A letter of the alphabet is a small affair, but it makes a deal of difference in the meaning of an expression. When The Tidings chronicled the happenings at the Chamber of Commerce forum luncheon it stated in the writeup these luncheons would "now be established during the fall and winter." In the setting of the article the letter "i" took the place of "w." Only the difference of one small letter, but it conveyed an idea that this luncheon which was so successfully carried out and met with such hearty favor by the recipients would not be repeated in the future. On the contrary these luncheons are expected to be given with frequency from now on.
