TRADE TERRITORY FARM SURVEY TO BE MADE

experts from O. A. C. and Ashland business men and the entire group will then go over the blanks and make a study of the crops and products which are marketed in this district to the best advantage. This group will then make certain recommendations to the farmers as to what they should do to make their efforts more effective.

A great many farmers have shown an interest in this survey. It is said and realize that most of their number are raising too many products and they will welcome an investigation into what are the crops most adapted to this district. This survey it is hoped will bring the actual facts before the committee and they can then come to some intelligent conclusions.

Considerable space has been given recently in the Portland newspapers concerning a similar survey conducted a few years ago at The Dalles where a complete survey of the farming conditions of that section was made and recommendations made as to future products which should be grown. This past season saw the realization of that program when farmers began to cash in on the experiment. Fewer varieties of apples, for instance, were produced, but the price was so advantageous that the net returns were much higher than in years past. The same was true of other products so that The Dalles has been heralded near and far as a place where farmers are specializing and making money.

Homer Billings, chairman of the retail trade and trade relations committee, which committee has general charge of this branch of the chamber work, has been conferring with leading farmers in all sections of this county on this survey. Mr. Billings, together with Mr. McNair, said today

STUDENTS ON STRIKE TODAY

NEW PORT, Ore., Dec. 5.—(AP)—A strike staged by boy and girl students on behalf of modern music and against grandmothers' styles, opened today when all but 13 high school students left their desks with their books soon after school opened.

Some parents assisted the boys and girls in removing their books. The strike was the second one this fall, staged as a protest against the employment of Mrs. Daisy Hallock's principal.

They want a man and charge Mrs. Hallock has old-fashioned ideas and wears long skirts and doesn't bob her hair. They also claim she has forbidden dances, athletics, singing around the piano etc.

Street Scene Shot In Front Of City Hall

Most folks thought it had been an accident which caused so much interest.

There was a crowd of possibly 100 gathered in front of the fire station.

An investigation, however, revealed the movie screen club was taking a "street scene" during the time the sun was shining yesterday afternoon.

Following the meeting of the club at the Legion hall the street scene was "shot."

"Just an example of what is to come," according to those who are backing the project.

Your Boy and Your Girl them to my husband.

"Henry," said I, "I want to talk very seriously with you tonight."

"But I've got to go down town at eight o'clock to our club when the election of officers for the new year takes place."

"Yes, I know," I replied, "but this meeting is the most important business meeting you will ever attend. The subject is 'Why Live a Life?'"

Then I read my letter to you which you published. He was mad through and through—so furious that if looks could kill I wouldn't be here.

"Finally he said, 'What's all this junk you have on the table?' (I had your letters spread out on the table.)

I told him that they were replies from women who had faced similar problems of philandering husbands who were economic bluffs as well. I didn't mince words, either. "Now what will you do in this," looking him in the eye (your letters had given me courage). "We will sit down and go over every letter and we will analyze each one and tabulate the answers." (You see, Dr. Dean, my educational background had some value after all.)

"All nonsense. You're crazy. What's got into your fool head? What do you think I am, an editing machine?"

But finally he agreed because I told him, "As sure as there is a God in Heaven you'll have to face this business in the courts if you don't face it here with me tonight." (I never knew I had a reservoir of courage. My voice seemed as though it was controlled by your readers who are cheap.)

I feel I could write on for hours, but your space, Dr. Dean, is limited. So I will summarize the answers WE received. Because, joys of joys, and a revelation indeed, my husband actually, (yes he did) got into the spirit of the thing and read every letter and helped me to tabulate the answers. Two or three times he broke down and cried like the child he is. And once, in a rage, he tore up a letter saying, "What does that woman think I am—a blackguard?"

FARM RELIEF BIG PROBLEM IN CONGRESS

chairman of the Illinois public utilities commission which sets rates for Insull's companies.

With Smith and Vore barred the Republican majority would vanish and Democrats would be officially given an upper hand they probably will maintain anyway because of a tendency of independent Republicans to join them in matters of important legislation.

The Smith-Vore affair is to furnish the first sensation on the long calendar of important events in the senate because it is involved in organization of that body.

In the House tax reduction is to be the first order of business.

Flood control will be the second order of business in the House. It will undoubtedly be taken up immediately after the Christmas recess.

Definite action upon farm relief legislation also is expected but it must await its turn.

There are also numerous other important subjects such as Muscle Shoals, Boulder Dam, prohibition, treaties and resolutions to be discussed.
