OUR FUTURE PROSPECTS

Real estate goes up in value because people want it. It goes down when nobody wants it. Logical, isn't it? Well, make Ashland so people will want her real estate and there will be no more land poor grouches in our midst. That condition does not come by accident; it comes from design. Natural conditions don't count for themselves. It takes men to make a city worth while; that makes values.

Ashland is gloriously started up the hill, but she will not continue long of her own accord. She is not a sentient thing that goes fast or slow at will. She is just an opportunity for the activities of men and just in proportion as her citizens think and act for community growth and stability she will advance. That and no more. What is Ashland citizens going to make of Ashland. We say let's make her a great watering and health resort. We can do it, if we will.

The Commercial Club is just launching a tremendous city building campaign. What part are you going to have in the splendid work?

The problems of electric transmission under 300 miles have been largely solved, and the perfection of electrical devices has made it possible not merely to turn the wheels of industry but to keep house by electricity.

They couldn't be built now for twice $71,000

When the talk turns from politics to railroads, and the traveler with the corksire air breaks in with, "There's an awful lot of 'water' in the railroads," here are some hard-pan facts to give him:

American railroads have cost $80,900 a mile—roadbed, structures, stations, yards, terminals, freight and passenger trains—everything from the great city terminals to the last spike.

A good concrete-and-asphalt highway costs $36,000 a mile—just a bare road, not counting the cost of culverts, bridges, etc.

Our railroads couldn't be duplicated today for $150,000 a mile.

They are capitalized for only $71,000 a mile—much less than their actual value. Seventy-one thousand dollars today will buy one locomotive.

English railways are capitalized at $274,000 a mile; the French at $155,000; German $132,000; even in Canada (still in pioneer development) they are capitalized at $67,000 a mile. The average for all foreign countries is $100,000.

Low capitalization and high operating efficiency have enabled American Railroads to pay the highest wages while charging the lowest rates.
