Ray Ellis Haveland, the three-weeks old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Z. Haveland, died Sunday morning at about 2 o'clock, at the home of its parents, at 266 Sixth street. The interment was made in Mountain View cemetery this afternoon.

The prevalence of sickness among families of a number of the members of the Methodist congregation curtailed the attendance at the "Home Day" service yesterday morning, although a goodly number were present and enjoyed the reunion and services at this occasion. Rev. C. A. Edwards, the pastor, announced that when all the sickness "scars" have vanished this congregation will hold another home day service which will be one of the big events in church circles.

Miss Hazel Emery came home last evening from Portland where she had been visiting with relatives for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Yates of Albany, who have been spending the winter in Ashland, leave tonight on train No. 16 for their home.

E. N. Norton and wife and Cecil Norton of the Tourist Garage drove down to Hornbrook Saturday. The former drove the Maribom car and the latter the Columbia, which are handled by this garage, and spent the day in the California city demonstrating their autos. Mr. Norton stated that they attracted much attention, especially among tourists on the trains, who got off to inspect the new cars.

Miss Hilda Sergeant returned home last evening from Portland after spending some time in that city.

Waldo Klum left Friday for Portland where he expects to enter a hospital to undergo an operation.

TUESDAY'S NEWS

Mrs. F. B. Whitney is moving this week from the residence she has been occupying on High street to one on Bush street.

J. W. Berrian, superintendent of the Butte creek hatchery, is in Ashland today on business.

Albert Babo, who purchased the 50 acre Park tract of land near Talent recently, has secured 50 acres of the Bear creek bottom land adjoining his former purchase from

C. W. and C. S. Glasgow. The sale was made through the Lamkin agency.

Mayor C. B. Lamkin has purchased the lot from the First National bank on the corner of Bush and North Main street, next to the W. A. Turner property. This is one of the finest residence sites in Ashland.

The Fish brothers are plowing this week on the Billings farm north of Ashland with a Fordson tractor. This is the first of these machines that have ever been used in Ashland and is attracting considerable attention among the ranchers.

Miss Kathryn Miller has been elected to finish the grade taught by Miss Evangeline Poley in the Junior High school. Miss Poley has resigned to complete her course in the Oregon Agricultural College.

J. A. Gear, a resident of Colorado, has purchased the eight acres of land on Terrace street known as the Henry Easterly place. This deal was made through the Beaver Realty company. Mr. Gear expects to move his family here soon and occupy his new purchase for a home.

Another illustration of the efficiency of the little Tidings was advertised here at 197 Elida street for sale. Yesterday she sold it to Gerald Wenner, of the First National bank through the little For Sale ad. Mr. Wenner is lately here from Washington. Mrs. Conner will not leave Ashland. She sold her home only because it was too large for her to take care of.

Surprise Birthday Party

The officers of the Women's Relief Corps recently celebrated the birthday anniversaries of three of their number which occurred close together. These were Mrs. S. A. Peters, Sr., Mrs. George Robison and Mrs. R. C. Porter. Together the women went to the home of Mrs. Peter one night last week and greatly surprised that lady by their appearance in costume. The various make-ups created much amusement and a general good time followed, during which refreshments were served. Beside the three honor guests there were present Mrs. Ella White, Mrs. Coder, Mrs. Jennings, Mrs. Youngs, Mrs. Lulu Howard, Mrs. Lavina Howard, Mrs. Carlton, Mrs. Harrell, Mrs. Mills, Mrs. Mathos, Mrs. Swingle, Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Robertson.

LOISELAI BIEFU (Written for the United Press.) By Margaret Rohe.

Belinda's so befattered She wears them every where On evening wrap and gown and fan And even in her hair That she is also featherbrain But follows, I declare.

NEW YORK—If the recently widely heralded premiere of "The Blue Bird" as a grand opera didn't bring out many fine musical themes at least it brought out many fine feathers. There were more topknots in the audience than topnotes on the stage and she was a sorry dame, indeed, much bluer than the famous Masterlink fadling, who did not boast at least one feather in her hair not to mention a perfect flock of feathers on her gown, her wrap and a happy handful in the form of a fan.

Some of the head dresses were most amazing. One mass of vivid green short ostrich plumes covered the entire back of the wearer's head and would have turned the queen of the Hottentots a matching green with envy. Paradise in their natural tones vibrated gorgeously above the undulated waves of a fox opulent heads and with arrogant sangfroid the bizarre feather from the tail of Juno's favorite fowl waved in all sufficiency from jeweled bands round several stunning brows.

Indeed the peacock is quite a pampered pet of fashion these days and smart females have sanctioned Juno's choice with unanimous accord. One greenly blue feather from its gorgeous tail adds just the effective and barbaric touch to the costume oriental and when they are bunched into a fan there is an eye of admiration for every eye.

Just to further sanction the peacock feather as one of the rightful first fine feathers of the season, we are using it to write full many an epistle attached to a good stub pen. Where the quill feather of many hues used to do as a first aid to chiography the peacock feather is the very newest and most decorative pen holder now at hand. The ostrich feather has tried to get a hand hold upon the epistolatory situation but as yet it has only a featherweight of popularity and the peacock feather is quite cicky in consequence.

But to revert to the head subject and the way we are numbering the feathers of our head this season rather than the hairs huge fans of cigarettes spreading across the back of the head and fan-shaped branches of gourds are two of the most stunning uses of the feather head dress while gold tissue turbans flanked with sweeping sprays of natural Paradise are almost Queen of Shebaesque in their magnificence. Demure and girlish bands of iridescent breast feathers from all and every feathered creature of the air though they are almost down to not marked so and even little mercury wings of vivid hue and untraceable ancestry add their piquant diversity from each side of a topknot.

There is really nothing too daring, bizarre or frivolous in the feather line with which to crown yourself and judging from the resultant display it would seem that the modern maid and matron looks rather to feathering her crest than her nest these 1920 nights.

PITTY THE SORROWS OF THIS "POOR LITTLE RICH GIRL."

PHILADELPHIA—Miss Lena Carroll, "poor little rich girl" of the fashionable Ogontz school for girls, near Philadelphia, recently asked the court in New York city to increase her allowance from $15,000 to $20,550 a year, stating, "It's awfully hard to live on $15,000 a year, and I'm sure I don't know what I'd do if I got less. I might be able to manage rather well if I got a little more than $20,000."

In giving the "needs" of her daughter, Mrs. Carroll, widow of Joseph D. Carroll, Tammany politician and famous turf man, named some of the school girl's expenses as follows:

- For upkeep of Lorena's limousine—$5,000.
- For toilet articles, hair dressing, jewelry and clothes—$3,000.
- For education and church contributions, $2,000.
- For travel and pleasure—$3,000.
- For physicians, dentists and opticians—$1,000.
- For rent—$2,000.
- For household expenses—$4,000.
- Approximate annual needs—$21,000.
