VOL. XLIII

ASHLAND, OREGON, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 10, 1920

NO. 86

CARTER TO HEAD NEW GAME BOARD

Organization of the new state fish and game commission was perfected in Portland Monday. The commission consists of five game commissioners, three commercial fish commissioners and a chairman, the latter acting when the two divisions hold a joint session and votes only when there is a tie.

The personnel of the new commission, created and appointed by the special session of the legislature, is: E. V. Carter of Ashland, chairman; game commission, Charles F. Stone of Klamath Falls, John Gill and I. N. Fleischer of Portland, E. C. Simmons of Eugene and Marion Jack of Pendleton; fish commission, P. M. Warren of Portland, Charles Hall of Coos Bay and Chris Schmidt of Astoria. The respective commissions elected Mr. Stone as chairman of the game branch and Mr. Warren as chairman of the fish department.

Each Has One Vote

The chairman of each department is to cast one vote on any matter in which his department is in conflict with the other department. When there is a tie on such subjects Chairman Carter casts the deciding ballot.

One of the first things the joint commission did yesterday was to appoint Mr. Gill and Mr. Fleischer, for the game and Mr. Warren and Mr. Schmidt, for the commercial fish commission, to segregate the interests of the old commission. Under the new law the game commission will handle all game matters, including the propagation of trout, while the commercial fish will attend to the direction of the commercial fish problems.

Heretofore the fish and game matters have been handled by one commission, and it is now necessary to draw a line of demarcation between the duties of the two commissions, and each will have charge of and handle its own funds. In many things the two departments must co-operate.

The respective commissions will meet at 9:30 o'clock a. m. on the second Monday of each month, and at 2 o'clock the same day the general commission will hold a session.

Fish Warden Clanton was reappointed by the fish commission, and State Game Warden Schoemaker was reappointed by the game commission. The deputies were reappointed and recommendations of Warden Schoemaker as to the movements of deputies were approved. The salaries were continued at the former rate.

H. O. Butterfield has purchased the seven room house and two lots at the corner of Ashland and Idaho streets from G. S. Butler. He will occupy it as a home.

MOVING AMONG HOUSEHOLDERS

Yesterday was evidently moving day in Ashland. The Whittle Transfer company was busy from morning till night transferring the household goods of residents from one location to another, and settling various newcomers into their Ashland homes. Among the moves made yesterday were: Ralph Harris and wife, who are established in housekeeping apartments in Mrs. Van Sant's house on Oak street. Mr. and Mrs. Irving Finley moved from Seaside Drive to their newly purchased residence on Bush street. C. A. Morrison, a newcomer here from Seattle, Wash., had his household goods moved out to the Mann orchard at Belleview which he has taken. Mrs. MacFayden and brother Mr. Dunohue, moved to their new home on Beach street which they had recently purchased. G. P. Ackley moved to a house on Morton street. G. L. Sollenk of Shishyoo had his household goods moved into 25 South Flower street. This was the movement in home settling for one day. Mr. Whittle reports a number who are scheduled for today and other dates in the future.

MUCH FREIGHT IN LOCAL YARDS

The local yards of the Southern Pacific have been the scene of unusual activity during the winter months, and an immense amount of freight has been handled by the men here. During the month of December the number of the freight cars handled in the local yard numbered 13,610, amounting to about 200 each way every day. Tab was kept on the number of passengers passing through Ashland during December, and these numbered 3000.

High School Wins Over Medford at State Tournament

The Ashland high school basketball team was entered in the state tournament being held in Salem for the championship of Oregon, and played with Medford last night in the Armory at the state capital with the result of a victory for Ashland, 24 to 11.

Ashland had been disappointed in its series of games which had been scheduled to be played for the championship of Southern Oregon. The first game had been announced to be played in Ashland, to be followed by others alternating at Medford. On account of the flu epidemic in Medford, the high school team of the latter city claimed, the school board refused to allow any games played there only within closed doors. Under these circumstances Ashland did not feel justified to contest, but entered the state tournament with Medford, and the two teams contested on a strange floor with the results overwhelmingly in favor of Ashland.

Coch Moore with his team are now in Salem. This team consists of McMillan, Clyde Young, Provost, Bryant, Guthrie, Herr and Dale Young. Rilling Schuerman, one of the regular members of the Ashland basketball team, is ill with influenza and was unable to go with the bunch. Mr. Moore telegraphed the result of the Ashland-Medford contest to Superintendent Briscoe at the expiration of the game last night.

EGGS PLENTY AND BRING GOOD PRICE

The February report of the Ashland Egg Society shows a large increase in the production of eggs that are gathered from the various districts surrounding Ashland and disposed of through the Ashland Fruit and Produce association. Following are the number of dozens of eggs sold, and the price they brought per dozen: First week, 797 dozen, at 42 cents; second week, 1140 dozen, at 41 cents; third week, 852 dozen at 40 cents; fourth week, 1230 dozen at 40 cents. These eggs, numbering nearly 4000 dozen, are sold to the consumers in the lumber camps and mining towns in Klamath county and Northern California, where the demand for strictly fresh eggs is almost unlimited.

WATER SUPPLY TO BE INVESTIGATED

At its regular session on Tuesday night the 2nd inst. the city council took up and discussed briefly the question of additional water supply through the building of reservoirs up Ashland creek.

It was decided that sufficient data as to the amount of water that might be available, also the character of foundations for dams at such locations as are most desirable, and a carefully prepared estimate of probable cost of proposed dams, should be gone into carefully and thoroughly before going to our citizens and asking them to vote money for construction work.

Accordingly the city engineering and city water departments were instructed to get busy at once, and take the time and steps necessary to make a thorough and dependable report on the matter. Water measurements at the dam sites will be made during the spring and summer; test pits will be dug to solid rock at proposed location of dam; surveys, plans and estimates will be made, and all available data gathered that will aid in deciding what is best and most practical to do into.

LANDMARK TORN DOWN THIS WEEK

The Ashland Fruit and Produce association has torn down the old White Sulphur hotel building next door which was recently purchased by the association, and are clearing the ground preparatory to erecting an addition to their plant. It is their intention to build this addition this spring to accommodate the growing business of the organization.

The razing of the old White Sulphur hotel removes a familiar landmark from Ashland. This structure was built in 1884 by O. Ganiard, who conducted a hotel business there when the railroad first came into Ashland. Since then the building has had various uses. After it was abandoned as a hotel and boarding house, it was used for a time by the Penn Chemical company for the manufacture of spray dops. Later J. J. Morton occupied it for a grist mill until he erected the present Ashland Mills on Water street. For a number of years the old building has stood vacant and abandoned until last fall it was purchased by the Fruit association, principally for the location to allow expansion for their plant. A lot of good lumber is being salvaged from the old structure.

Alpha Chapter, O. E. S., will celebrate its 40th anniversary Tuesday evening, March 15. This event is an important feature in lodge circles and will be one of the leading social events of the month.

The Social Realm

Cinderella Club Met

Mrs. Mary Wilshire was hostess last night to the card club recently organized among a number of Ashland residents. This club goes by the name of the "Cinderella Club," as one of the unvarying rules is to leave for home before the clock strikes the midnight hour. A Cinderella pin is in the possession of the club, the winner of the highest score each night being given the honor of holding it until it has been won by another contestant. The prize last evening fell to Mrs. W. G. CUREY, who will have the privilege of wearing the pin until some one else is fortunate enough to win it away from her. Four tables of 500 were arranged last evening, and after finishing the playing refreshments were served. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Curry, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Ketchum, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Mrs. J. R. Robertson presented a number of her pupils satraply evening in musical recital in the parlors of the Presbyterian church. The young players not only did themselves credit but their work was certainly a compliment to their teacher's fine musical taste and to her painstaking work with her pupils.

The program was rich with classical numbers with enough of the popular and some touch numbers for variety. Mrs. Robertson does not strive for the showy and spectacular, but seeks to give that fine appreciation that makes music a joy and a solace. The tips appeared first in dress with their teacher to break the dress of a first public appearance and lend every possible aid in helping the fruitgrowers to solve their future problems.

Elimination of losses by use of a combination of arsenicals and the commonly used fungicide, lime sulphur, has been made practical by the department of agricultural chemistry. Use of combination sprays had been attempted many times for the great saving of time which would result from the simultaneous application of chemicals for the control of two or more pests. Damage to the foliage by burning was quite common until the department studied the situation, and by laboratory methods discovered the conditions under which the combined sprays could be successfully used. The college was a pioneer in the chemical investigation of arsenicals which have brought about a higher grade of spray materials than was formerly used. The saving in dollars and cents to the OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis. — Placing Jackson county even more prominently on the map as a fruit growing section is the desire of the college. It has assisted in many ways in the past and is ready to fruit growing interests of the state by the department of chemistry's close control of materials is enormous every year.

Control of the standardization of commercial fertilizers is likewise under this department and no dealer may lawfully sell or offer for sale in this state, lime, gypsum, or commercial fertilizer without first securing a license for such sale. Materials offered must come up to the manufacturer's guarantee in the matter of plant food present. The interests of users of commercial fertilizers are guarded in this way.

Apple scab control through discovery of lime-sulphur as a fungicide, and the value of fall spraying to control anthracnose canker and fruit rot were worked out by the department of botany and plant pathology. Orchard spraying bulletins are regularly issued by this department together with circulars dealing with the control of the more common and serious crop diseases.

ADDITION TO BE MADE TO PLANT

R. I. Delman, who owns and operates the Ashland Lumber company, expects to move the machinery of his box factory which now occupies the Pace warehouse on a street to his plant the latter part of this month. Here he will fit up a permanent box factory and will begin the manufacture of fruit boxes on a much larger scale, employing, it is stated, four or five men from the start. It is Mr. Delman's intention, according to reports, to enlarge his plant this spring and fit it for the business on hand at present, after which he will gradually convert the factory into a large and progressive industry.
