ALL ROUNDUP BILLS PAID AND ASSOCIATION DISSOLVED

The officers and directors of the Roundup association are deserving of high commendation for their untiring efforts in the interest of Ashland of the splendid roundup entertainments of the past four years which have drawn thousands of people to this city. The association failed to get hearty support from citizens generally to keep the enterprise going. The past few months the directors and officers have planned and worked to pay off the deferred obligations of the association. Yesterday marked its accomplishment; the last bill was paid.

The question as to what will take the place of the roundup for the coming year is a very vital one to the citizens of Ashland. The past four years have been successful from the standpoint of attracting thousands to Ashland for the midsummer three days celebration, although at a great loss of work, time and expense to those who have directly to do with its success. Ashland should wake up to the benefits of such undertakings and stand behind those who are willing to make the effort. What is Ashland going to do to attract the crowds on the Fourth of July this year? An acceptable entertainment cannot be devised, financed and put into operation in a day. It is high time now that an organization be started to devise plans.

All bill of the roundup boys. They have made it possible to attract larger crowds to Ashland the past three years than it has been the pleasure of any city this size in Oregon to gather together for the midsummer festival. What will take its place?

Company B, Third Infantry, O. N. G., has been transferred to the Coast Artillery, and will be known as First company, C. A. C., O. N. G. This will be the same name as the former company that made such a fine showing during the past world war, when every man in the company volunteered his services when this country entered the great war. All who were accepted made a creditable record while in service.

Other companies transferred are those from Medford, to be known as Second company, Marshfield, Third company, and a new company to be organized at Newport to be known as Fourth company. Major A. J. Vance of Medford will be in command of the battalion.

B. L. Delman, the well known builder and contractor, has purchased the merchandise and real estate of the Ashland Lumber company on Oak street, where he will operate a box factory and planing mill in the near future. This will take the place of the planing mill on B street which Mr. Delman had purchased last summer and had just taken possession when it was burned. The present location is much better, giving the owner a much greater opportunity to expand and enlarge his plant as his business increases.

It is Mr. Delman's intention to reorganize the company and incorporate it in the future, and eventually build a large box factory. For the present, however, he will start with a smaller factory employing five or six men and work up as conditions warrant. He will also restock the yard and carry a full line of building material and also operate a planing mill in connection with the box factory.

W. A. Patrick will have charge of the office and bookkeeping department of the new establishment. Mr. Delman is a practical carpenter and worker in wood and will give the enterprise his personal supervision. The new industry starts out under the most auspicious conditions and promises a bright future.

GRESHAM. -- Northwest Potato Munch and Milling company operating two shifts a day. New additions to plant being made. Portland tax levies have climbed steadily since 1901. County taxes for 1929 leap 23.2 per cent over 1919, in spite of the 6 per cent limitation.

Much interest is being taken in Ashland over the coming of Dean Elizabeth Fox of the University of Oregon who will speak here Tuesday afternoon in the interests of the Young Women's Christian Association movement. Dean Fox has started out on a tour of the state as a part of the nationwide world's service program, which is being presented in every part of the United States during January and February. This project is to bring before the entire country some report of the way in which the Y. W. C. Entertained at Dinner
Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Stock gave a dinner at their home on Nob Hill street last evening at 5 o'clock at which a company of their friends participated. The guest list consisted of Mrs. C. Bierel, Mrs. H. L. Pohland, Mrs. Emma Coffee, Mrs. H. G. Eastman, Misses George Coffee, Calia Biegel, Gertrude and Helene Biele and Messrs. Milton and Elmer Biegel and J. F. Place.

The Misses Caroline Tilton, Margaret Campbell, Joyce Johnson, Beth Johnson, Alta Powell, Frieda Hanson, Jessie Guthrie, Ethel Powell, Pearl Hodgkinson and Lucille Perozzi, with their Sunday school teacher, Mrs. Ada Stannard, were guests of Mrs. Allen of Phoenix Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Allen, who is a friend of Mrs. Stannard, has been bed-ridden and entirely helpless from inflammatory rheumatism for the past seven years. The young ladies sang songs, gave readings and visited for two hours. From there they went to the poor farm where the old people were anxiously waiting their coming, carrying a bit of happiness and good cheer. They then came down to Mrs. Withrow's at Talent where they pronounced her chocolate and popcorn of the best quality. They went down the valley in the interurban and returned home on the train. The group's temperaments were all in accord with the beautiful, sunny afternoon, and after their arrival home agreed they had had a very pleasant time and that there is great enjoyment in making others happy.

SATURDAY'S NEWS
Celebrated Birthday
Little Miss Alice Spencer, 620 Iowa street, arrived at her second birthday Thursday, the 15th inst., and celebrated the same with a fine cake supporting two brightly burning candles. Miss Gail Buchanan, aged three, was present by special request from 3 to 4 p. m. After refreshments the time was most enjoyably spent swimming celluloid ducks on a basin of water.

Shadow Social

Vining Presents Good Play
The appearance of Douglas MacLean as a star of the first screen magnitude was delightfully received at the Vining last night. With Doris May in "Twenty-Three and One-Half Hours' Leave," adapted from one of Mary Roberts Rinehart's stories they established themselves in the hearts of theater-goers as among the special favorites of an Ashland audience. The star possesses the rare attributes of youth and charm, that intangible something that appeals to the young, and awakens happy memories of days gone by in those who have lived past the glamor of youth. The play is another of the particularly good ones that Manager Berger has secured for the season.

Youthful Orchestra Liked
The Goffor Juvenile Orchestra, which appeared in the Junior High school yesterday afternoon and evening, was well received by a large audience at both appearances. The performers were all children and were adepts in their lines. A fair sum was netted for the school from the proceeds.

Elks' Dance
Another of the popular dances given by the Ashland Elks was held in the club rooms last night. A number of out of town people were present, and enjoyed the dancing to the fine music by Lauspack's orchestra.

Turkey Dinner
Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schwein served a five course turkey dinner to the telephone operators at their home on Church street Wednesday evening. The dinner was the annual turkey repeat which is always presented to these guests and was served at 8:30. It was one of the pleasing social events of the week. During the evening the hosts presented Mrs. Ray Murphy, one of the telephone girls who lately married, with a butter knife and sugar shell in Community silver.

Entertained for Bride
Mrs. Halls entertained a company of Ashland ladies at her home last evening in honor of Mrs. Ray Murphy, one of the recent brides of this city. The evening was spent in playing 500. Mrs. Jane Klum won first honors, while Mrs. Homer Barron received the consolation prize. The guests presented Mrs. Murphy with a cut glass water set and tray, after which delicious refreshments were served. Those present were: Mrs. W. D. Gill, Mrs. Homer Barron, Mrs. Will M. Dodge, Mrs. P. C. Garrett, Mrs. Waldo Klum, Mrs. T. W. Sanford, Mrs. George Stevens, Mrs. Cliff Jenkins, Mrs. E. H. Bush, Mrs. H. B. Koehler for the booby prize. The hostess was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Milton Ellis and Mrs. G. M. Frost.

Farewell Reception
A very pleasant affair socially occurred at the Baptist church Tuesday evening when the members gave a surprise farewell reception to Rev. and Dr. Ferris. One of the members took the pastor and wife out for an auto ride and stopped at the church where the others were already gathered. A delightful evening was spent in games and visiting. Refreshments were served, after which a rich informal program was rendered. The participants finally at rather a late hour departed for their several homes earnestly expressing their love for Mr. and Mrs. Ferris and while deeply regretting their leaving, yet hoping and praying for the richest blessings as they go to their new field in Portland.

Congregational Meeting
The Congregational church held its regular annual congregational meeting in the church building at the junction of the Boulevard and East Main street last evening. The usual auspicious dinner was served at 6 o'clock, followed by a social period. After the business meeting was held and the annual election of officers took place. The pastor, Rev. J. D.
