CONSPIRACY JURORS ARE QUESTIONED

Development of Mistrial of Fall-Sinclair Promise to Rival Original Teapot Dome Scandal According to Information Received From Government.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(LP)—The government today obtained evidence in the Fall-Sinclair jury tampering investigation purporting to connect Mason Day, vice-president of the Sinclair exploration company directly with Harry F. Sinclair in Sinclair's personal activities during the trial which was declared a mistrial.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(LP)—The Fall-Sinclair jury tampering investigation opened on the third day with 11 indignant jurors to testify before the grand jury.

Indications pointed to extensive inquiry into the alleged secret detective work and intrigue results of which may rival the original Teapot Dome probe and scandal.

Meanwhile the government is prepared to submit to Justice Frederick L. Siddons a motion to set a new trial date for the Teapot Dome Conspiracy trial which collapsed yesterday in mistrial the alleged result of jury tampering attempts.

Falling to two attempts to find out what part Mason Day had in shadowing the Fall-Sinclair jury by Burns detective the government tried to pry the story from his unwilling lips.

Day is vice president of the Sinclair exploration company and accused in the affidavits of receiving reports from detectives hired to check on the jury. The affidavit said the real employer was Harry F. Sinclair.

Eugene Blavuet, French chauffeur for Sinclair was also called before the grand jury.

MOVIE MAN GIVES PLAN

Theobald Would Develop Pioneer City in Ashland For Advertising

Carl A. Theobald, who is promoting the development of motion pictures in Ashland has written the following article concerning his impressions of the city:

"After spending four weeks in Ashland, analyzing this city, I find that it is not an industrial community, due to its location and transportation, but in my travels over the world never before have I found a place so adaptable and well situated for a playground of the world as is Ashland. Truly the city of health waters, with its climate and diversified scenery which is a gold mine to Ashland, not in nuggets, but as a universal health resort.

"The one thing in 'Hamlet' breeds contempt and it comes that the people who have lived here for any length of time have ceased to appreciate the assets of this community, yet they have realized that Ashland needed something to stimulate the growth of community and have invested their money in commodities or supposed commodities that have brought them no returns, instead of using the natural advantages that God gave them.

"For example, the Easterner when he thinks of Ashland, visualizes it as a frontier town and still a part of the old west. To have these strangers stay with us, which will bring business to our community we must appeal to his imagination" by leading him to believe we are still frontiersmen by our mode of dress, thoughts and customs, by building a pioneer city as a suburb of Ashland and constructing a studio for the production of motion pictures in this locality for the purpose of carrying out the above program.

"Through the medium of the Silver Sheet we will advertise Ashland as it was never before advertised to the four corners of the earth."

PIRATES ARE HEAVY SQUAD

"Ghost Ball" Appeared on Football Field in Practice Work

Information coming from the Albany College football camp indicates that the Pirates will put a team in the field Saturday afternoon that will outweigh the Normal men about seven pounds to the man. This weight is not worrying Coach McNeal as much however as the experience in the Pirate squad. The majority of the men have had one or more seasons of college competition and this is the item the coach fears most. The Southern Oregon men will be playing their first college football and according to all odds should be outsmarted by the Pirates. Cox, Albany quarter, is playing his third year with the squad and should have a great advantage over the Normal men on this account.

Injuries in the Southern Oregon squad will weaken the scoring and defensive strength materially. Conrad, who directs the backfield defense, will undoubtedly occupy space on the bench. This leaves the judgment of defense to a green man who has never played in a college game.

Mac has not divulged his plan of attack but from all indications in practice, end runs and forward passes will figure largely in the ground gaining for his team. He worked the men until dark last night perfecting passes and runs around the flanks.

The "Ghost Ball" appeared on the field Tuesday night and has been dubbed "Whitely" by the players.

COWGIRL IS TO BE TRIED FOR MURDER

Lorena Trickey Will Face Jury Monday to Answer to Charge of First Degree Murder for Killing 'Slim' Harris at Lakeview Labor Day.

LAKEVIEW, Ore., Nov. 3.—(LP)—Lorena Trickey, noted cowgirl who has been held in jail here for the last two months for the murder of J. P. Slim Harris, will go on trial Monday charged with first degree murder.

It was announced by Sheriff Friday, that an investigation at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, where the couple were supposedly married had failed to disclose a record of any such ceremony.

Harris and Lorena, both outstanding riders and prominent in rodeos, were not man and wife as it was reported and commonly supposed, he said.

Harris was stabbed to death here September 2 of this year and suspicion fastened on Miss Trickey who was arrested and a complaint filed in justice court against her.

The grand jury met today and returned a formal indictment.

The tragedy occurred just before the Lakeview rodeo and was the subject of much comment. Miss Trickey was with Harris at the time he was stabbed, but alleged an unidentified assailant attacked him.

INSPECTORS FINISH WORK

Pear Trees Showing Blight Should be Destroyed Now

Pear trees showing indications of having hold-over blight should be taken out and destroyed at this time of the season, says S. P. Wilcox, county agent.

The County Fruit Inspectors have thoroughly patrolled the orchards of the county, and have marked trees that in their opinion should be eradicated because of blight infection. Orchardists can well afford to take advantage of this valuable service and complete their blight clean-up work before unfavorable weather conditions set in.

The fact that blight was not a serious factor this past season does not mean that it will continue to be negligible in years to come. Every effort should be made towards a one hundred percent clean-up at once, and follow up with control measures during the 1928 season.
