world's largest selling convenience of its kind.

We believe also that the values now offered in the current General Motors products (which are listed below) prove anew that "many minds are better than one" and that a family of companies, working together, can produce results which are decidedly in the public interest and of increasing benefit to the individual family.

Very truly yours,
Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., President
General Motors Corporation

Uschi things that can be made at home

A Handy Cabinet for the Woman Who Sews

An Attractive Sewing Cabinet That is Easy to Make

Here is something for every Handy Man to build. It is easy to make—it consists of only a few pieces—yet this sewing cabinet will find a real need in every home. This cabinet is popular and many of our Handy Men have found that after the first piece is built there are calls for several more from friends. At any rate, it is sure to win the heart of any housewife.

The cabinet is two feet high, its extreme width is fourteen inches, and the length is twenty inches. Two hinged doors (which may be omitted if desired) close the compartment which is large enough to take all the clothes needing the attention of the needle and thread or darning cotton at any one time.

The cabinet may be built from that wood which resists warping and checking called "ply-wood." Three-ply and five-ply are the thicknesses. The sides and handles, needing greater strength, are made from five-ply wood; the rest of three-ply.

To those handy men who like to work with clays or gesso, the smooth surfaces of the sides, and even the ends, invite application of new ideas in striking color combinations. Or it may be stained or lacquered in the usual way.

If it is desired, the cabinet may be built of some of the usual hardwoods instead of the ply-wood.

Each, and the result will be twelve different and individual photos.
