DEDICATE MT. ASHLAND TO SOLDIERS

Prof. Vining has a splendid idea as to how to create a monument to the soldier boys. He proposes that the summit of Mt. Ashland be dedicated to the soldiers of the world. The boy scouts of Southern Oregon build a stone monument on the summit from the native rock to be gathered up from the mountains. On the top of this monument every year a beacon fire will be kindled that will shine forth through the night as a memento to our soldier boys, living and dead.

The setting and kindling of this fire will be made a great honor to be earned year by members of the boy scout organizations of Northern California and Southern Oregon. Each scout organization will select one or more members of the kindling party, having the greatest merits for the year, according to the scout method of merits, who will repair to the monument and prepare and kindle the fire of freedom. The ceremony to take place some date in the summer each year.

Beside this each pilgrim to the monument will be asked to add a stone to the monument so that in a few years the monument will become a gigantic affair in keeping with the importance of the heroes of the war it commemorates.

It is a good idea. What scout organization will be the first to embrace it?

TO PUT ASHLAND ON THE MAP

E. P. Moore offers a novel and practical method to get Ashland citizens generally interested in matters that will put Ashland on the map. He proposes that a fund be raised as a prize for the best scheme to put Ashland on the map together with a practical method of putting it across, whether work or money be needed to forward the enterprise proposed.

Mr. Moore starts the fund with a contribution of $25.00. He thinks the fund should be made at least $300.00 to be divided into three prizes: $150.00 for first prize, $100.00 for second and $50.00 for third. The prizes will be awarded on the basis of the best article setting for the scheme together with the practical plan for its accomplishment. The article to contain not more than 1,000 words and to be purely constructive. The prizes to be awarded by a special committee composed of Ashland citizens to be selected by this paper.

The plan is a good one. The Tidings hereby adds $25.00 contribution to the prize fund. Mr. Moore proposes that the fund be raised by voluntary contributions, the size of the prizes to be determined by the amount contributed.

Under Mr. Moore's plan every citizen will be eligible to contest for the prizes. The only restrictions on the writer being that the article contain not more than 1,000 words and that the writer either propose a scheme of his own or endorse or develop by constructive criticism the scheme put forward by another contributor.

The purpose being to develop the best ideas for putting the city forward together with the practical plan for accomplishing it.

The fund is now open for further contributions. The names of all contributors will be published together with the amounts donated to the fund and as soon as a sufficient fund has been donated to create a general interest in the undertaking the contest will be started and definite rules for its conduct will be formulated and published.

The Tidings will furnish the space free for the articles contributed.

Who will be the next contributor to the fund?

Contributions will be received at The Tidings office.

More and more people are becoming convinced that pear trees should have heavier pruning than is generally given. This is especially true of such varieties as Monice and Angon. These varieties both tend to be shy bearers. One often sees beautiful blocks of large magnificent trees, which are very non-productive. Where the trees are pruned at times fairly heavily, thus restricting the number of blossoms, a large pear set is secured. In the Dillon Hill orchard, at Medford, is a very pretty block of Comice that are proving very profitable.

Threeways are pruned annually, in such a way as to produce vigorous wood growth the first year, which sets buds heavily the second year, and produces the fruit the third year. This wood is then sacrificed to make place for the new vigorous wood. In a large pear orchard in the Willamette valley, this past year, where the trees have been rather vigorously pruned, following more or less winter injury, the result was heavy fruiting on the pruned trees, and practically nothing on unpruned trees, even rather large, vigorous unpruned trees being unfruitful.

Old pear trees which are not making much new annual growth, and which are covered with thick clusters of old, crooked spurs, can be greatly benefited by pruning. Pruning in this case should be a systematic thinning out of the fruit spurs. This will strengthen the remaining spurs, and give rise to new shoot growth, to form future strong spurs. The fruit the following season will be handsome, and of larger size than if the tree is unpruned.

Children who will be six years old on or before March 1, 1920, should enter school at the beginning of the semester. The spring term classes of beginners are usually not as large as the September classes, and for that reason it is favorable time for beginners to enter school.

Parents will help the first grade teachers and the children too, by starting the little ones on the beginning day. Doing so puts no child at disadvantage and, in a large way, helps the teacher to get off well in the beginning days.

After February 6, 1920, no new pupils (pupils who have not been in school here or elsewhere) will be given admittance to the first grade. All beginners living west of Second street will report at the Junior High school building, and all those living east of that street will be given places in the Hawthorne building. This division will be followed unless there are too many in one of the schools. In such a case it will be necessary to readjust the division line. The aim is to best accommodate the children as to distances from the building, yet the size of the classes in the respective schools will determine finally where the division line will remain.

G. A. BRISCOE,
Superintendent.

A preliminary estimate of the production of metals in Oregon in 1919, compiled by Charles G. Yale, of the San Francisco office of the United States Geological Survey, Department of the Interior, shows a decrease in the gold and lead produced but an increase in the silver and copper. According to the mines report the output of gold in 1918 was $1,270,465 and the estimated output in 1919 is $1,072,661, a decrease of about $197,804. The output of silver in 1918 was 107,323 fine ounces, valued at $107,323; in 1919 it was 211,523 fine ounces, valued at $234,790. The output of copper in 1918 was 2,451,016 pounds, valued at $234,790. The output of copper in 1918 was 2,451,016 pounds, valued at $605,401; in 1919 it was 2,637,714 pounds, valued at $501,355, an increase in quantity of 187,698 pounds and a decrease in value of $104,046. The output of lead in 1918 was 16,601 pounds, valued at $753; the output in 1919 was 2,000 pounds, valued at $114, a decrease in quantity of 8,601 pounds and in value of $439.

Returns from inquiries to postmasters, merchants, dust-buyers and others reveal the fact that many mines in Oregon were idle during 1919. Higher wages in other industries attracted miners away from their regular operations, and costs were so high that the smaller mining operations were unprofitable.

Most of the Oregon placers are worked by the hydraulic system, but the gold output of the dredges is greater than that of all other forms of placer mining combined.

The man who escaped from an automobile a week or so ago when the car was held up by the Josephine county authorities, who were after the men charged with entering the stores in Ashland and Medford, as well as other places, was in Ashland last evening. Chief of Police Hatcher saw the man jump aboard train No. 53, as it was pulling out of the station. He recognized him from the description as the fugitive wanted and immediately telephoned to Dunsmuir for the police to hold him. Mr. Hatcher received word this morning from Sheriff Quinn of Josephine county that the man is the one he has been looking for ever since he escaped from the car when the officer caught his mates. This man, it will be remembered, was struck on the head by the officers when they overtook the car and arrested the occupants, but managed to make his escape in the darkness.

Chief of Police Hatcher arrested a young boy yesterday claiming to be 16 years old, who was accused of having forged a check. This boy had come to Ashland from Seattle about a month ago and had been washing dishes in Curt's restaurant in order to secure money with which to get back home. According to his story his mother had sent him money several times, but for some reason the lad had failed to receive it and it had been returned to the sender. Becoming desperate the boy picked up a blank check book and, it is stated, drew a check, forging the name of one of the waiters at the restaurant. E. W. Plackus of the Shasta grocery cashed the check for the boy, it is claimed when the forgery was detected.

The boy was taken to Jacksonville where he will be turned over to the juvenile court.

OMAHA, Neb.—Some days ago surgeons at St. Joseph's hospital at Omaha took the heart out of Steve Zaklich, an Austrian, who had shot himself, removed the bullet from the heart, where it was imbedded, replaced the organ in Zaklich's body and sewed up the incision. Three days later Zaklich ate solid food and is on the road to recovery. He is practically out of danger.

The operation was performed last Saturday morning after the bullet had been in Zaklich's body nearly 36 hours. When surgeons arrived after Zaklich's fired the bullet into his heart they thought he would die in a few minutes. After he had survived 36 hours the operation was performed.

In performing the operation the surgeons cut through three ribs and exposed the heart. Dr. Sibanek reached into the opening, took the pulsing heart in his hand, lifted it clear of the body and removed the bullet, after which he replaced the heart where it belonged.

An ordinance for controlling the speed of automobiles or other vehicles within the city limits was passed at the meeting of the city council last night. This is different from other, passed by the city, and will go into effect at once. By this ordinance no vehicle shall be driven at a speed of over thirty miles an hour on any street, highway, road, parkway or alley in the city at any time or for any distance. No vehicle shall be driven in excess of fifteen miles an hour on Main street between its intersection with Morton street and Mechanic street; nor on the Boulevard from its intersection with Morton street to its intersection with Oak street.

Other rules of the ordinance were made covering the parking of automobiles, vehicles, and the turning of vehicles, which must be done at the street intersections only. A heavy fine or imprisonment or both is attached to the violation of this ordinance.

The city council met in regular session last night for the first meeting of the new year. Mayor Lamkin, in presiding over the meeting, did not make a formal address, but in a talk to the councilmanic body made several recommendations which will have a bearing on the affairs of the city to further its interests. Among these was the recommendation that the council buy a tractor sufficiently strong to run the road grader, and also to secure a King drag to use on the dirt roads. He also recommended that much more work be done on the streets the coming year than was accomplished last.

F. E. Watson, who has left Ashland this winter and is spending several months in San Francisco, tendered his resignation as a member of the park commission, which was accepted. A. E. Kinney was appointed to fill this vacancy. Other important business matters, such as making appointments to city officials and committees, and presenting reports occupied the city fathers until a late hour.

At the first meeting of the city council for the year of 1920, which was held at the city hall last night, the following officers and committees were appointed by the mayor to serve during the coming year. Miss Callie Biegel was appointed assistant recorder. This appointment was made at the request of the recorider, who is given the authority to select her assistant. Miss Biegel has filled this position for many years and is a thoroughly competent assistant.

The other appointments were as follows:

William M. M. Briggs, city attorney.
F. H. Walker, city engineer.
J. W. Hatcher, chief of police.
J. T. Roberts, assistant police.

E. R. Hosler, water superintendent.
C. W. Fraley, street commissioner.
G. M. Robinson, fire chief.
William Myer and J. B. Robinson, assistant firemen.

M. B. Pinion, superintendent of cemeteries.
A. A. Graves, caretaker of city dump grounds.
A. E. Kinney, park commissioner to succeed F. E. Watson, resigned.

These nominations can be revoked by either party at any time by giving fifteen days' notice.

The annual Southern Oregon Poultry show, which is of interest to many chicken fanciers in Ashland and this vicinity, opened its doors in the M. F. & H. building in Medford yesterday morning. Many "fine feathers" are on exhibition at this event. The rabbit feature is exceptionally large and is of special interest to the children. Exhibits as far north as Portland have been entered.

J. W. Hatcher, chief of police, submitted his annual report to the council at its meeting last night. The total expenses of the police office for the year have amounted to $3228.77. The total number of arrests made during the year were 73. The amount of money received by and through city court fines as a part of this department is $754.45. The amount of money received by city pound sales, etc., is $215.51, and the amount paid out for feed, etc., is $237.63.

Without the least intention of advertising her prowess as a hunter, Miss Kathryn Miller, who gained some prominence a few weeks ago by shooting a coyote while at Pilot Rock south of Ashland where she was teaching school in the fall, has received returns from the story of her hunting episode.

Recently Miss Miller received a letter from the manager of the Pacific Extension Institute of Portland in which he stated that he had read the account of her experience in the Siskiyou mountains as the premier tamer of wild animals, as well as her efficiency in "teaching the young idea how to shoot." He also had noted that she had had experience in different parts of the country, and the spirit of adventure and leadership seemed natural to her. These attributes had led him to make the offer to travel and introduce a new shorthand system in this and different countries, possibly. He stated that the salary would be more remunerative than teaching the Pilot Rock school.

Miss Miller returned last summer from Honolulu where she had been engaged in teaching for the past five years, and is particularly fitted for this work. Her tact in meeting and understanding people as portrayed in the newspaper article has led to the recognition of her merits and gained for her this offer.

LONDON.—(By Mail).—Does a husband's preference for golf, instead of his wife's company, constitute legal cruelty?

That is one of the knotty questions Justice Shearman, a host of legal talent, and London newspapers are striving to answer. And, incidentally, the administrator of the law must decide whether golfing propensities of a husband entitles a neglected wife to separate maintenance or divorce.

The problem grew out of the separation suit of Mrs. Madeline Violet Hadden, wife of Harvey Hadden, who in her petition alleged that her husband spent practically all of his spare moments on the golf course instead of at home.

Hadden, who is quite wealthy, with a yearly income of about $50,000, has employed an imposing corps of legal talent, including Hon. man Gregory, M. P., and others, all of whom are ardent devotees of the links. Even the judge has confessed being acquainted with the "considerable attractions of the golf course at Hodeligh Salterton" where the defendant is alleged to have spent the time demanded by his wife.

YOUTHFUL ROMANCE CULMINATES IN WEDDING (Communicated.)

Burlington, Wash.

A romance begun thirty years ago in Kansas culminated in the marriage of Charles Willis Ward and Mrs. Frances Alice Hockett on Christmas day in Portland, Ore. Mrs. Ward was a youthful sweetheart of Mr. Ward, but fate decreed that she should move to western Kansas with her parents, and as time passed the correspondence between them lagged until it ceased altogether. In 1889 Mr. Ward came to Mount Vernon, where he has since resided, with the exception of fourteen years spent in Alaska. During this time, Mrs. Ward was married to Mr. Hockett, whose early death left her widowed. Fate again played a peculiar part in bringing them together last summer, when each, without knowing of the other's intention, decided to visit the old home place and friends in Kansas. Mr. Ward had never married, and had remained true to his sweetheart of long ago. And when they met by chance in the old familiar spot, love rekindled, and the courtship was of short duration.

The bride is well known in Ashland, Ore., and vicinity, having been a resident of southern Jackson county for some time past. As an efficient trained nurse she more than fulfilled the requirements of that vocation, as the possessor of a bright cheery disposition, a winning personality, qualities which have endeared her to a wide circle of intimate friends, both inside and outside of the channels of ministering to the needs of the weary and distressed. Mr. Ward has a fine ranch two miles west of Sedro Woolley, Wash., on the Cook road, to which he is bringing his bride. Mr. Ward is an uncle of Mrs. R. Westerdijk of Mount Vernon, and has scores of influential friends in this city, who wish them all the joy that this life to give.

NEW YORK.—Jewelry worn by an Egyptian princess of the twelfth dynasty, nineteen hundred years before the Christian era, was displayed at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. It is declared to be the finest collection of personal adornment ever brought out of Egypt.

When marauders entered the tomb of Princess Sathathorinut at some old mound in the last 2800 years they took away her mummy and even the elaborate funeral trappings, but overlooked a niche containing the wonderfully wrought ornaments she wore when attending the ancient equivalent for a first night at the opera.

Prof. W. M. Flinders Petrie, head of an English archaeological society, dug the collection out in 1914, and today it looks as bright as if it had just come from the makers.

It consists of a gold necklace inlaid with carnelian lapis lazuli and green feldspar and another pectoral similarly made of King Senuert II, father of the princess.

There is also a gold collar of double lion heads, a girdle of gold with rhombic jeweled bands, a necklace of amethyst with gold lion claw pendants, armlets and bracelets with goldbars and beads of gold, carnelian and turquoise; and parts of the princess' jewel box, made of ebony with gold and carved ivory panels.

The jewels are identified as belonging to the princess by her name and the name of her father in cartouches on the larger pieces. According to custom, the Cairo museum retained the choice of the collection, a diadem.

Since its purchase by the museum the collection has been in a vault in London, stipulation having been made that it should remain there until six months after hostilities closed.

CHARLESTON, S. C.—A resolution has been offered in the city council asking the state to buy "Citadel Square," the site of the old citadel.

A Coated Tongue? What it Means

A bad breath, coated tongue, bad taste in the mouth, languor and debility, are usually signs that the liver is out of order.

Dr. H. H. HERRICK says: "The liver is an organ secondary in importance only to the heart."

We can manufacture poisons within our own bodies which are as deadly as a snake's venom.

The liver acts as a guard over our well-being, aiding out the cinders and ashes from the general circulation.

A blockage in the intestines piles a heavy burden upon the liver. If the intestines are choked or clogged up, the circulation of the blood becomes poisoned and the system becomes loaded with toxic waste, and we suffer from headache, yellow-coated tongue, bad taste in mouth, nausea, or gas, acid dyspepsia, languor, debility, yellow skin or eyes. At such times one should take castor oil or a pleasant laxative. Such a one is made of Mayapple, leaves of aloe and jalap, put into ready-to-use form by Doctor Pierce, nearly fifty years ago, and sold for 25 cents by all druggists as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

School began after vacation with more than the usual amount of vim and "pep." Everyone seems to be hard at work. We can account for this in two ways: One that we are all rested after vacation and the other, that final examinations are only two weeks off.

The basketball teams are hard at work as they expect to have some games very soon.

Many old students were back to visit a few days previous to the Christmas vacation. Among them were: Raymon Long, from Stanford university; Roy Clary, from Portland; Leith Abbott and Dwight Gregg, from the University of Oregon; Edmund Barrett and Chester M. Cracken from O. A. C.
