PORTLAND.—State officials of the American Legion have announced a gigantic membership push to enroll a thousand more members in its 110 posts prior to the 27th of this month. Representation of posts as to number of delegates and alternates is based upon their paid up membership 30 days prior to the convention date, which is July 27.

The Oregon department is now in 21st place among the state departments in the Union and far ahead of nearby states, California, Washington, Colorado, Idaho and Texas. Strenuous efforts will be made to move the Oregon department up to tenth place by June 27th. Posts have been asked to appoint committees to interview the eligible ex-service men and advertise the American Legion—the only all-inclusive soldier organization of World War veterans in existence today. Officials state that "any ex-service man who is not a member of the American Legion is against it." If the legion is fighting for ex-service men's battles then he should be with us. Every man outside the legion that is qualified to be in it, is an enemy to the legion because he weakens the organization just that much. As long as the ex-service men are divided there cannot be any real progress made in the cause for which we exist. "One for all—all for one and all for the legion, is the motto of the great veterans' organization."

Nine cities in Oregon, namely Marshfield, Madras, Pendleton, Baker, Eugene, Astoria, Hermiston, Klamath Falls and Medford have received a citation from the national headquarters of the American Legion for their work in connection with the unemployment drive started by the legion last March. The certificates bear the signature of Commander MacNider, National Adjutant Lemuel Bolles and State Commander Lane Goodell and State Adjutant Harry N. Nelson, of the Oregon Legion. The grand seal of the national legion is affixed.

PORTLAND.—A pamphlet containing the names of the Oregon men who gave their lives in the world war, have been forwarded from the Oregon department of the American Legion to state headquarters of the Kentucky Legion. The last day of the Kentucky department convention, held in Glasgow, Ky., August 28, 29 and 30 will be spent in the underground rotundas of Mammoth cave, and will be dedicated to the memory of the soldier dead. A monument will be placed in the cave by the Kentucky legionnaires, at the base of which will be a sealed stone box containing the names of the dead of the world war, from the various states of the Union.

"We believe that this great natural wonder of the world, which has existed longer than man himself and which will live until the end of time will be a most fitting place to erect an enduring memorial to the memory of the dead," writes Emmett O'Neal, department commander, in expressing the attitude of Kentucky toward the memorial.

In the line with the announcement of the United States Veterans' bureau that a "war risk insurance reinstatement week" will be held from June 12 to 17, the American Legion through its 110 posts in Oregon has started a big push among ex-service men. Through initiative of the Legion's national legislative committee at Washington, action of congress was obtained holding open dates for reinstatement of government insurance until March 26, 1926, otherwise reinstatement of insurance would not have been permitted after December 1921.

Strenuous efforts will be made by posts to persuade those who have dropped their insurance to reinstate it and all newspapers in the state are asked to give all publicity possible to the drive.

WASCO, Or.—Wasco legionnaires traveled 40 miles south of their city to install a post of the American Legion at Grass Valley. This makes the 111th post in the department. It was named Hanley-Baker post after the only two Grass Valley men killed in action in the world war. Officers elected were, H. H. Thatcher, post commander; Con Buckley, vice-commander; J. E. Shepard, adjutant, and George Wilcox, finance officer.

BANDON, Or.—The old school building overlooking the city of Bandon will be the future home of Bandon post, American Legion. The post is expending approximately six thousand dollars in finishing the lower floor for an assembly hall, building a stage, fitting up the second floor for lodge purposes and a kitchen. The exterior of the building is to be painted and a new roof is being put on.

The central location of the building makes it ideally situated for a community home and will be a distinct asset to the community, both in point of service and appearance, announced Charles R. Loop, post commander.

NORTH BEND, Or.—The North Bend Legion home which has been under construction for the past three weeks, will be ready for dedication about July 4th, stated L. B. Chappell, post commander. The building will be of concrete. A heating plant and men's smoking room will be located in the basement. The first floor will contain the dance hall 80 by 90 feet. A ladies' rest room will be located on the balcony floor. The roof is supported by five large trusses. A big entertainment program is being arranged, heralding the opening of the new home.

HEPPNER, Or.—Members of the Heppner post, American Legion, were hosts to members of the legion posts of Boardman and Ione and all ex-service men of the county, at a big entertainment program and chicken dinner given at Heppner last week. The occasion was a get-together meeting of the former service men. During the entertainment program members were called upon to relate unusual war experiences.

BLOCK AND TACKLE USED AT FAT MAN'S FUNERAL

DUNSMUIR, June 9.—The funeral of Milton La Due, Siskiyou county's heaviest man, who was buried here, was featured by the use of a block and tackle to lift the remains in the undertaking parlors.
