Quiet Wedding Last Night

The marriage of Miss Lela Bonnis Jennings and Alfred O. Moss, two popular young people of Ashland, was solemnized in the Methodist church last evening. Rev. Charles A. Edwards performed the rites. The young couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Pace of Medford. The young couple have many friends in this city, who will be interested in this event. The bride is the attractive young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Jennings, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Moss. He is an ex-service man and has many friends who extend best wishes to him and his bride.

Birthday Party

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Wright on Lincoln street was the scene of a festive last Saturday afternoon when nine little girls congregated to celebrate the sixth birthday of their daughter Vera. The afternoon was spent in indoor games on account of the rainy weather outside. A number of nice presents including dishes, cases, handkerchiefs and ribbons was presented to the little hostess.

At 4 o'clock they departed all seeming to have had a splendid time. Those present were: Mildred Moss, Marjorie Homewood, Esther Spencer, Hazel Walters, Allen, Inez, Dorothy Wertz, Dorothy Wilcox, Gertrude Noble, Vera Wright, Bert Wright, Jr., and little Harriet Jean Weber.

Observed Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Frayley celebrated their thirty-fifth wedding anniversary last Tuesday, and in the evening a number of their intimate friends gathered at the Frayley home on Mountain avenue to help observe this gala event. The affair was sponsored principally by Mrs. Frayley, who was assisted by a host of other friends, and the entire party was a complete surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Frayley. A sumptuous feast was brought by the guests and served during the evening, and Mr. and Mrs. Frayley were given many tokens of the high esteem in which they are held by their neighbors and friends.

Pretty Home Wedding

The home of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Elhart of this city was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday, at noon, when Miss Nora Newton, who is a sister of Mrs. Elhart, became the bride of Perry L. Wait of Gold Hill. The ring ceremony was held by Rev. C. A. Edwards of the Methodist church officiating. Just preceding the ceremony Mrs. E. H. Weren sang "I Love You Truly." The bride was becomingly dressed in a gown of silk and carried a lovely bouquet of white carnations and fern. The ceremony was performed beneath a bower of ivy interspersed with streamers and blossoms of pink. Immediately after the ceremony the guests sat down to a bountiful three course wedding dinner. In the dining room, where the color scheme was artistically carried out in yellow and white, Mr. and Mrs. Wait will make their future home at Gold Hill, where they are widely known and have many friends. Only the immediate relatives and friends were present at the ceremony.

Elks' Dance

The Elks and their families held forth in the club rooms last night at one of their delightful dances. A large company was present and enjoyed this pleasing pastime until a late hour.

Entertained at Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Carter of Alta avenue gave a dinner last evening to a company of relatives and friends at their home on Alta avenue, in honor of Mrs. Bear and Mrs. Fussy of Spokane, who are visiting here while on their way home from Long Beach, Calif., where they had been spending the winter. The guest list consisted of Mrs. Bear, Mrs. Fussy, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Simpson, Glena Simpson, Miss Anna Harrow and Mrs. Keith.

Alpha Chapter of the Eastern Star was exceptionally gay last night despite her forty years of age. This was the celebration of the organization of the first chapter in the state, and a large company of the members and their families gathered at the Masonic hall to observe this festive occasion. A large number of visitors from Medford, Jacksonville and other points were also present. A session of the lodge was held first, after which the meeting was thrown open to the pleasures of the evening. A fine musical program was rendered consisting of instrumental music by the Woods orchestra, several vocal selections by Mrs. Ashcraft, Miss Aiken played a number of beautiful piano solos, and R. F. Campbell gave a number of his delightful readings. Delicious refreshments were served, and the rest of the evening was devoted to dancing and card playing.

Refreshments were served, and the rest of the evening was devoted to dancing and card playing.

Observed Sixth Birthday

Mrs. Eric Weren gave a delightful party Saturday afternoon in honor of her little niece, Dorothy Bergstrom, at which a number of the little lady's friends were invited to assist in the celebrating of Dorothy's sixth birthday anniversary. A happy afternoon was spent by the kiddies, after which they were given a most delicious repast. The house as well as the table was beautifully and artistically decorated in pink, and spring blossoms added to the attractiveness of the scene. Those present were Dorothy Bergstrom, Dorothy Plackus, Ida Gunter, Ruth, Frank and John Billings, Nora Tracy, Norman, Daniel and Kathryn Bergstrom.

Wednesday Club Meets

The Wednesday Afternoon club will hold its fortnightly meeting in the church parlors tomorrow afternoon. Business of importance will be transacted at this meeting, and a full attendance is requested. Officers for the coming year will be elected and plans made for the annual church dinner to be held in the church parlors Wednesday, March 31, at 6 o'clock.

Birthday Party

Little Miss Frederica Hile was a charming hostess on Saturday afternoon when she entertained four of her little friends, with a luncheon in honor of her fourth birthday. The rooms had been made dainty and springlike by the use of flowers and foliage, and at a miniature table, lovely with pink sweetpeas, covers were laid for five. Place cards showed where each little miss was to be seated. The favors consisting of pink lined baskets filled with tummy little chickens and pink eggs, brought a squeal of delight from the happy little kiddies. Snappy bonbons containing caps were eagerly opened and the birthday cake, a dream of loveliness in pink, with its four lighted candles, was especially attractive. Pink ice cream and chocolate were served in dainty cups, "just our size," and each little lass declared "No grown-up party could be quite so nice." The guests were: Silvia Storm, Betty Dean, Marietta Whitney and Marjorie McNair.

Health rules have been formulated by the extension service of the Connecticut agricultural college in the form of a game for children.

It is called "Guides to health, growth and strength of school children," and its rules are printed on a card that may be hung on the wall of the child's room at home.

It is certain to develop boys and girls into strong men and women if rigidly followed.

Here are the rules:

"Drink at least one pint of milk every day."

"Eat fresh, or dried fruit every day."

"Eat some vegetable dish every day (spinach or other greens frequently)."

"Eat cereal with milk for breakfast."

"Drink milk or corn—never tea or coffee."

"Learn to like whole wheat and oatmeal bread."

"Drink at least four glasses of water every day (one glass before breakfast)."

All of these rules have to do with the diet, so five other rules called "health rules" are included in the game. They are:

"A full bath oftener than once a week."

"Brush teeth at least once every day."

"Sleep long hours with the windows open."

"Play part of every morning out of doors."

Grace and Beauty by Priscilla Dean

Care of Eyebrows

A great fad at the present time is "eyebrow shaping." I am going to tell of this in a special article at some future time. There are many young girls who have their eyebrows shaped as regularly as they have their nails manicured. Of course, their appearance is improved. Some very charming effects are produced. Nevertheless, I do not recommend the practice. Once commenced, it must be continued. In time it will naturally abuse the brows to increase in thickness, as well as to become stiff and coarse. Dressing the brows and lashes with cold cream or vaseline will increase their growth and brushing will keep them smooth.

The continued use of cosmetics will, in any face, sooner or later leave traces which nothing will remove and nothing but more cosmetic and a veil will cover. Women who depend entirely upon artificial means of beauty are those who are veritable sure-crowns when unadorned. Who shrink behind doors when unexpectedly interviewed in the early morning and who cannot take part in any amusements or athletics where make-up is useless or out of place.

A dry, scaly skin is often caused by inefficient fat and poor circulation of the blood. For such cases all lotions which contain alcohol or ether, borax, stannum, mercury, zinc, or other ingredients of like nature should not be used. A mixture of glycerine and rosewater, on the contrary, will be found beneficial because of its emollient and softening qualities.

Care of the Complexion

It is easier to ruin a good complexion than it is to remedy defects and improve a complexion that is not good. Often one application of an injurious cosmetic or of an emollient of one's face in attempting to conform to vague and misleading directions given by some unqualified person will produce a disfigurement that years will not remove.

A good treatment for a thick, muddy skin that needs softening and stimulation is to bathe it occasionally with very hot water in which a spoonful each of borax and powdered alum has been stirred. When the face has been well steamed and bathed in this solution, dry with a soft cloth, then massage with cold cream, allow the cream to remain on the face about ten minutes before applying cold water. Use ice water, if possible, or even a piece of ice. Do not rub the face. The cold plunge is merely to close the pores. Those who try this method once or twice a week will be surprised at the improvement it will make both in the texture and appearance of the skin.

Great care should be taken in the selection of face powder. The cost of the powder and the elaborate box in which it is packed are no guarantee of its excellence. From sad experience I have almost come to expect the contrary. There are exceptions, it is true, but they are only apt to prove the general rule.

Some face powders seem to dry up and absorb the natural oil of the skin to such an extent that looks dry and scaly, even though smooth to the touch. Others are so heavy and greasy that they appear like a paste. Each individual should select the powder best suited to her skin. A powder that is unpleasantly noticeable on one woman's face may not be visible on that of another. The varying shades of brunettes powders now obtainable make it possible to suit almost any complexion.

Don't Have Blackheads

In my opinion there is no excuse for blackheads. Steaming and massage will remove them. The application of too much grease to the face will promote the growth of a soft down, not in the least beautiful and decidedly difficult to remove.

One girl wrote me that she had a number of blackheads in her forehead. Before I could reply to her letter someone advised her to pinch and prick them out and to use a small key to press down the surface skin around them. She followed directions, first steaming her face. The blackheads disappeared, but her forehead remained discolored in spots resembling moth patches. These became so pronounced that she consulted a physician. Various remedies were tried without avail. The brown spots became permanent. As time passed, they seemed rather to enlarge than to recede. Their effect was much more unsightly than the blackheads. That, of course, was an unusual case, but it serves to impress one with the great need of carefulness.

That which benefits one person's skin may produce altogether different results when used by someone else. Much depends upon what kind of a complexion one has to begin with, and as I have said before, upon the state of one's health. Bleaching lotions cannot make a billious woman beautiful any more than dancing lessons will make a sway-backed, round-shouldered person graceful.

Even sulphur and molasses, that simple, old-fashioned prescription which sounds so harmless and has always been so widely commended, is not infallible. At school one of the girls I knew cultivated a taste for the awful mixture, took it regularly and developed a beautiful complexion. She recommended the treatment to a classmate afflicted with pimples. The latter tried the experiment and, to her horror, the eruptions on her face multiplied so rapidly that she was forced to consult a doctor.

MINERAL BATHS

Finally Ashland is prepared to administer really scientific mineral baths. Dr. Hawley has just completed remodeling her institution to include mineral baths from the Ashland mineral waters scientifically administered.

She is getting a fine business established in the baths and while her bathing apartments are not large there is room for expansion in her present location over the First National bank and she is prepared to make the additions as fast as the business justifies.

Ashland should feel much gratified over the enterprise of Dr. Hawley is providing the city with an institution that has been sorely needed ever since visitors began coming for the use of the waters. The Dr. Hawley institution is equipped to supply the baths at all seasons of the year and every Ashland citizen should be a booster for the enterprise.
