There were no failures in business in Ashland, Or., during the past winter. Ashland noticed the falling off in demand and consumption like other cities, but unlike most, suffered no real business calamity. "Business is picking up a bit," said Wm. M. Briggs, registered from Ashland at the Multnomah. "A large wheat crop was sowed and prospects now indicate a bumper yield. Our fruits, which include pears, peaches and apples, are doing fine. One of the most serious drawbacks is the lack of housing accommodations. There is not a home to be had in Ashland at the present time, but we hope that enough dwellings may be erected this summer to relieve the acute situation." Owing to its climate and the lithia springs, Ashland has become the haven of rest for a growing colony of middle-aged and elderly people who have moved there to remain.—Portland Oregonian.

FLOWERS OF SPRINGTIME.

(By Merrill Arthur Yothers)
The Siskiyous stand drenched in Winter's weeping.
But on their tallest peaks the snow gleams bright;
While through moist earth on north wood slopes are peering
Spring's lamb-tongues, gold and lavender and white.
On every hill and dale on lane and highway
The golden buttercups in gladness spring;
On every tree and fence on road and byway
The meadow larks and robins sweetly sing.
Grassflowers, yellowbells and bird-bills, waking
From out their lonely sleep, amid the throng
Of lamb-tongues and of buttercups, are making—
Each in its own sweet way—a color song.
On every manzanita bough hangs drooping
A fairy land of frosted cluster lights—
What wonder that Earth's tiny things are grouping
Themselves about these beauties and delights?
The evergreen madrons shines and glistens,
Its dark, rich leaves and skin in glory bright.
While at its every finger-tip it listens
To hear new life come flowing with delight.
Deep in the woods where pine trees are a-sighing,
And yet there sleeps a silence, still as death—
Arisen from decay—there is no dying—
From ancient mould there breathes Calypso's breath.
And in these same dark woods there springs, as ever,
Where interlaced boughs and bracken hide,
The wake-robin or trillium, which forever
Lifts up its triple head when March has died.
O, could it be—one might sing on, unending
A song for every flower that springtime brings
Within this vale—such wondrous beauty holding—
But God speaks in each flower and it sings.
—Medford, Ore.

EGGS ADMISSION TO VALLEY VIEW COMMUNITY CLUB

The Valley View district school building was crowded to the windows and doors on Saturday evening when a unique community social evening was given. To promote social good times and raise funds towards the Valley View district's share of the county home demonstration agent's salary was the object of the meeting. A dozen eggs was the admittance ticket and 98 dozen, together with $5.75 in money was received. Frank Craig provided crates for the eggs and will bring them to the Fruit Association to market.

Mrs. Reichert, president of the Parent-Teacher circle, was in charge of the program, which included a piano solo by Miss Mina Milliner; vocal solo by Mrs. W. A. Stratton; talk on the egg market by John Dill; piano duet by Rosina and Frances Gallatin; and the celebration of the electric wiring of the school building with an hour's moving picture program put on by Mr. Allen of Medford.

The ladies, with Mesdames Henry Wiegant, F. C. Hollibaugh and L. H. Gallatin in charge, served a veritable feast which included deviled eggs, sandwiches, home made cake and steaming hot coffee. Guests from both Medford and Ashland were present.

CHURCHES GAIN IN MEMBERS

PLAINFIELD, N. J., April 2.—Churches of the United States made a net gain of 667,000 new members in 1920, according to a census compiled by the Christian Herald. Dr. H. K. Carroll of this city, who gathered the statistics, said that was a marked increase over 1919, when the aggregate number of members gained was less than 44,000.

Dr. Carroll said in 1919 decreases were shown in most of the churches. He compared figures of some of the larger groups, showing that in 1919 the Methodist group lost 75,951, Presbyterian group lost 46,459, and the Baptist group lost 11,198. In 1920 these groups gained, respectively, 237,127, 43,031 and 129,283. The three large Baptist bodies, he said, have not completed their report. When the figures are all in, he said that it would show a gain of 129,000 members.

The Roman Catholic church showed somewhat smaller increase in 1920, of 125,579. Dr. Carroll pointed out that while the number of communicants was increasing, the number of churches and ministers was decreasing. The Methodist church lost 200 churches in 1920 and 203 in 1919. The loss of churches for all other denominations in 1920 was 556.

KLAMATH BANKERS IMPORT PUREBRED DAIRY CATTLE

KLAMATH FALLS, April 4.—The four banks of this city, at a conference with the executive committee of the county farm bureau, decided to import two carloads of dairy cows into the county, provided sufficient interest to warrant it is shown by farmers. Recent efforts to eliminate scrub stock and to promote interest in dairying here have taken root, and the offer by the banks to finance the importation of this stock, it is expected, will be taken advantage of with enthusiasm by the farmers.

MINNEAPOLIS, April 4.—An order for coffee, pie and "stickup sandwich" led Miss Alice Jackson, restaurant waitress, to ask, "What is a stick-up sandwich?" when two young men gave her the order.

"Ask the cook; he'll know," she was told.

When she returned from the kitchen the customers and $50 from the cash register were missing.
